POWERS AGREE ON BASIC PLAN FOR NAVAL CUTS

Name Committee to Work Out Details.

The Day in London

Here are some of the high lights on the London naval conference from The Tribune's correspondents:

Mr. Steele describes plenary session of conference, at which committee was named to work out details of compromise plan on method of reducing naval armaments.

Mr. Henning reveals that President Hoover has made an about face from Coolidge stand and has agreed to British plan for cruiser cuts.

Mr. Darvah tells how both French and Italians interpret compromise plan as a victory for them.

Mr. Wales tells how United States delegates, obeying Hoover's orders, ban liquor at social functions.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Great Britain and France, with the approval of America, have agreed on a compromise between the French thesis that naval limitation be considered from the standpoint of global tonnage and the British contention that it be by categories of ships. This compromise is now to be thrashed out in detail by a committee which the naval conference appointed today.

Italy, while agreeing to take part in the discussions of the committee, refused to commit itself to any scheme until what it regards as the fundamentals of total tonnage and ratios between the five nations are settled. Japan probably will support Italy.

These were the concrete facts emerging from today's plenary session of the conference, which was held in Queen Anne's drawing room of St. James's palace.

Outstanding Features.

The outstanding features of the Anglo-French compromise are the allocation of categories below battleships by gun power rather than by tonnage, and the lumping of light cruisers and destroyers in one category.

The first feature undoubtedly is due to British pressure and was inspired, to some extent at any rate, by the success of the Germans in designing the supership Ersatz Preussen. This ship is about 10,000 tons, but is armed with eleven inch guns, and if the powers contemplate building such ships they will be limited under this agreement.

The Ersatz Preussen with eleven inch guns is believed to be much more than a match for a much heavier ship armed only with eight inch guns, and it is rumored that it is equal in fighting power to some of the modern battleships with much heavier tonnage and gunnage.

Meets French Demands.

Fusing of the light cruisers and destroyers in one category meets, to some extent, the French demand for the right to transfer tonnage from one category of ship to another category. Within this category they can concentrate on the type of ship most suited to their needs.

The arrangement of the room at today's meeting, owing to the admission of the press, was not quite the same as at former meetings. The delegates sat around a horseshoe table, as before. Prime Minister MacDonald presided in the center, while all around the room were ranged seats for correspondents, observers, and experts.

Seventy-eight correspondents were admitted, while the rest were accommodated in the ambassadors, waiting room, two rooms away, which had been equipped with loud speakers and comfortable chairs and tables. In fact, so attractive was this room that members of the American delegation frequently came out to smoke and chat while the speeches were being translated into French.

Details of Proposal.

The details of what is known as the "transactional proposal," which will be put before the committee tomorrow, are as follows:

1. Each nation is to write down the total tonnage it requires and which it agrees not to exceed.

2. Each nation is to write down the tonnage required in the specified categories, which it agrees not to exceed.

3. The total of all the figures in the categories is to equal the total tonnage figures.

4. Each nation will have the right

A police bulletin, issued at 1 o'clock this morning, called for the arrest on sight of Robert Schmidt, known as Frisco Dutch, for questioning in the murder of Barney J. Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Taxicab company, and Glenn Jackson, a Checker driver.

Lieut. John McGinnis of the homicide squad, who authorized the bulletin, declined to say what evidence he had, if any, linking Schmidt with the double murder. Schmidt, the lieutenant said, was reputed to have been employed by an officer of the Checker company.

Accused of Many Crimes.

Schmidt's police record, which dates back to 1913, has linked him twice with the activities of Eugene (Red) McLaughlin, a younger brother of President McLaughlin.

Joseph Wokral, former president of the company, who was mortally wounded Dec. 11, 1926, while seeking reelection, was reported to have named Schmidt and the younger McLaughlin as his slayers in a dying statement to his wife, Irene Wokral. Schmidt was indicted for the murder and acquitted by a jury before Judge Gemmill the following June.

Again, in April, 1927, the two names were linked in police records. A squad, searching for the younger McLaughlin in connection with the kidnaping of Frank Lawro and Jake Adler, owners of the Midnite Frolics, failed in the quest, but they seized Schmidt and four others in a Maywood bungalow. For lack of an identification by the owners of the Frolics, Schmidt and his four companions were released.

It was assumed by police that assassins lay in wait to kill all the departing guests and that Gordon and Weinshenker are alive only because they decided to stay overnight at the home of Raifman, which is at 1623 Lunt avenue, next door to McLaughlin's residence.

Kill Driver to Silence Him.

The police believe Jackson was killed because he recognized the slayers, whose motive was being hunted in the internal strife of the coöperative company. The company has experienced considerable litigation and some violence in recent years.

McLaughlin, Raifman, Gordon, and Weinshenker withheld their knowledge of Mitchell's last hours from the police all day. They were being sought for questioning after surprise testimony was given at an inquest that Chauffeur Jackson was called to Raifman's home at 2:45 o'clock, a half hour before the double murder. Last night Attorney Leonard Reid of the firm of Litsinger, Healy & Reid, which is virtually receiver for the Checker company, announced the four officials will appear at the detective bureau this morning.

Mr. Reid said that none of the four has the slightest idea of the motive for the murder. Their litigation, involving a tentative judgment of $1,500,000 against the Checker company, has reached a stage where a favorable settlement is in sight.

Charge Graft to Officials.

Capt. Fred Holzer of the Rogers Park station sought information on the status of the intervening petition filed by a number of the driver-owners who alleged that McLaughlin, Raifman, Gordon and Mitchell had misappropriated company money, had grafted on the supplies and received side commissions on gasoline and other purchases. An accounting was asked and the intervenors declared the officials would be found to owe $200,000 or $300,000 to the stockholders.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson referred that petition to Master in Chancery Thomas J. Peden, along with the suit filed by the Checker Cab Manufacturing Company of New Jersey, which claimed breach of contract. In a preliminary report Master Peden found merit in the suit of the eastern company and his views were construed as indicating that the intervenors should be given an accounting.

Capt. Holzer said he was informed Mitchell's salary as treasurer was $20,000 a year and that he had been treasurer three years. Prior to that time he was a chauffeur. He had bought

CO-ED ENDS HER LIFE WHEN DIETING FAILS TO KEEP WEIGHT DOWN

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—A year ago Maria Busacca was an unusually lovely girl, but then she began to gain weight. Dieting did not help her and in the last year her weight rose from 130 to 235 pounds.

This morning her parents found her dead from gas in the kitchen of their Brooklyn home, and the only reason they could give for her suicide was her despondency over the corpulence which destroyed her beauty.

The nineteen year old girl, a student at New York university, was the daughter of Gioracchina Busacca, a well to do dress manufacturer. She was studying to become a teacher.

In her bedroom near the body today her parents found a note. It read:

"Dearest father and mother: Very sorry to do this. I am very much discouraged. I hope Rosario [her brother] will be good to you. Don't let the world beat you as it has beaten me. Love. MARIA."

2 GOLD STRIKES MADE NEAR OLD ARIZONA MINES

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 30.—(AP)—News of two gold strikes in Arizona was received here today. From Tombstone, once famous Arizona mining center, came the report of W. E. Holt, that a rich vein had been struck in the Tombstone extension, an old mine abandoned several years ago.

Kingman, in Mohave county, was the source of the other report, which has resulted in miners from many sections flocking to the scene of the strike. Verro Peterson and M. B. Dudley, Arizona miners, uncovered the find, which they described as a rich gold vein, near the old Pilgrim mine, thirty miles northwest of Kingman.

Actor Arlen Knocked Out by Chair in Film Studio

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Richard Arlen was knocked unconscious in a motion picture scene this afternoon. Another actor threw a chair at Arlen, as the script demanded, and Arlen ducked as the script also demanded, but the chair hit the wall, broke apart and a section of it hit Arlen in the back of the head. The actor sustained a deep gash.

Girl Bandit Holds Pistol as Pal Robs Taxi Driver

A blonde girl bandit held a pistol last night while her man companion took $15 from George Schultz, 6323 South Sangamon street, a Checker taxicab driver, at 22d and Throop streets. The couple entered the cab at 19th and Halsted streets.

Blame Me for Love Affair —Hutchinson

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—All three principals in Mrs. S. S. Hutchinson's $300,000 alienation suit against Mrs. Edith Taylor were in tears when Hutchinson, a Chicago film distributor, took the stand on behalf of the other woman today and endeavored to absolve Mrs. Taylor by shouldering the blame for the couple's illicit romance of eighteen years. Hutchinson sobbed out his story and bailiffs led both his wife and Mrs. Taylor out, when they began to weep hysterically.

Hutchinson testified that his wife's "arrogance and extravagance" so contrasted with Mrs. Taylor's "modesty and thrift" that he unconsciously fell into an admiration for the latter.

"Well, had you an affection for your wife when you met Mrs. Taylor?" Attorney Byron Hanna asked.

"I had no longer love for her. I had respect for her. But my feelings had chilled. I did not think she treated me right."

Mrs. Taylor, who was on the stand for a short time before Hutchinson, said she was 28 when she met Hutchinson, then a small shopkeeper. The meeting occurred in Valparaiso, Ind., where she attended college in 1908. She was unaware that Hutchinson was married and did not find out for ten years, she said.

Didn't Know He Was Married.

"She did not know I was married," Hutchinson testified. "I made love to her. Our relations began at my suggestion. When she learned I was married she said she would leave me. I begged her not to. I told her my wife was selfish and arrogant and greedy for my money. She was bleeding me white. I told Mrs. Taylor I was not happy."

Mrs. Taylor did leave Chicago, he said, and the baby was born in Omaha and was given the name Hutchinson. In the meantime he assumed the name C. P. Taylor.

The defendant's attorney held up two photographs, one being the Hutchinson $300,000 mansion on Sheridan road, Chicago, and the other the bungalow court apartment where Hutchinson lived with Mrs. Taylor on Las Palamas avenue, Hollywood.

"Did you leave this palatial residence and your wife and come to this modest bungalow to live with Mrs. Taylor and Jane?" he asked.

"I did. I rented the little bungalow court for $55 a month so Jane could be near a good school. I wanted to watch over her and help her. The big house in Chicago was too expensive and too stiff for me."

Hutchinson said he had offered to build Mrs. Hutchinson a home in Los Angeles in 1920 if they could sell the Sheridan road home in Chicago.

"But we couldn't sell it. I didn't set a price, but Mrs. Hutchinson told brokers she wouldn't sell for less than $450,000."

Hutchinson explained his income at the time the Chicago residence was built was between $26,000 and $40,000 a year.

Hutchinson testified that first plans for the Sheridan road place in Chicago covered a $200,000 home, but that his wife changed and expanded the plans until the house and fixings cost twice that.

Hutchinson said he was "about 60 years old." He and Mrs. Taylor both instructed counsel to resist efforts to put Jane Taylor, the pair's 16 year old daughter on the stand before Judge Arthur Keech. The child, they said, does not know her parents are not married.

Lawyer Knocked Down When He Resists Robbers

Two young robbers held up four persons in the garages at the rear of their homes on the south side within an hour last night. Attorney Joseph J. Grish, 6615 South Rockwell street, was knocked down when he resisted the bandits. They took $16 from him and ripped open his vest with a penknife to get a few pennies that had slipped through a hole in a pocket. The other victims and their losses were: Clay Jones, 3524 South Washtenaw avenue, a $10 ring and his automobile; Charles Mischnick, 6453 South Maplewood avenue, $20, and John Dellis, 6425 South Rockwell street, $15.

Asks New Dry Law—One U. S. Can Enforce

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—America is living "under the reign of the bludgeon and force," declared Congressman George S. Graham [Rep., Pa.], chairman of the house judiciary committee, who tonight advocated a "new system of control" of alcoholic liquor "that will not be utter prohibition and that can make the enforcement of the law plausible and practical."

Mr. Graham was the principal speaker before 500 members of the Federal Bar Association of New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut at a dinner at the Hotel New Yorker. His remarks about prohibition repeatedly were cheered.

Neither Wet Nor Dry.

"I am neither a wet nor a dry," Mr. Graham declared, "but an American citizen. We must dig and dig until we get to the center of this cancer that is eating out the very life of this nation. Over 50 per cent of the prisoners in our federal prisons are the product of enforcement laws and of this prohibition."

Picturing the country in a "sorry state," he said: "Crimes multiply, revenues fall and additional expenditures are voted so that this special work of enforcement can go on. I would not want to restore the old condition, but I do believe that without it we could frame and fashion a new system of control."

Consider All Bills Fairly.

Seven or eight bills to amend or repeal the eighteenth amendment are to come up for consideration Feb. 12 before the committee which Mr. Graham heads. He said that his committee would take up the proposed bills with fairness to both sides. He wanted to make the administration of law as "impressive as possible," he explained, but he did not favor the "leaving of justice to petty officials." He disapproves, he added, the proposal to allow commissioners to judge and sentence without jury.

Mr. Graham said he favored the present plans for increasing prison facilities, but declared that it was only a beginning; "n another ten years we will need similar increases."

COURT PROTECTS FREE SPEECH IN THIS HOUSEHOLD

John Maloney sat in his home at 5654 Emerald avenue last night delivering a monologue, while his wife, Mrs. Nellie Maloney, sat rocking with her eyes on the clock, saying nothing. The clock struck twelve. Then Mrs. Maloney took up the burden and Maloney listened, in silence.

For three years since their separation, Mr. and Mrs. Maloney have been thinking up choice bits of irony. Maloney was pressed to get all of his off his chest by midnight. But Mrs. Maloney has until midnight tonight to say all of the things that should be said after a reunion.

This domestic arrangement was approved yesterday by Superior Judge Lewis when Mrs. Maloney appeared before him to press her divorce suit on grounds of cruelty, claiming that her husband quarreled constantly. Maloney made the same complaint. Judge Lewis, however, observing that it takes two to make a quarrel, suggested that each listen to what the other has to say and proposed alternate days of silence for husband and wife, with Sundays reserved for Mrs. Maloney to exercise her feminine prerogative of having the last word.

The Maloneys agreed to give the plan a trial and yesterday being Thursday, Mr. Maloney talked until midnight.

GOVERNOR WILL URGE SPEED ON REASSESSMENT

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Gov. Emmerson intends to bear down heavily on state and local tax officials today to complete the Cook county reassessment. The delay, in his opinion, is detrimental to the state and may become embarrassing.

In delinquent 1928 taxes and 1929 taxes soon to be due Cook county is indebted to the state for more than $30,000,000. The 1928 taxes are estimated at $14,005,000 and the 1929 taxes at $18,106,000. Gov. Emmerson wants to know when the first part of these taxes is going to be paid and will attempt to pin the tax officials down to a definite forecast. The governor is upset because the promises that the reassessment would be completed long before this time have not proved true.

Wants Money for Bonds.

The soldiers' bonus bond issue of 1923 for $55,000,000 called for a payment of principal totaling $2,750,000 last year, and another of the same amount for this year, and, in addition, interest on all the outstanding bonds. This interest is piling up at the rate of $2,000,000 a year. This obligation alone requires about $9,500,000 for the two years, and the governor desires that Cook county pay its share.

It also disturbs the governor that the state cannot heed the plea for cash to educate its school children. Under the statute the state owes Chicago $3,700,000 for 1929 which it has been unable to pay. This is the city's part of the state's distributive fund. This year the same obligation calls for $3,400,000 to be paid to Chicago.

Combining last year's and this year's figures, the governor's auditors estimate that the state owes the Chicago schools $166,400 as contributions for the care of delinquents, $100,000 for the education of the deaf and blind and $260,000 for the training of crippled children. Last year's allowances have not been made and the governor wants to know when he can expect funds with which to pay the sums for this year.

What Governor Will Ask.

"I am going to ask the tax officials point blank," said Gov. Emmerson last night, "when they expect to complete this reassessment. I shall not step into your local financial affairs in any way."

To the meeting to be held in the Stevens hotel at noon the governor has invited State Treasurer Custer, State Auditor Nelson, and State Director of Finance Kinney to present the picture of state finances. He has also invited William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission; Commissioner Spivey, who is in Florida; Commissioner Telford, who is in Arkansas, and Commissioner Francis, who is reported in California.

In addition the five members of the Cook county board of assessors and the three members of the board of review will be guests.

There was gossip in political circles yesterday that the governor will put Mr. Malone on the spit. The state tax commission fixes the valuations of the railroads and the capital stock assessments of most corporations. Gov. Emmerson is reported to have received complaints from many down state county clerks that they have been unable to extend their taxes because of the lack of railroad and capital stock figures, and it is predicted by them that tax collections will be delayed.

Malone Explains Delay.

Mr. Malone, before leaving for Springfield yesterday morning, said that he had been withholding the railroad and capital stock figures because of the suit in the State Supreme court of Attorney Ode L. Rankin, which sought to overturn the reassessment. That was decided against Rankin on Wednesday.

"We are ready now to distribute the figures and will start on it Monday," said Mr. Malone.

Gov. Emmerson is also concerned with the basis of valuation established in Chicago. For the reassessment the value of real estate is made 37 per cent of the appraisal of the property. Some persons who have talked to the governor fear that the railroads will insist upon being put in a 37 per cent basis instead of on an alleged 60 per cent basis as heretofore.

Revenue Would Be Reduced.

On the 60 per cent basis the railroads of the state have been valued at $716,290,949. On a 37 per cent basis that value would be reduced to $441,712,748, which means a large reduction in taxes.

Mr. Malone said yesterday that he had prevailed upon the railroads to accept the 60 per cent basis of valuation. Some of the governor's advisers surmise that the railroads will later fight the high assessment with an excellent chance of winning.

The capital stock assessment is also a sizable sum, having been $116,571,436 in 1927.

Nearly every officeholder who has expressed an opinion on the subject has advocated a special session of the legislature to find a remedy for Chicago's financial difficulties. It is expected that the local assessors and reviewers of taxes will attempt to sound out the governor on that idea today.

Won't Discuss Special Session.

Gov. Emmerson told some of his confidential friends yesterday that he will not discuss a special session, although he is willing to listen to any views or suggestions which may be made. It is understood that the governor doubts that a quorum would attend a special session before the primary if it is called.

It is generally taken for granted that no session will be attempted before the primary. Between that April date and the November election many members of the legislature will be candidates for reelection, and would probably use more care in casting their votes than in ordinary regular sessions.

No money was found yesterday for any local governmental purpose, except $40,000 to permit the firemen's pension fund payments to be made to 1,540 beneficiaries on Feb. 6. This roll amounts to $97,000 and the fund now has $60,000. The $40,000 was raised by City Controller Schmidt making the purchase of that amount of tax anticipation warrants for his own bank.

The board of education found no cash. President Caldwell said that he had not even heard from the agent sent to New York. Mr. Caldwell sent a letter to 288 neighborhood banks in the city and county, in the hope of interesting them in the financial difficulties of the school board. He asked the bankers to meet with him in his office at 3 o'clock on Feb. 4.

Caldwell States Situation.

In his letter Mr. Caldwell said: "The seriousness of the present financial crisis, with which you no doubt are familiar, demands frank discussion at this time. The inability of the board of education to pay a large number of teachers and other school employés living in your community has unquestionably affected you and certain depositors of yours with whom they are doing business.

"This meeting is to be held only for the purpose of reviewing constructive suggestions from you as to future procedure and you may be assured that there will be no request for assistance through the sale of tax anticipation warrants."

One complaint has been filed with the board that an Oak Park bank refused to extend credit to teachers in that district. The civil employés of the board have a pay roll due today of about $365,000, and no money is available for it.

Evanston Schools Seek Cash.

Evanston school officials have been unable to borrow money on tax anticipation warrants. Charles N. Stevens and Wirt Wright, an Evanston banker, have gone to New York in the hope of finding a buyer.

The report, printed yesterday, that a reassessment of Evanston had been ordered, is untrue. The assessment was approved yesterday by the board of assessors, after more than a month of investigating land and building values.

The county board made an appeal for cash to Silas H. Strawn of the citizens' committee through Commissioner Newby and J. Louis Jacobs, efficiency expert of the board. They asked Mr. Strawn for approximately $2,000,000. They want $425,000 for December pay rolls, $840,000 for January salaries, $135,000 for mothers' pensions, $37,000 for the child finding home fund, $200,000 for hospital nurses, $60,000 for industrial schools, $170,000 to pay jurors' fees, and $30,000 for the state's attorney's special fund. This $1,957,000 is asked for the period up to Feb. 1, and the county then desires about $1,000,000 a month.

Mr. Strawn said that he will confer with his committee before making any statement, but it is improbable that the committee will approve of the request in full. Statements from the committee heretofore have indicated that it will not undertake to supply cash for the entire pay roll of any local government, and the estimate presented does not appear to have omitted any one on the county pay roll.

President Cermak of the county board issued a statement yesterday showing the financial condition of the forest preserve fund. The preserves have been operating heretofore on a cash basis, but were forced on Wednesday to sell $500,000 in bonds at a record low price of 90.

United Charities Asks Funds.

Joel D. Hunter, general superintendent of the United Charities, made an appeal for more funds yesterday. Relative to the emergency Mr. Hunter said:

"The emergency which thousands of Chicago's needy families face owing to the condition of the city and county finances which has resulted in the cutting of budgets for public social service and relief departments, and in the case of the county, the holding up of mothers' pension checks, continues as serious as when we called the attention of the public to the situation two weeks ago.

"We are sending out 15,000 more appeals in the hope that a liberal response will be forthcoming by the first of the month, when we shall have a deluge of accounts to meet for relief furnished the more than 3,600 families we have been caring for this month. The continued severe weather and continued unemployment, coupled with the city and county financial situation and budget cuts, have produced a situation that has brought heavier demands upon us than we have had to meet in many years."

New Relief Plan Advanced.

A new organization, Real Estate Taxpayers' relief, put out a plan yesterday to issue 40 year bonds to take up the local 1928 and 1929 taxes. The plan is to put all local governments on a cash basis, according to the sponsors, but the city, county and school board have already spent 1928 and 1929 taxes and are now attempting to borrow on 1930 taxes. The governing committee of the organization includes W. B. Martin, capitalist; Edward Richter, attorney; Charles L. Schwerin, contractor, and James W. Wolfe, who for years has been secretary of the Chicago Fireproof Building association.

Chicago now has a brand new nurses' home costing $400,000 and no money with which to operate it. Acting Health Commissioner Koehler presented the matter to the finance committee of the city council yesterday.

EUROPEANS WONDER HOW BIG CHICAGO CAN BE SO BROKE

The idea of Europeans that the United States is a land of untold wealth has been shattered by Chicago's financial difficulties, which are freely reported in the European press. This was the observation of Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, who returned to Chicago yesterday after ending his work as American member of the committee to organize the Bank of International Settlements.

"Europeans have read the cabled reports about Chicago being broke but they cannot understand how such a big and reputedly prosperous American city could have got into such financial difficulties," Mr. Traylor said. "The English, French, and German newspapers are carrying daily reports of our situation. My own idea is that the situation should improve, if only because it can't get much worse."

The plans for the international bank are ready for formal acceptance by the seven signatory nations, Mr. Traylor said. Thereafter, the officers and directors will be chosen and the capital subscribed. It is expected the bank will be ready for operation by April 1, when the Young reparations plan goes into effect.

$136,580 SLASH IN WEST PARKS' PAY ROLL VOTED

Commissioners Act to Lop Off 49 Jobs.

The west park board at a meeting yesterday took action aimed at cutting $136,580 from its pay rolls this year. Forty-nine jobs came under the ax of the commissioners. Some of the jobs were abolished outright and provisions were made for lopping off the remainder later.

As a further economy move, the board voted to purchase a small type of automobile to replace two medium sized cars now in use.

James Recommends Cut.

President W. R. James of the board, as a result of his study of the 1930 budget in conjunction with a similar study of the system's pay rolls, introduced recommendations for the decrease in the number of employés. The other members voted unanimously to uphold Mr. James.

The board passed a resolution which will result in the merging of five of the present divisions of the system into two divisions. The administration and accounting divisions are to be consolidated into an administrative department. And the boulevard, flora, and landscape divisions, as existent under the régime of Dr. John Dill Robertson, will be merged into one department to be known as the horticultural division. This will eliminate three department heads.

Four Jobs Abolished.

The four jobs abolished are those of supervisor of music, held by Walter Curran; "educational botanist," Mrs. Maude Jacobson; assistant secretary, Charles Frazier, and private secretary to the president, which position at present is vacant. Every division of the system will be affected under the job reduction plan, which was referred to the judiciary committee for recommendations at the next board meeting.

Revocation of 1,250 so-called "courtesy stars," handed out by Capt. Walter Stocker, formerly commander of the parks police, were ordered. The board ordered the purchase of fifty lagoon boats at a cost of $4,500.

Funeral services for the Most Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, primate of the Episcopal church in the United States and bishop of Chicago, who died yesterday, will be held tomorrow at 10:30 a. m. in St. James' cathedral at Cass and Huron streets. The body will lie in state in the cathedral today from noon until 9 o'clock in the evening.

In accordance with Bishop Anderson's own wishes, the services will be simple. There will be a plain coffin and no flowers. Nor will there be any eulogy. The simple robes which Bishop Anderson preferred in his position in life will clothe him.

Bishop Anderson died at his home at 4512 Drexel boulevard of a heart ailment against which he made a gallant but vain struggle for ten days. His passing was peaceful. He lapsed into unconsciousness at midnight on Wednesday and the end came at 8:42 o'clock yesterday morning. The primate will be buried in Chicago, but the place of burial had not been decided upon last night.

Given Last Sacraments.

The last sacraments of the Episcopal church were administered the bishop shortly before midnight when hope for his recovery was given up. Afterward the Rt. Rev. Sheldon Munson Griswold, suffragan bishop of the Chicago diocese, remained at the bedside until Bishop Anderson's death. Also with the primate at the time of his death were Mrs. Anderson and four daughters, Mrs. Haven Requa of Lake Forest, Mrs. George Boyer of Toronto, Mrs. Lester E. Frankenthal Jr., and Miss Nancy Anderson.

Bishop Anderson was 64 years old.

The death of the primate leaves two of the most important posts in the Episcopal church vacant—those of presiding bishop of the national church and bishop of Chicago. Bishop William A. Leonard of Ohio will act as the national head of the church, it is stated, until a successor is named by a special meeting of the house of bishops. A successor as bishop of Chicago is expected to be elected at the 93d annual convention of the diocese to be held in St. James' cathedral on Tuesday and Wednesday.

A Successful Leader.

His election as presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States during the last months of his life was the testimony of the success of Bishop Anderson's leadership of the local diocese. Elevation to the primacy also witnessed his deep influence on American Christianity.

Two passions of Bishop Anderson's life were church unity in its final terms—Greek, Roman, Anglican and Protestant — and international peace. He found time to interest himself in unity and peace in such effective ways as to give him international recognition.

Evidence of Bishop Anderson's success as the bishop of Chicago in the past 30 years stands in more than 50 new churches and as many rectories and parish houses; an increase from 90 to more than 140 priests; more than double the number of communicants and a four fold growth of contributions for all purposes. Much credit for the development of the new Western Theological seminary plant at Evanston costing $750,000 is given to Bishop Anderson. The $100,000 chapel at the seminary will be dedicated to him in February.

The part played by Bishop Anderson in the development of church unity is conceded to have been imposing. He was the president of the Episcopal commission on the world conference on faith and order which resulted in the Lausanne conference in 1927.

Known as Organizer.

Bishop Anderson was known as a builder and an organizer and a man of excellent business sagacity, but of modest and retiring disposition.

At heart Bishop Anderson was a missionary. He began his ministry in a remote field in Ontario, and his interest in missionary projects never waned. The bishop was ordained as a priest at the age of 25. Only ten years later, after serving Grace church, Oak Park, he was elevated to the episcopate at the age of 35. He was born in Ontario on Sept. 9, 1865.

On Sept. 4, 1889, Bishop Anderson married Janet Glass of Belleville, Ont. Four daughters and a son were born. The son was killed in the world war.

PUPILS' PARENTS PROTEST RAIL DANGER IN VAIN

The parents of more than 50 school children yesterday agreed to keep them at home unless the board of education rescinds its recent order under which the children must pass an unprotected railroad crossing to attend the new Burbank Junior High school. This was decided after a committee of five parents had called on Superintendent of Schools Bogan and Joseph F. Gonnelly, district superintendent in charge of junior high schools.

The children are at present attending the Lovett school, 6333 Bloomingdale avenue, but must transfer to the Burbank school, three blocks north, on Monday, the start of the new semester. The parents declared it will be dangerous to send the pupils to the new school by a route which is crossed by sixteen tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad.

LOUISA JOHNSON ASKS DIVORCE ON DRINKING CHARGE

Mrs. Louisa Mevina Johnson of the Ambassador East hotel filed a bill for divorce in the Superior court yesterday against her husband, Francis Jewett Johnson. The bill, drawn by Attorney Joseph B. Fleming of the law firm of Kirkland, Fleming, Green and Martin, charges habitual drunkenness.

Mrs. Johnson declares that her husband had been drunk for more than two years before their separation on Jan. 1, 1928. Her husband's drinking, she complains, created an intolerant condition and made her life burdensome. The divorce action had been expected in social circles since the separation.

The Johnsons were married on Dec. 2, 1912, at Minneapolis. They once lived in Lake Forest. Mr. Johnson was formerly the representative of the Equitable Trust Company of New York in Chicago. He has been retired for five years.

ILEANA TO WED GERMAN COUNT IN "LOVE MATCH"

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 30.—(AP)—After personally announcing her engagement to Count Alexander Hochberg at a gathering of students in Predeal, and describing it as "the happiest love match," Princess Ileana of Rumania arrived with her fiancé in the capital today. The wedding has been definitely fixed for April 27 at the royal palace.

She was greeted at the station by Queen Marie, little King Michael, members of the royal family, diplomatic corps, the regency council, and the cabinet. The official celebration of the betrothal took place at noon in the palace before a brilliant assembly.

Wickersham Bill O. K.'d by House Committee.

Hoover in Club

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—President Hoover is among a long list of distinguished members of the Century association, the club referred to today in a letter read in the senate by Senator Brookhart.

Officers of the association could not be reached for comment tonight on the charges contained in the letter.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Gin cocktails and rum punch, which he was informed are served in the Century club, an exclusive New York institution, today sent Senator Smith W. Brookhart [Rep., Ia.] on another rampage against "high society" scofflaws—a quest that led him into a barrage of razzberries from the wets.

The militant Iowan, who gained publicity recently by telling a grand jury that he saw and smelled booze at a senatorial dinner party, read the senate a letter proposing an investigation of the sparkling glasses and foaming mugs of the Century club, 7 West 43d street, New York. Forthwith he plunged into an appeal for more dry law enforcement, which was challenged at once by Senators John J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.] and Royal S. Copeland [Dem., N. Y.].

During the row Brookhart described Tydings as "absolutely crazy," and the latter suggested that Brookhart was "blind and deaf," Blaine adding that he was a "bedtime story teller."

Transfer Bill to Be Reported.

While the senate was being entertained thus the expenditures committee of the house of representatives voted to report favorably the Williamson bill, transferring the prohibition unit from the treasury to the department of justice. This is the first of the Wickersham bills to get over the committee hurdle.

At the same time Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] got into the prohibition fray by renewing his demand for an investigation of the transfer of Prohibition Administrator John C. Herbert to the Montana-Idaho district. Borah wrote Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran a letter, naming Capt. Frank S. Flynn as the informant who made charges against Herbert and asking Doran either to refute the charges or relieve Mr. Herbert from his position.

Brookhart's Attack Expected.

There was little surprise in the senate when Senator Brookhart reopened his assault on liquor law violations by clubs and hotels, as he previously had announced that his information about the senatorial party was only a beginning.

Although he refused to name the person who signed the letter on which he based his charges today, he explained that it was written on stationery of the Century club and intimated that the writer was a member. The letter read:

"My Dear Sir: With all the chaotic conditions now surrounding the enforcement of the Volstead act, why not inquire something about the special privilege accorded this association, where real gin cocktails are served at the monthly club dinners, usually attended by 100 to 150 members? And then consider the wonderful 'fishhouse rum punch' that appeared at the last New Year eve celebration."

Asserts Club Ranks High.

In presenting the letter Brookhart explained that he had "asserted before that one of the great difficulties of the prohibition law was due to high society," adding that "the Century club is one of the highest social organizations in the country."

Senator Blaine thereupon warned the Iowa senator that he might be violating the Volstead act by advising outlaws where good liquor could be procured.

"The constitution makes the floor of the senate privileged, so I am not particularly alarmed at the suggestion from the senator from Wisconsin," Brookhart retorted.

"I think this is important information," he went on, ignoring Blaine. "It is not all I have, but it is all I am going to disclose today. I especially want to call it to the attention of Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission. I hope that at an early day he will be ready to advise us how to stop these violations of the liquor law in this club."

Senator Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.] broke in at this juncture with the remark that if Brookhart would take a week off and go to Chicago, Baltimore, or any other large city, he would find fifty places like the Century club. In fact, Tydings said, "he can get all the liquor he wants."

"I can get all I want right here now," Brookhart retorted, apparently incensed at the suggestion that he wanted any.

Tydings' reply was another volley of statistics. Alcoholism last year claimed 813 victims, he declared, while the government seized 250,000 stills and 27,000,000 gallons of mash, indicating that liquor consumption is "just the same today as in the peak year before prohibition."

"You belong to that crowd of intellectual people who are absolutely crazy on this prohibition question," the Iowa senator returned, now thoroughly aroused by Tydings' interruptions.

Argue Over New York's Progress.

"O, I admit success under prohibition," Tydings answered suavely, "because we have eliminated all apparent use of liquor on the outside and people have all they want on the inside."

Senator Brookhart hardly had shaken off Tydings before Copeland checked him.

Copeland—Did I understand the senator from Iowa to say he was at the Century club and saw the liquor consumed?

Brookhart—O, no, I was not there.

Brookhart—Of course you couldn't get in. You are known as a personal dry, but even in New York this prohibition situation has improved beyond belief.

Copeland—Does the senator say that booze conditions in New York have improved?

Brookhart—Very much. There is not one-fifth or one-sixth of the liquor consumed that there used to be. It is getting so scarce in New York that even the police go to Canada to buy their booze.

Copeland—If I had a way to do it, I should destroy all the alcohol in the world, but when any senator stands here and says there is less drinking in New York than before the prohibition law went into effect, he is blind and deaf.

For nearly half an hour the repartee flew, Brookhart sparring first with one then another of the wet senators until, finally, Senator Blaine proposed "to divert the senate from the prohibition bedtime story of the senator from Iowa," and take up other business.

Meanwhile, however, Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.], had slipped into the debate long enough to read a poem which he said was mailed to him from Iowa. It read:

"I come from away out in Iowa,
The home of corn and many arts,
Where bootlegging's so bad
It makes all of us sad
To think every one knows it but Brookhart."

Bill Changed But Slightly.

As it will be reported by the house expenditures committee, the Williamson bill providing for transfer of the prohibition bureau to the department of justice is practically as recommended by the Wickersham commission. The committee amended it to give the attorney general slightly more authority in investigating industrial alcohol permits and to retain civil service examinations for prohibition agents. Otherwise, it was not changed.

Majority Leader John Q. Tilson [Rep., Conn.] stated that it is planned to have the bill considered by the house next Tuesday.

In the renewal of his demand for a showdown in the Herbert case, Senator Borah declared that the charges made to him concerning the administrator were of "the most serious nature." The alleged misconduct of Herbert took place while he was in charge of the prohibition forces at Baltimore. Later he was removed to the Montana-Idaho district and his assistant, John J. Quinn, was dismissed.

"Capt. Frank S. Flynn, who is in the legal department of the prohibition unit, or who is in some way connected with the prohibition unit, has just restated to me the charges against Mr. Quinn and Mr. Herbert, and he is willing to state them to any investigating body," Borah wrote to Commissioner Doran.

Popping of firecrackers, payment of debts, and formal visits of merchants and tradesmen to their employés signalized the beginning of the year 4883 of the Tao Hai dynasty and the 17th anniversary of the founding of the Nanking government in Chicago's Chinese district yesterday. Although the Nanking government had decreed that Chinese celebrate the new year on Jan. 1, Nanking is far away. Hence, shutters were drawn in the neighborhood of 22d street and Wentworth avenue yesterday as feasts were served inside. The celebration will continue all this week.

JAIL PARSON WHO SHOT 2 AND BARE HIS LOVE AFFAIR

Congregation Attempting to Suppress Gossip.

Ottawa, Ill., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The Rev. James A. Wilson, the gun wielding Methodist Episcopal parson of Mendota, Ill., was in jail here tonight formally charged with attempted murder, after shooting two of his parishioners and himself yesterday.

Today citizens of Mendota and especially those of Mr. Wilson's flock were trying to suppress not only the shooting fray, but the gossip which led up to it. The two victims of the preacher's gun, Mr. and Mrs. Amos Elliott, were believed out of danger at Harris hospital, Mendota. The husband was shot through the body, close to the heart, and the woman was shot in the shoulder, the bullet issuing from her neck not far from the jugular vein.

Widow to Aid Prosecutor.

State's Attorney R. O. Hanson of La Salle county questioned Mrs. John Wagner, 50 year old member of Mr. Wilson's congregation, with whom gossip had coupled the name of the pastor. He stated Mrs. Wagner would help prosecute the Rev. Mr. Wilson.

After a grilling which lasted until 2 o'clock this morning at Harris hospital, the 60 year old minister broke down and told a story substantially as follows:

He met Mrs. Wagner at funeral services for her husband two years ago, and grew increasingly fond of her, notwithstanding the fact that he is married.

Early in December the widow broke off their intimacy. He began to suffer remorse and sent her a letter of apology on Dec. 30, begging forgiveness.

Contents of Letter Broadcast.

The widow turned the missive over to the Elliotts, who broadcast its contents. Mr. Wilson heard the gossip and went to the Elliott home last night, demanded, and was given his letter. A few moments later, Elliott, incensed at something the preacher said, snatched the letter from the Rev. Wilson's pocket. The pastor, enraged, shot both the Elliotts. Then he walked home and, when police knocked on his door, fired five shots at his head. Only two struck him and these only grazed his scalp.

Rumors were flying about Mendota and Ottawa tonight that the Elliotts were going to drop the charges against Mr. Wilson. State's Attorney Hanson, however, stated that the Elliotts were anxious to prosecute.

H. P. WITHERS, SON-IN-LAW OF J. T. PIRIE, DIES

Heart Attack Fatal to Young Broker.

Funeral services for H. Pickett Withers, young society man and broker, who died suddenly of heart disease yesterday, will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Lake Forest home of his widow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Pirie Sr. The Rev. Dr. George Roberts, pastor of the Lake Forest Presbyterian church, will officiate.

Mr. Withers, who was 30 years old and lived at 219 Lake Shore drive, was a victim of an "athletic" heart, according to Coroner Bundesen. The young man, a Yale alumnus and an enthusiastic sportsman, had an enlarged heart such as occurs often in men engaged in violent sports, Dr. Bundesen said.

On Wednesday night Mr. Withers had difficulty in breathing and yesterday morning he set out to consult Dr. Paul B. Magnuson. Failing to find him in, the young man went to visit Dr. Carl Winslow, an osteopath at 27 East Monroe street, who had been treating a shoulder wrenched by Mr. Withers. A few minutes after arriving there Mr. Withers collapsed suddenly and died.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Malcom Withers of Kansas City and New York. He is survived by one brother, Pierce Withers; and two sisters, Mrs. Clive Runnells and Mrs. Laurance H. Armour.

Mr. Withers was a member of the Chicago, Racquet, Saddle and Cycle, and Onwentsia Country clubs, and was associated with the investment banking house of Eastman, Dillon & Co.

McClelland Barclay's Wife Wins a Divorce

Mrs. Nan Barclay yesterday won a divorce before Superior Judge Sabath from her husband, McClelland Barclay, prominent artist of New York. She is to receive the income from a trust fund of $100,000 created by her husband for meeting alimony payments. Mrs. Barclay charged improper relationship with an unnamed woman. Her chief witness was Harrison Van Schaick, retired capitalist, who told of going to Barclay's studio in the Wrigley building, April 30, 1926. The Barclays were married on March 11, 1916. Mrs. Barclay was a Washington debutante and a cousin of her husband. They separated on June 15, 1929. She was represented by Attorney George L. Schein.

REPORT HARRIS WON'T SERVE ON TRANSIT BOARD

A. W. Harris, chairman of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, was reported yesterday to have decided not to serve on the committee of bankers named by Samuel Insull last October to write the financial and reorganization sections in the proposed new transit franchise. All but the financial sections have been written by a council subcommittee, but the Harris decision is expected to delay completion of the franchise.

A belief that his first duty is to the holders of first mortgage bonds of the north and west side surface lines was reported as the reason for Mr. Harris' decision. He is chairman of the holders' protective committee and was said to look with disfavor upon a plan for the merger of the surface and elevated lines which would make the bonds held by his group junior securities.

Howard Fenton, president of the Harris bank, may take the place of Mr. Harris, according to the reports. The other men named by Mr. Insull are Harry L. Stuart of Halsey, Stuart & Co.; Frank O. Wetmore, co-chairman of the First National bank, and Athur Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co.

JAMES R. GLASS RETIRES AS U. S. COMMISSIONER

United States Commissioner James R. Glass, veteran official at the federal building, announced his retirement from the government service yesterday. Mr. Glass will return to private law practice. He has been in office for nearly ten years, following a five year term as first assistant United States attorney under Charles F. Cline. As commissioner Mr. Glass handled the first prohibition cases taken to the federal building. Commissioner Glass' successor will be named by judges of the federal district court.

DU PONT TO POLL DELAWAREANS ON DRY LAW REPEAL

Will Mail Questionnaire to Every Adult in State.

Wilmington, Del., Jan. 30.—(AP)—With a view to obtaining the sentiment of Delawareans on the present state law for the enforcement of prohibition, Pierre S. Du Pont, millionaire of this city, is sponsoring a movement to poll the adult population of the state.

Mr. Du Pont announces that there will be placed in the mails next Tuesday 112,000 questionnaires addressed to all of the known adults in the state asking each to vote yes or no on the following question:

"Do you favor the repeal of the Klair law?"

The Klair law is the state prohibition enforcement act. It is regarded as more stringent than the Volstead act.

Mr. Du Pont's questionnaire will ask every person receiving one whether he is willing to have his name attached to a petition to the next legislature for or against the repeal of the Klair act. If the signer is willing, his name will be used, Mr. Du Pont's intention being to send two petitions—one favoring repeal and the other in opposition.

State Officials Accused.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Herbert K. Hyde, assistant United States district attorney, in the government's opening statement today in the trial of thirty-two persons charged with violating the prohibition laws, promised to produce evidence proving that "the stream of justice in Pottawatomie county was polluted, from constable's office to the state capitol."

The evidence would be forthcoming, the prosecutor said, from confessed participants in the alleged conspiracy who aided in the collection of protection money and its distribution among persons charged by the government with operating a liquor ring which dominated illicit trade in the mushroom oil towns of the county. Hyde also promised that checks tracing money into the hands of officers ranging from the office of "constable to the state capitol of Oklahoma" would be produced.

A jury for the trial was completed this afternoon and Hyde made his opening statement after reading the grand jury's indictment of 102 persons on the conspiracy case. Of the original defendants, twenty-five have pleaded guilty, five are dead, and the remainder are fugitives from justice.

Dismisses 11 of 23 Cases.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The number of defendants in the Wyoming liquor conspiracy case today was reduced to twelve when Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy sustained the motion of A. D. Walton, United States district attorney, to dismiss charges against eleven persons. One of the twelve persons on trial is W. C. Irving, former state law enforcement officer.

Former U. S. Agents Tried.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Federal agents here tonight were assembling information to use against seven men, four of whom are former fellow officers, who are accused of having worked with a rum running syndicate along the Detroit river.

Charles Cresswell, former customs officer, is charged with conspiring to violate the tariff and prohibition acts. He is free on $5,000 bond. Robert Winder and Carl E. Krimel, also former customs officers, were arrested last fall and are free on $5,000 bonds. Egiche Chamch, a former immigration inspector, is free on $5,000 bond.

Jack Kearns, alleged leader of the gang, is free on $10,000 bond, while Thomas J. Murphy and W. J. Radcliffe, his alleged confederates, are free on $5,000 bond each.

Can Exercise Lien on Rum Car.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 30.—(AP)—A corporation which in good faith sells an automobile on the installment plan can exercise its lien if the car is seized for transportation of liquor, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals here held today. The opinion was in an appeal filed by a corporation which sued in the federal district court for Kansas to enforce a mortgage for $1,035 on a car seized and sold by federal authorities after Calvin Humbered was convicted of transporting liquor in it. The car was purchased by Humbered in the name of Earl Smith, and the court held that although the corporation might have known Humbered was a "questionable character," it was entitled to the car because of the Smith title.

BLACKSMITH ENDS OWN LIFE.

George Smart, 62 years old, for 25 years a blacksmith at 1613 Sedgwick street, committed suicide by inhaling gas yesterday in his apartment at 1315 Elmdale avenue. His relatives said he had worried over the decline in his trade.

Go-Bart's Roll of Liquor Customers Will Be Called

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Some day soon there is going to be a traffic jam of Park avenue limousines in front of the federal building. It will be when the Go-Bart roll is called. The Go-Bart roll is not a new bakery confection; it is instead a slice out of the crustiest part of the social register. On the Go-Bart roll are listed those discriminating drinkers to whom "customs" means only familiarity and their name is legion.

The Go-Bart company, described as an "international liquor smuggling ring importing millions" lost $150,000 worth of champagne, wines and liquor and thirty of its staff, including its alleged head apple knocker, Count Maxence de Polignac of the Pommery Champagne Polignacs, of France, in a Fifth avenue raid last June. The importers also lost their blue ribbon [not to be confused with the beer] customers list. Charles H. Tuttle, United States attorney, now has, among other things, the Go-Bart roll.

Today Mr. Tuttle did not know when the roll would be called.

"The investigation," he said, "which was begun last June is still under way. Before we get through everybody concerned will be summoned."

All Will Be Called.

Since Count Polignac was surprised in his bath in the Savoy-Plaza last spring seven members of the Go-Bart firm have been indicted. The count was not among them. He is in his French home under $25,000 bond.

Mr. Tuttle indicated there would be additional indictments before the trial begins. "When I say the investigation is being conducted thoroughly and without favor," he averred, "I mean just that."

Details of the success of Robert B. Watts, an assistant district attorney, who was sent to France last summer, in getting to the bottom of the champagne pool were not available this afternoon. The information concerning the foreign aspects of the Go-Bart business which appears to include such prankish games as exporting wines in flower pots was withheld for grand jury ears.

Mr. Watts did not see Count de Polignac or visit the family caves that shelter pommery champagnes at Rheims while he was abroad.

Trip "Satisfactory."

"His trip, however, was most satisfactory," according to Mr. Tuttle.

For a time it appeared that the Anti-Saloon league of New Jersey knew more about the customers of the Go-Bart company than the federal officials, but by this afternoon their information had dwindled down to a one man story told by Ernest Braidwood, who has been so unfortunate as to twice lose his job with the customs department. Mr. Braidwood, wooed by the Jersey drys, whispered a tale of a $25,000 importation of liquor in flower pots by the Go-Bart concern for Herbert L. Pratt, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of New York. The liquor, however, was eventually dumped into the Atlantic by a prohibition squad.

The customs office identified Mr. Braidwood as a discharged bootlegger. Mr. Pratt said, "See my lawyer," and went to his shooting place down south. Mr. Tuttle and his aids went into a huddle and the Jersey Anti-Saloon league went to Washington, D. C. What might be described as a wave of silence has followed.

FACTS ON LIQUOR CURE REITERATED IN NEW REPORT

Increase in Patients in Dry Era Found.

Walter H. Candler, president of the Candler System company, publishers at 6343 South Kedize avenue, forwarded to THE TRIBUNE yesterday the results of correspondence he had entered into to ascertain the truth of contradictory statements published in the "wet press," and in the Christian Advocate, Northwestern Edition, a journal of the Methodist church.

The correspondence, coming from the Keeley institute at Dwight, upholds to the letter the statements of the so-called "wet press" which were denounced by the Christian Advocate as false, and it brands as untrue the quotations from the Methodist dry publication.

Mr. Candler said he had received the clipping from the Christian Advocate from the Rev. S. H. Wirsching, pastor of the Chicago Lawn Methodist Episcopal church, who had scrawled on the margin of the clipping the following:

"Facts vs. CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S misrepresentations. If THE TRIBUNE could not misrepresent prohibition, it would feel life was not worth living."

Excerpts from the clipping, which did not mention THE TRIBUNE, are as follows:

"Amos R. Wells, in the 'Christian Endeavor World,' discusses the recent statement in the wet press that the Keeley cure for alcoholism is 'at the height of its fortune,' that last year was 'the greatest year but one in its history.'

"Dr. Wells says: 'The fact is that before prohibition there were branches of the Keeley cure in every one of the United States, in Canada, and in Europe. Now the plant at Dwight, Ill., concentrates almost the entire business, and it is not surprising if it is a little crowded, especially as in 1920 it sold its massive central building, the hub of its half million dollar plant, and since then has been operating from a bungalow.

"Before prohibition there were some 123 Keeley institutes; now there are about one-tenth of that number."

Mr. Candler sent the clipping to the Keeley institute, with a request for the "absolute facts." Martin Nelson, secretary of the institute, in his reply, made the following statements:

"In 1919 we treated here at Dwight 320 patients and in 1920 we only treated 186. Since that time there has been a continuous increase so that in 1929 we treated 784 patients, which is the largest number of patients treated during any one year since 1907.

Drug Addicts Decrease.

"We are of the opinion that there has been a decided decrease in the number of drug addicts treated during the last several years. So you will understand from the above statement that the increase in patients are the ones treated for the liquor addiction.

"The article which you enclosed states that before prohibition we had 123 branch Keeley institutes and that we now have about one-tenth of that number. We wish to state that this is not true and that the largest number of Keeley institutes ever operated at one time was about one-half of that number. It is true, however, that at the present time we have only ten branches.

"In 1920 we had fifteen branch Keeley institutes. The ten branch institutes during 1929 treated 16½ per cent more patients than did the fifteen institutes during 1920, which is also a gain of over 10 per cent over the number treated by these branch institutes in 1928.

Will Not Misrepresent.

"We wish to assure you that there is no desire on our part nor has there ever been to misrepresent anything in connection with the number of people applying for treatment."

The article in the Christian Advocate followed the publication in THE TRIBUNE on Jan. 9, 1930, of an article giving data on the institute's work now upheld as true by the institute's secretary.

AMATEUR TELLS WOES OF SPYING IN RUMBLE SEAT

Auto Dealer's Wife Found Him Out.

Bert Bokhoven, chief of the crew of sleuths employed by Frank Arliskas, a wealthy automobile dealer, to shadow his wife, Patra, and her attorney, Patrick J. Allman, did not find amateur detective work as romantic as Sherlock Holmes found it.

Bokhoven admitted that it was his first experience as a sleuth, and hoped it was his last, on the witness stand in the court of Circuit Judge Feinberg yesterday, where the Arliskas domestic troubles are being thrashed out. Originally Mrs. Arliskas filed suit for separate maintenance. Arliskas followed with a suit asking divorce, charging infidelity and naming Lawrence Gaffney, six day bicycle rider of New York, in addition to a John Doe. When the hearing opened Tuesday Allman was named as the John Doe.

Tells of Sleuth's Salary.

"How much salary were you paid by Mr. Arliskas?" Allman asked Bokhoven on cross-examination.

"Thirty-five bucks a week," was the reply.

Q.—And after your sleuthing he hired you as an automobile salesman and increased your salary? A.—He lowered it.

Q.—You have no ill feeling toward us? A.—Not a bit.

Hides in Rumble Seat.

Q.—Did you ever have any trouble with Mrs. Arliskas? A.—Trouble?

Q.—Trouble, yes. A.—No, no trouble.

Q.—Did she ever have you arrested? A.—Arrested? O, yes, so she did.

Q.—What for? A.—For riding in her rumble seat.

Q.—You don't have any ill feeling for Mrs. Arliskas for having you arrested for assaulting her? A.—I did not assault her, I just rode in her rumble seat.

Others Invited to Ride.

It thereby developed that Bokhoven, in true sleuthing style, had hidden himself in Mrs. Arliskas' rumble seat. He found himself in a slightly embarrassing situation when she drove up to the home of her family and asked several members to come for a ride. Her brother could sit in the rumble seat, she said. Whereupon Bokhoven lifted up the rumble seat, surveyed the family and then made a dash for freedom.

A professional detective, J. P. De Ree, 2215 Ravenswood avenue, next took the stand and told of several of the 31 different dates Arliskas alleges his wife and her attorney were seen together, riding in her car. He corroborated previous testimony of Bokhoven to the effect that they had followed Mrs. Arliskas and Allman to Brandon avenue between 92d and 93d streets, where they parked across from a church.

"Appeared to Be Kissing."

The couple pulled down a rear curtain, De Ree testified, but that did not foil him. He got out of the car, walked around the block, and on his return observed them "huddled in a corner in a manner one might term affectionate." Then he saw the woman start forward and a man's arm encircle her neck and pull her back. Under cross-examination he said he did not see them kiss, "but from their actions it appeared they were kissing."

Herman Frohlich, 58 West 113th place, a paint salesman, also did amateur investigating, aiding Bokhoven, he testified.

He testified to seeing Mrs. Arliskas meet a man with "dark wavy hair" and horn rimmed glasses and drive to Joliet with him. He lost their trail and returned to her apartment, where he waited until 2:30 o'clock without her returning, he said.

"What color was this man's hair?" Allman asked him.

Allman will begin his defense today. It probably will consume two days. He will prove an alibi for most of the 31 dates when he is alleged to have been with Mrs. Arliskas, he said.

BRITTEN HEIRESS, ILL, TAKES HER LIFE WITH GAS

Mrs. Elizabeth Welge Is Found Dead in Home.

Mrs. Elizabeth Welge, daughter of the late Peter Britten, wealthy commission merchant, who left her an estate of $500,000, committed suicide by inhaling gas yesterday in the apartment of her cousin, Mrs. Charles F. Hartmann, 4219 North Leavitt street, with whom she lived. Despondency over ill health and fear of consulting a physician was believed to have been the reason for her act.

Mrs. Welge was 61 years old. She was a sister of Mrs. Peter F. Reynolds, wife of the director of the real estate and building firm bearing Mr. Reynolds' name, at 81 West Monroe street. Mrs. Welge's brother, Michael Britten, is the head of Peter Britten & Sons of the Fulton street market. She was said to have been separated from her husband, Albert Welge, an insurance broker.

Found Dead in Kitchen.

Mrs. Welge was found dead in the kitchen, where several gas jets on the stove were open. Policeman Louis L. Wesson of the North Robey street station, broke a window to enter the apartment after he had been called by the George S. Bronson family, occupying the apartment below. Mrs. Welge had closed the doors leading from the kitchen, and had placed a pet canary in her bedroom, then closed the door and put a pillow at the threshhold to save the bird from the fumes.

Mrs. Hartmann said she had left the apartment for a time. She said her cousin seemed to fear consulting a physician over an illness from which she had suffered since last summer. This was hinted in a note left by Mrs. Welge.

Note Asks Forgiveness.

"May God forgive me for what I did," the note said, "but I am a wreck and no one knows how sick I have been, and I just can't go on any longer. Every one has been good to me, and I tried so hard to get well."

The Britten family was one of the pioneer families of the north side. Mrs. Welge had been known in social life in recent years. She had no children.

DRY RAIDER DIES IN HILLS BATTLE; 6 ARE ARRESTED

Prone Deputy Raises Head, Slain.

Albuquerque, N. M., Jan. 30.—(AP)—State and federal officers joined forces today and arrested six men in a second attack on an alleged band of bootleggers who last night killed a deputy sheriff in a gun battle when a group of officers raided a Sandia mountain ranch. Deputy Sheriff Emilio Candelaria was the man shot to death and his nephew, Augustus Jamarillo, was slightly wounded.

Gregario Espinosa, 45, stands charged with first degree murder for the death of Candelaria, five other farmers alleged to be moonshiners, including Jamarillo, are in jail in Albuquerque, and another is sought by officers.

It was the second raid on the ranch of Procopio Espinosa, broker of Gregario, near Sedilla, N. M., 26 miles from Albuquerque, in the Sandia mountains.

Empty Barrels Found.

Two weeks ago Federal Prohibition Agent C. U. Findley raided the place, but found only six empty mash barrels. He said the mash had been dumped in the mountains and no arrests were made.

Last night, accompanied by two agents, he went to Espinosa's house with a search warrant. They entered the ranch house, leaving Candelaria and three other deputies outside.

Findley was reading the search warrant to Procopio when Gregario and the other ranchers encountered the four deputy sheriffs who had surrounded the house.

There were threats and curses, the officers said, and Gregario saw Deputy Candelaria raise his head from a place where he lay on the ground.

Slain with Shotgun.

"There's one of them." Gregario shouted, and shot Candelaria in the face with a shotgun.

Both the farmers and deputy sheriffs then began firing. Believing they were trapped, Findley and his assistants rushed out of a back door and into the forest. Findley drove to Barton, where he telephone Sheriff Philip Hubbell at Albuquerque for assistance.

Meanwhile the deputy sheriffs worked their way to Candelaria's body and dragged it into the woods. There they waited until a dozen more federal prohibition agents and deputy sheriffs headed by Sheriff Hubbell and Charles Stearns, federal prohibition administrator for New Mexico, arrived.

The posse surrounded the ranch house and demanded the surrender of the men within, then rushed the place. No more shots were fired, although there were fist fights.

The evidence obtained was a quantity of sacked sugar, a quantity of dried peaches and ten pounds of yeast, which the federal officers charge was to be used for the manufacture of moonshine whisky. In the yard was a ten gallon barrel which Stearns said had recently been emptied of whisky.

Bank Cashier Is Named East Chicago Controller

Oscar Jackson, East Chicago bank cashier, was named city controller by Mayor Thomas W. O'Connor yesterday afternoon to fill the position O'Connor vacated when he became head of the city government following former Mayor Raleigh P. Hale's resignation Monday. Hale resigned to fight his conviction on a liquor conspiracy charge returned the week previous.

a membership on the Board of Trade at a time when they were selling at about $50,000, although now they are listed at $17,000. Mitchell, who was 42, was also going to night school, he learned.

In 1925 Mitchell, then a driver, was arrested with Raifman, who shortly before was acquitted of the murder of Jack Rose, a Checker employé.

The police had reports the cab owners blamed Mitchell whenever heavy assessments were levied against them or high charges were made for supplies and services.

Attorney Reid said Mitchell, Weinshenker, Raifman, and Gordon learned Wednesday afternoon at the company's offices that McLaughlin was having both a birthday and a wedding anniversary. They promised to visit the McLaughlins late in the evening and meanwhile sent flowers.

They had dinner downtown, he said, and about 10 o'clock they arrived at McLaughlin's home. The attorney said that while there may have been a drink or two taken, no one was intoxicated, that there was no drunken brawl or shooting, and that Mitchell was sober when he departed.

Sergt. William Behan, however, found 35 champagne bottles on McLaughlin's rear porch yesterday. Neither McLaughlin nor Mrs. McLaughlin was at home, and the Raifman home next door was not occupied.

Mitchell Starts for Home.

According to the lawyer, Raifman's wife is out of town and he suggested that Mitchell, Gordon, and Weinshenker stay at his home after they finished the celebration at McLaughlin's. Mitchell said he had promised his wife he would go home, but Weinshenker, whose wife was en route to California, and Gordon consented to stay. Gordon's wife told the police who were seeking her husband yesterday that he had not stayed away from home all night in many years, but he had done so that night.

Mrs. Mitchell told the police her husband was to join her at a bridge party at the home of friends. She telephoned him at his offices at 7:30 o'clock and he informed her then he had important business that would take up his evening, she stated.

Calls Cab for Mitchell.

Shortly before 3 a. m. Raifman called a Checker cab to McLaughlin's home for Mitchell, the lawyer said. The police learned that Jackson was invited into the house to have a few drinks while waiting for Mitchell.

Whether the assassins forced their way into the cab when Mitchell and Jackson came out of McLaughlin's home, or whether they followed the cab a half mile west before stopping it could not be ascertained, but the police were convinced the killers were inside the car when they did the shooting, which was on Ridge boulevard near Farwell avenue—less than a mile from McLaughlin's home.

Justice of the Peace Henry W. Porter of Evanston, his son, Charles, and Guyon T. Fisher, 1801 Dempster street, Evanston, were driving north on Ridge boulevard and at Devon avenue they saw a car coming toward them at high speed and careening from side to side. They noticed three men in it crouch when it passed them. A few blocks farther on they came upon Jackson's cab, the motor of which was running with the gears in neutral, showing that it had been stopped by the driver before he was shot.

Believe Killers in Car.

The police believed the killers were in the speeding car and that they had waited near the McLaughlin home for the party to break up. Mitchell lived at 5040 North Ridgeway avenue, and the taxicab had been started in the proper direction to take him home.

Jackson, the slain chauffeur, who lived at 6417 St. Anthony court with his wife and child, had not worked for two weeks due to an accident, but on Wednesday night he borrowed the cab of Frank Anders, 2210 Thome avenue. On the way to McLaughlin's home he met his brother, Robert, who lives at 1635 North Shore avenue and is also a Checker owner and driver. He told Robert where he was going and it was not until twelve hours later, when Robert mentioned the conversation at the inquest, that the police had any information on where Mitchell had entered Jackson's cab or where he had spent the evening. The inquest was immediately adjourned till Feb. 14.

CERMAK TO LET HEALTH DECIDE POLITICAL PLANS

BY PARKE BROWN.

Primary petitions bearing the name of A. J. Cermak as a candidate for the presidency of the county board will go out from Democratic headquarters, but their circulation does not mean that he has consented to run for renomination.

Cermak, it was learned, consented to the preparation of the petition and to its being filed. But this, he said, is being done only because of the insistence of organization leaders that he go ahead with this program at least until he reaches his final decision.

"I may withdraw the petition before the primary," he said, "and even if I go through the primary and win I may withdraw as the nominee, and in that event the vacancy on the ticket would be filled by the county committee. The whole problem now is the question of my health."

His Physicians Differ.

Mr. Cermak's friends blame the doctors for creating this condition of indecision. The county board's regular physician has told him for the last year that he must avoid the strenuousness of campaigns. But last Monday another physician, who examined him some time ago, told him that a life of activity is more beneficial than harmful to him.

"It is difficult to tell what to believe under such conditions," said Cermak, "but I also have to consider the wishes of my family, who are strongly opposed to my running again."

He was visited by a delegation of business and professional men during the morning and to them he made a similar statement. The group included Joel D. Hunter of the United Charities, W. S. Reynolds of the Council of Social Agencies, Probate Judge Horner, William H. Sexton, George A. Cooke, Alfred S. Austrian, Frank G. Hajicek, and Joseph A. Kalik.

Change in Democratic Slate.

One change was made in the Democratic slate during the day. The name of Joseph S. Lisack was substituted for that of John J. Foulton on the Municipal court ticket.

County Commissioner Joseph P. Carolan of River Forest announced that he and four other "independent Republicans of the country towns" will file for commissionerships. The others who will run with him, presumably with the support of the Snow-Weber country towns organization, are Willis McFeely, former mayor of Oak Park; C. Ernest Guyton, former Evanston alderman; Frank Houcek, Cicero assessor; and Peter Anker, farmer and banker of South Holland.

The Deneen organization announced its indorsement of Earl E. Orner, mayor of Wilmette, as the fifth candidate on its slate for county commissioners from the country towns.

Gen. John J. Garrity announced that he has withdrawn from the People's Republican party list of candidates and will run for the Republican nomination for sheriff as an independent.

"BARON" FREED IN COURT.

Henry De Ginsberg, 86 year old pin and needle peddler, who claims to be a baron and a member of a titled French family, was released in United States Commissioner Walker's court yesterday from charges of attempting to steal from the mails. Commissioner Walker said he was lenient on account of the prisoner's age.

RAISE DEAD DIVER IN 71 HOUR FIGHT TO RESCUE HIM

Will Bury Young Dane Near Scene of Tragedy.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—Peter Trans, young Danish diver, whose body was recovered from the bottom of the Outardes river at 7:30 a. m. today and found frozen to death, will be buried close to the place where his death occurred while the whole world was watching the spectacular efforts to save his life.

Announcement was made here late this afternoon that burial will take place at Persinis, in the vicinity of Outardes Falls, next Sunday.

Simultaneously a church service will be held at Montreal in the Danish Lutheran church which will be attended by the Danish consul general. These arrangements were made at the suggestion of the Danish consul general.

Wife, Two Children in Denmark.

Trans has no relatives on this continent. A cable was sent this afternoon to his relatives in Denmark advising them of the recovery of the body and plans for the funeral. His parents are still living, residing in Hadersshad, Denmark, and he has a wife and two children, whom he preceded two years ago to Canada and whom he planned to bring out to Canada soon.

Trans had been imprisoned under water at the foot of the Ontario Paper company's dam at Outardes Falls, which he was inspecting, from 1:30 a. m. Monday to 7:30 a. m. Thursday, a total of 71 hours. But doctors said it was practically certain that his death had been only a matter of a few hours, owing to the icy coldness of the water.

Trans was hired three weeks ago to inspect the foundation of the dam. In descending the ladder Monday morning, he slipped, and was trapped at the bottom of the river. There was no other diver in the vicinity to go to his aid. Outardes Falls is nearly 200 miles away from Quebec City. Help was immediately asked from the company at Montreal.

Fight to Rescue Diver.

Within an hour an airplane was speeding to Outardes Falls, scheduled to pick up two expert divers at Quebec. The plane ran into a blinding snow storm half way between Quebec and Outardes Falls, forcing a landing at Rimouski, and preventing the plane from reaching Outardes Falls until Wednesday afternoon.

Meanwhile the company's staff at Outardes Falls was doing all it could. Arne Silyala, a Finnish fellow workman, who, though he had never been in a diving suit in his life, donned one and went down several times in an effort to rescue Trans. He was only able to reach Trans, and a pulling of his hand brought no response. He was evidently dead. As soon as the divers, who had been speeded to the scene by airplane, reached there, they donned their diving suits and after working all night they released the body and brought it to the surface.

BODY FOUND ON TRACKS.

The body of Richard Dooler, 75 years old, an inmate of a home for the aged at Techny, was found early yesterday on the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad near the Town Line road in Lake Forest. The police believe he was struck by a train.

FIANCE GONE, SHE IDENTIFIES HIM IN ROGUE'S GALLERY

Having waited two successive mornings at a south side church, Mrs. Norah Hilton, 49 year old widow of Richland, N. Y., went to the missing persons bureau of the police department yesterday and confided there her fears that her prospective bridgroom had come to harm.

She had met the man, Harry K. Davis, through a Detroit club for lonely hearts and had found him charming, the widow explained. He was a guest for a week at her chicken farm and had persuaded her to sell the property for $2,700 and come to Chicago with him.

They registered in separate rooms at the New Southern hotel on Saturday night, and on Monday Davis named the place for the wedding ceremony. On Tuesday she found he had checked out of the hotel. Mrs. Hilton was sent to the bureau of identification where she selected a photograph of Harry Friedman, a confidence man, as resembling her Mr. Davis.

FRANCE, ITALY BOTH CLAIM NAVY PLAN IS VICTORY

Grandi Insists Rome Has Won Its Point.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30. — The Italian delegates to the naval conference tonight expressed satisfaction with the outcome of today's meeting, at which the Italians succeeded in having inscribed on the agenda the two points which Italy regards as fundamental. These points are fixing of ratios between the powers and maximum tonnage levels.

Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, tonight declared that his reservations on the proposals of the other nations, which come up before Italy's two points, are in no sense any intention to sabotage the conference and not be interpreted as a threat that Italy will leave the conference.

Home Something May Turn Up.

The Italian delegates hope something may turn up, and that, possibly with America's backing, they can induce the French not to be too adamant.

So, while the French consider the Italian attitude as an elegant withdrawal from their stand, the Italians consider that they have won their point.

In his conversation tonight, Sig. Grandi said:

"We desired through preliminary conversations with France, to reach the same position vis-à-vis France as the United States has reached with England. We were not so fortunate in reaching an understanding. In claims of parity with any other continental power, Italy is not aiming especially at France. Germany, Russia and Spain are all continental powers."

Insists on Two Points.

Sig. Grandi emphasized that Italy's intentions in this morning's conference, above all, were to insist upon opposing the conference's tendency to eliminate the discussion of the two Italian points, which the Italians regard as underlying any real armament reduction and as primary to other discussions, namely, the fixing of ratios as at Washington, and then deciding upon maximum tonnages.

"These two points Italy holds as essential. Just as the United States insisted, before Great Britain admitted her right to parity, that there must not be any other basis for armament limitation with respect to England, so Italy holds that she must have the same admission from France before armament reductions can be made," Sig. Grandi declared.

Britain Refuses Cyprus Right to Join with Greece

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—The secretary of state for colonies has refused a request of residents of the Island of Cyprus in the Mediterranean that they be permitted to affiliate themselves with Greece or be granted some form of responsible government. A memorial from Greek members of the Cyprus legislative council claimed to have signers representing five-sixths of the population of the island.

U. S. Delegates Obey Hoover Orders; Shun London Liquor

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—President Hoover's warning to American government officials abroad to "lay off the likker" had a noticeable effect on the Foreign Press association's luncheon for the American naval delegates today. Although rare old wines, ports and sherries, and choice vintage of liquors were served, the Yanks studiously avoided them and stuck to mineral water rather than disobey instructions from the White House.

The Swedish president of the foreign journalists created an incident in welcoming the delegations by omitting the name of the Italians because of the Fascist censorship and curtailment of liberty of the press in Italy.

Women Mingle with Royalty.

The wives of the American delegates mingled with plenty of royal blood and upper crust London society this afternoon at a tea party given by Lady Parmoor at her home in Wilton Crescent. The French ambassador was the sole male on the scene, with a neatly parted beard, revealing the profile of his iron jaw. He hastily departed after swallowing a cup of tea.

Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the British prime minister, who never has visited a night club, never has tasted a cocktail and never has used makeup, was present in a room full of delicately powdered and rouged women, with shaved eyebrows and beaded eyelashes, scented furs and trailing gowns. Ishbel wore a furry blue hat with a brim, although London's style decrees that chapeaux must be cut off high on the forehead and brimless.

Meet Women M. P.'s.

Several women members of parliament were invited to meet the delegates and their wives, including Lady Astor, Lady Iveagh, the duchess of Atholl, Susan Lawrence, Ethel Benham, Miss E. Picton Tubervill, and Miss Wilkinson.

Drinking iced coffee in the long, white walled dining room were Frau St. Hamer, wife of the German ambassador; Baroness Palmierstna, wife of the Swedish ambassador; Viscountess Sandhurst, Viscountess Chelmsford, Countess Buxton, and Viscountess Bryce. Among the other women were Mme. Takarabe, wife of the Japanese admiral, wearing her national costume of black silk with tiny heelless slippers and hatless. Other guests were Lady Madden, Princess Shimadzu, Marchioness Mayeda, Mrs. Dawes, Mrs. Stimson, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Morrow, and Countess Villanova.

MOTHER CANCELS MACKAY'S NOTES IN $2,400,000 WILL

New York, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A bequest of $2,391,934, of which $1,542,570 was in notes he owed her, was left to Clarence H. Mackay, president of the Postal Telegraph and Commercial Cable company, by his mother, Mrs. Marie Louise Mackay, a transfer tax appraisal filed today disclosed.

Mrs. Mackay died Sept. 4, 1928, leaving a net estate of $2,401,934. Besides her son the will mentioned only one other legatee, Josephine Doumoutier of Roslyn, N. Y., no relation, who received $10,000.

Mr. Mackay gave his mother two notes—a demand note for $980,990 without interest, dated Jan. 18, 1924, and another for $555,000, dated June 11 of the same year, and payable a year after date. The latter bore interest at 5.143 per cent, which amounted to $6,580.

HOOVER PLAYS MEDICINE BALL IN 12 INCH SNOW

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.] — Washington was blanketed under 12 inches of snow today, the heaviest snowfall since the snowstorm eight years ago which caused the collapse of the Knickerbocker theater roof with consequent great loss of life. Today's record breaking snowstorm crippled transportation facilities, interfered with the business of government by preventing employés from spending full time at work and imperiled the lives of the capital's birds and squirrels.

President Hoover, dressed warmly, played in the snow for ten minutes this morning with members of the "medicine ball" cabinet. The President found it advisable, however, to motor to the executive offices in the state department, a distance of half a block.

to deviate a certain agreed percentage from the figures in the categories, subject to certain conditions, such as notice to the other signatories of the treaty and subject to the total tonnage not to be exceeded.

Ships Put in Six Categories.

The last clause expresses rather clumsily the concession of the right to transfer tonnage from one category to another. The categories suggested are as follows:

1. Ships of more than 10,000 tons and [or] equipped with eight inch or larger guns.
2. Cruisers with guns heavier than six inch.
3. Auxiliary surface craft armed with guns under six inches.
4. Aircraft carriers.
5. Submarines.
6. Miscellaneous craft, such as mine sweepers, submarine chasers, motor boats, etc.

The committee to consider this proposal will meet at 3 p. m. tomorrow at St. James's palace. The American representatives on the committee are Charles F. Adams, secretary of the navy, and Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium.

Three Items on Agenda.

The plenary meeting this morning lasted a couple of hours and was largely formal. Prime Minister MacDonald opened it by reading the agenda, which was confined to three items, although these were subdivided.

First on the agenda was France's demand for limitation by global tonnage.

Second was Great Britain's demand for limitation by categories of ships. Third was Italy's demand for a determination of ratios and total tonnages.

Mr. MacDonald in opening said that Italy wished to make its position clear on this order of business. Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, then made a speech phrased in excellent English, in which he declared that while Italy was quite willing to join a discussion on the method of limitation of armaments, it could not and would not abandon its demand for a settlement first of the question of ratios and total tonnages. This, he said, was fundamental.

"Problem Is Political."

Sig. Grandi, who is making a reputation as being the clearest headed and plainest spoken of the delegates, reminded the conference that at the bottom the question is political.

After Sig. Grandi had made his reservations, American Secretary of State Stimson proposed a resolution for appointment of a committee. The motion was carried.

Then Ambassador Gibson was called on to give a historical address on the naval question from 1926 to the present time. The conference adjourned subject to the chairman's call when there is more work for it to do.

DIES OF BURNS IN HOME.

Mrs. Mary Miller, 60 years old, colored, died yesterday in the county hospital of burns suffered in her home at 3614 South State street Sunday.

LADY ASTOR PAVES WAY FOR NAVY MEN TO GET ACQUAINTED

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—A most active figure behind the scenes of the naval conference in a wholly unofficial way is Lady Astor, the Virginia born member of parliament. For ten days she has been holding numerous private gatherings to bring various delegates into touch with political leaders here.

Among those brought together in this way have been Gen. Jan Smuts of South Africa and American Ambassador Dwight Morrow, David Lloyd George and United States Senators Robinson and Reed.

GENERO NAMES ASSAILANTS; 1 SUSPECT HELD

"Bigger and better" gang killings were forecast last night by Patrick Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, as a result of John Genero's violation of the code of gangland in naming the men who shot and wounded him probably fatally on Wednesday night. Lying near death in the People's hospital, the south side gangster, a brother of Joseph [Peppi] Genero, accused James Balcastro, indicted head of an alleged bombing trust, as the man who "put him on the spot."

Louis De Lucco, 2626 South Lowe avenue, and Angelo Lucci, 2121 West 13th street, were being sought as Genero's actual assailants. Balcastro was arrested at his home at 7726 South Marshfield avenue. He was taken to the detective bureau but refused to talk beyond admitting that he was in a restaurant at 211 West 23d street while Genero was there and that he had left a few minutes before the shooting. Genero told the police that Balcastro had told him to go there and wait for two men.

As Genero was leaving the restaurant, two men opened fire on him from an automobile, five bullets hitting him.

Consolvo's Yacht Calls for Assistance in Storm

Norfolk, Va., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Caught in a howling northeast storm, the yacht Norcon, owned by Charles A. Consolvo, hotel magnate, was unable to reach a sheltering cove off Wilmington, N. C., today and called for assistance. The coast guard cutter Pamlico at last reports was speeding to her aid.

U. S. SURRENDERS TO BRITISH PLAN FOR CRUISER CUT

Hoover Makes About Face from Coolidge Stand.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—The initial stage of the London naval conference has resolved itself into a diplomatic bout between Great Britain and France, with Uncle Sam holding the sponge for John Bull. America is now supporting the British attitude for limitation of cruisers, in accord with the recession by the Hoover administration from the stand taken by the Coolidge administration and the American general navy board at the Geneva three power conference in 1927.

Secretary of State Stimson tonight announced the appointment of Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and Hugh S. Gibson, ambassador to Belgium, to represent America on the conference committee.

Will Seek Compromise.

The committee will consider and recommend to the conference a method for naval limitation, which will be a compromise between the original French global tonnage plan and the plan for limitation by categories of ships, as favored by the British and Americans.

The most important aspect of this problem, from the viewpoint of American national interest, is the method of limitation that is to be applied to cruisers. The British contended at Geneva for a division of cruisers into ships mounting guns greater than six inches in caliber and ships with guns of six inch caliber or less. For convenience these classes were called eight inch gun and six inch gun ships.

The British referred to eight inch gun cruisers as ships for offensive strictly in number; and they referred to six inch gun ships as defensive warfare, which should be limited in purpose, to the limitation of which they are opposed.

U. S. Opposed Contention.

The Americans at Geneva took sharp issue with this contention, denying that any distinction can be made between the offensive and defensive qualities of cruisers. Small cruisers may be used on the offensive as was demonstrated by the raiding career of the Emden and other German small cruisers which eluded the British navy for months during the war.

The Americans maintained that the peculiar necessity of the United States, having but few outlying naval bases, was to put all the tonnage allotted to it into cruisers of the eight inch gun type, capable of steaming for long distances and capable of repelling attacks by flocks of the more numerous small cruisers.

Americans Abandon Stand.

The Americans now enter upon the deliberations of this conference supporting the British contention. They have acquiesced to the division of cruisers into eight inch gun ships and ships mounting six inch or smaller guns. They have agreed that eight inch gun ships shall be limited in number, which is exactly what the British demanded at Geneva and what the United States at that time resisted on the ground that such an arrangement would restrict a class of ships vital to our national defense.

The British at Geneva proposed limitation to 15 eight inch gun cruisers each for Great Britain and America. The only concession that the British have now made is to permit America to have 18 cruisers of the eight inch gun type to Great Britain's 15.

Americans Ask 21 Ships.

The American delegation is holding out for 21 such ships, as compared to 23 either built, in the process of building, or provided for, and to the 33 cruisers that the American navy general board pronounced as the number of big cruisers necessary for national defense in consideration of the lack of naval bases.

These concessions to the British viewpoint on the cruiser question are the result of the policy of compromise which has been adopted by President Hoover.

NATIONAL ANTHEM MINUS HIGH NOTES ASKED OF CONGRESS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Flourishing a revised copy of music for "The Star Spangled Banner," with the high notes eliminated to make singing easier, a committee representing virtually every patriotic organization in the country tomorrow will urge congress to designate the song as the national anthem.

The sixty or more men and women will appear before the judiciary committee of the house with a petition signed by 5,000,000 persons.

Not only will they present the revised copy of the famous old tune—they will take along an attractive soprano as exhibit A to prove to the objectors that the "rocket's red glare, bombs bursting in air" no longer soar too high for the average voice.

Call Firemen to Release Child, 3, Locked in Room

The Waukegan fire department was called out yesterday afternoon to rescue 3 year old Genevieve Siegall from a bedroom on the second floor of the home of Mrs. Frank Kimmel, 16 North Jackson street, Waukegan. Genevieve's mother, Mrs. Henry Siegall, had put the child to sleep in the room while attending a bridge party at the Kimmel home. When Genevieve awoke she turned the key in the lock and was unable to unlock the door when her mother came to get her.

'Hamiliation Day' Called in Manila as Protest to U. S.

MANILA, Jan. 30.—(AP)—For the first time in many years cock fights will not be held here in order to permit the people to attend "national humiliation day" services next Sunday to protest against attacks on Filipinos in America. A second call to observe "national humiliation day" was issued today as a result of clashes between Filipinos and whites at various places in California.

CONGRESSMEN PLEDGE AID IN BRIDGE BATTLE

The support of the Illinois delegation in congress for the type of bridge closing ordinance desired by Chicago was promised yesterday by Representative Fred A. Britten in dispatches from Washington. The only stipulation made was that the city council inform the delegation as to what Chicago desires.

Representatives Carl R. Chindblom and Elliott W. Sproul, the dispatches stated, plan to call on war department officials today or tomorrow to discuss the department's refusal to permit longer closing periods for the bridges. They also will discuss ways of preventing the opening of bridges to harbor tugs during closed hours.

Capt. Howard Yost, the officer in charge of bridge matters, declined again yesterday to divulge the recommendations submitted by Maj. H. J. Wild, resident government engineer in Chicago.

SPAIN GETS NEW CABINET AFTER ALL DAY TUSSLE

King and New Premier Face Tough Job.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MADRID, Jan. 30.—[By Telephone to Paris.]—The new Spanish directorate, composed of Gen. Damaso Berenguer, chief of the king's household, and a group of hastily impressed nonentities, took over the reins from former Dictator Primo de Rivera tonight.

The directorate received its orders from King Alfonso himself at a ministerial council at the royal palace.

Its first job is to calm, or try to calm, the seething excitement, stirred so dangerously during the last few days. Its second job is to restore complete legal and political normalcy under the constitution, which has been suspended since 1923, when Primo de Rivera's "coup d'etat" saved the country from anarchy.

All Quiet—for the Moment.

All is calm in Spain for the moment. Primo's sudden and precipitated decision to step aside has eased the situation. But there is little time to lose, and so on Saturday at the first cabinet session, Gen. Berenguer is expected to declare general political amnesty and take immediate steps to pacify the artillery corps, which is seething with revolutionary sentiment, and restore peace in universities, where students went on a strike against Primo.

Then will come the delicate business of restoring constitutionalism and wheedling back into the fold those politicians who were so unceremoniously ousted in 1923.

King Alfonso got rid of Primo de Rivera, but not 24 hours too soon, observers say. His own position was seriously compromised. The compodillon of the Berenguer government reveals that he has stumbled in his first steps toward the restoration of the old order. Up until noon today Gen. Berenguer and his worried master were working hand in hand to get together a group of weighty men, with spotless political pasts, who would command the country's respect with a new transitional program.

Takes One Look, Refuses.

They failed! Francisco Cambo, known for his financial probity, was summoned from Barcelona to take over the ministry of finance. He took one look at the situation and said he would tackle it if the nation be informed immediately as to its financial situation. Second, that he be given full liberty to revamp the financial policy. Third, that the shackles which had been put on Catalonia by Primo be struck off and at once.

Gen. Berenguer and the king thought that this was too drastic. Don Cambo went back home.

One other hope was Count de la Mortera, famous old conservative chieftain. He likewise decided not to join up. The result was that by the middle of the afternoon Gen. Berenguer announced a makeshift ministry.

The only important name he managed to get was the Duke of Alba as minister of instruction. Don Jacobo Stewart Fitzjames, tenth duke of Berwick and Alba, has 33 titles and was 14 times grandee of Spain, which makes him somebody.

For finance minister Gen. Berenguer got Manuel Arguelles, a second string henchman of Sanches Guerra, and for the navy Vice Admiral Salvador Carvia. The ministry of the interior goes to Gen. Enrique Marzo, and ministry of public works to Leopoldo Matos, confidant of the late Queen Christina during the Spanish-American war. The labor ministry will be headed by Sangro Y Ros de Orloano. No foreign minister was named. Gen. Berenguer himself will take the war ministry and will try to keep the political minded army under proper control.

In them King Alfonso has placed his hopes of luring the country into a mood to govern itself again, with himself as it constitutional monarch, as of old.

MORAN TRIES IN VAIN TO KEEP MACK FROM USING NAME OF TEAM

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Judge Walter Gates today denied the injunction plea of George Moran (George S. Arcy) of "Two Black Crows" which aimed to prevent George's erstwhile blackface partner, Charlie Mack (Charles E. Sellers) from taking a new minstrel mate and continuing to make stage and movie blackface comedies under the "Moran and Mack" name.

The judge ruled that Moran may amend his legal papers and apply again for an injunction if he wishes to correct technical flaws in the plea.

Mack has just finished a talking movie comedy called "Two Black Crows in the A. E. F.," in which he teamed with Bert Swor.

WALTER WILL CHANGE TIES AT NEW TRIAL

Not many men would wear a tie like that with which Walter Whitsett, 36 years old, colored, 2426 Wabash avenue, dazzled the crowd in the Morals court yesterday when he mounted to the witness stand. Whitsett was appearing as the complainant against Henry Collins, colored, whom Whitsett charged with mistreating his wife, Mrs. Jessie Whitsett.

Policemen C. J. Moynahan and Philip O'Neill of the Chicago Avenue station blinked as Whitsett's cravat flashed a riot of purples, yellows, reds, and greens, and O'Neill began trying to recall where he had heard of a man with a necktie as gaudy as that. Whitsett finished his testimony and his dazzling and Collins was released, for lack of evidence. As Whitsett left the courtroom, the two policemen arrested him and took him to the station.

There, under questioning, the Negro admitted that he had killed Early Woodward, colored, in Detroit on June 9, 1923, and that he had been sought for murder since then. "But how did you know I was the right man?" he asked.

"It was that rainbow necktie you wear," O'Neill replied. "I remembered that the slayer wore one just like it."

Jewish Cop on Trial for Murder of Five Arabs

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

JERUSALEM, Jan. 30.—Jaffa and Tel Aviv were aroused today by the trial before Judges Corrie and Copeland of the Jewish policeman, Hinkas, accused of leading a crowd of Jews who murdered five adults and wounded two children in an Arab family on Aug. 25 during the Arab-Jewish riots.

CHICAGOANS WIN GOLD MEDAL FOR ARCHITECTURE

Holabird and Root Are Praised by N. Y. League

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The Architectural league of New York announced its annual gold medals of honor tonight at the formal opening of its forty-fifth annual exhibition in the Fine Arts Society building.

The gold medal of honor in architecture went to the firm of Holabird & Root, 333 North Michigan avenue, Chicago, "for the great distinction and high architectural quality they have achieved in the solution of the American office building."

For Work in Various Fields.

Honorable mention was given to Mayers, Murray & Phillip of New York "for the excellence of their work in the varied fields of ecclesiastical, monumental and domestic architecture," and to Julius Gregory, also of this city, "for the distinguished qualities in design and charm in his residential work."

Among the exhibits of Holabird & Root, winners of the architecture medal are the Palmolive, Daily News, and Michigan Square buildings and the Russell residence in Chicago and the Rand Tower in Minneapolis.

Procession of Medalists.

Award of the medals tonight followed a procession of past and present officers of the league and this year's medalists through exhibition. Raymond M. Hood, president of the league, in his address, lauded the educational value of the annual shows of the league and called them preventives of inflated egos.

Boardman Robinson received the gold medal of honor in decorative painting, for his mural paintings in the Kaufman store in Pittsburgh and Marian Coffin received the gold medal of honor in landscape architecture.

TEN ROBBERIES ARE CONFESSED BY FOUR YOUTHS

Four young men, rounded up by Police Sergt. Edward Kennedy yesterday, confessed ten robberies last night at Shakespeare station and are believed, in view of the loot recovered, to have participated in forty other holdups.

Fleeing from a candy store at 2215 North Talman avenue with three other young men who had stolen a ring and $75, Herbert Owens, 1921 Wolfram street, was recognized by a witness of the robbery. Arrested by Sergt. Kennedy, Owens led a squad to the home of Thomas Mansfield, 12516 Greenwood avenue, Blue Island, in whose room were found a shotgun, two pistols, forty watches and twenty-five rings.

Kennedy's squad had both prisoners in the Blue Island police station when Mrs. William Wright, who was there scanning the rogue's gallery, recognized Owens and Mansfield as the pair who robbed her in front of her home at 12227 Longwood drive. Owens and Mansfield named their accomplices as Robert Colbey, 5614 North Kedvale avenue, and Leo Schulist, 3037 Logan boulevard, who were arrested.

JAIL SENTENCE FOR WOMAN IN RUM PLOT CASE

Mrs. Bonnie Wheeler, 40 years old, who claims to be the estranged wife of C. W. Wheeler, president of the Wheeler Elevator company, 1102 West Washington boulevard, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50 in Federal Judge Carpenter's court yesterday on her plea of guilty to charges of conspiracy to violate the prohibition law.

Mrs. Wheeler was arrested nearly two months ago when dry agents seized a still in a bungalow rented in her name at 1037 Lathrop avenue, Forest Park. Four men arrested with her also pleaded guilty and were sentenced to 30 days in jail and fined $50. They gave their names as Daniel Goldstein, Rocco La Pardo, John Schipani, and Tony Cavallo.

Gain 5 to 15 lbs. Quick with New IRONIZED YEAST Tablets

Clear Complexion. End Constipation, Indigestion. Banish Tired Feeling. Quick Results—or No Cost

It is a crime against yourself to be "skinny" and weak when thousands say gained 5 to 15 lbs. in 2 weeks and increased their strength many times with new IRONIZED YEAST. People are amazed how quickly these little concentrated Yeast Tablets turn rickety, scrawny bodies into husky, well-developed forms, clear a dull pimply skin and give loads of pep.

Why You Gain Weight and Strength Quick

DANGER IN SKINNY BODY, SAY DOCTORS

New IRONIZED YEAST Adds Pounds Quick

Leading physicians at a recent meeting in New York issued serious warning against grave diseases resulting from underweight. To women especially the doctors said: Do not blindly impair your health and even your chances of motherhood. Reducing often means women can't have children and men lose their vitality.

So if you are "skinny" and weak get IRONIZED YEAST from druggist today. Begin at once to gain pounds of weight, new strength and new beauty.

THE GOVERNOR'S TAX CONFERENCE.

The state Supreme court has refused to reinstate the notorious 1927 assessment of real estate in Cook county. That assessment may therefore be regarded as dead. The gross injustices contained in it led the state tax commission to order a new valuation of property under more exacting rules intended to prevent tax fixing. The Supreme court has held, wisely, that nothing would be gained and much would be lost if a retreat to 1927 were ordered.

Following the announcement of the Supreme court's finding, Gov. Emmerson called a conference of the state tax commission with the boards of assessment and review. He could hardly have acted before the court had spoken; and he acted with commendable promptness as soon as the decision was announced.

It is to be hoped that, as a result of the conference, the work of assessment and review can be hastened. The sooner the tax bills which should have been paid last April are sent out, the sooner the immediate crisis in the finances of the local governments can be relieved. The assessors and reviewers have sought by one pretext after another to delay the work, expecting, perhaps, that empty treasuries, unpaid employés and unpaid bills would lead to some relaxing of the rules of fairness and honesty imposed by the state commission. The governor, we hope, will not play into the hands of the tax fixers by withdrawing support from the commission.

So far the rules have not been relaxed, thanks in no small part to the governor's support. The delay in the completion of the assessment cannot be charged in any way to the commission's rules governing procedure. Those rules are eminently reasonable. So far as the reviewers are concerned, the regulations require merely that no changes be made except upon a written complaint; and that any changes determined upon must be made in open meeting and the reasons for altering valuations be stated specifically. The rule is a sound one, causes no needless delays, and if adopted years ago might have prevented the outrageous injustices which reached their climax in the original 1928 assessment.

The governor's conference can prove of great value if it results in speeding up the review under present regulations. At present it is commonly assumed that the bills will not go out until after the April primaries regardless of the length of time required for thorough review. Political considerations are being permitted to outweigh the urgent requirements of the local governments. The governor will earn the gratitude of Chicago if he forces as rapid a completion of the work as is compatible with justice to the taxpayers and the community. What is needed is a speeding of the work without a relaxing of the rules.

AS IN THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE.

"My message to Mr. Strawn and his millionaire clients, the bankers, is that in his program to destroy the confidence of the people in elected public officials he is sowing the seed of communism."—Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th].

"The public officials will never get together with Strawn. They will not stand for creating a lack of confidence in the elected officials. It is improper that public distrust of public officials should be built up."—H. Wallace Caldwell of the board of education.

PROTECTION FOR FILIPINOS.

Some malevolence has given the Pacific coast a revival of race prejudice carried into violence, this time against the Filipinos. The response in Manila has been demonstration against Americana. The Filipinos are properly indignant. They are regarded as the wards of the United States theoretically, pending their entrance into full and free nationhood, and even as their representatives are conferring with congressional committees their fellow countrymen are exposed to abuse and injury in parts of this country.

Americans have had reason to be pleased that, although the United States has delayed making any definite decisions as to the islands, the interim arrangements have been attended in the main by good spirit and with little serious contention. Filipino spokesmen say they want their full liberty and the right to form their own government, a right which it is the instinct of the American people to respect. It is not a simple issue to decide, but there has been a feeling that, although the policy of the American government has been precise and ambiguous, nevertheless a plan would be found which would satisfy the people and safeguard all interests. Meanwhile it has been the good fortune of both lands that the independence movement has been peaceable. The United States has not had it on its conscience that it was using bayonets to suppress insurrections or killing Filipinos who were dying as patriots.

That misfortune has been avoided by the use of common sense with the proof of good intentions on both sides, but the good spirit can be destroyed by anti-Filipino outbreaks in this country, the consequences of which may be sad indeed. Any state in which these injuries are being imposed will be derelict in duty to the nation as well as to humanity if it does not suppress the disturbers and prevent violence. To attack a person solely on account of his race or nationality is one of the greatest disgraces possible in human action, and in this case it might cause an uprising in the islands which would be a calamity.

GENERALS AS FACTORY MANAGERS.

Through the voice of its national commander, Mr. O. L. Bodenhamer, the American Legion continues to agitate for what has been called conscription of dollars or conscription of industry in wartime. Congress is being pressed to enact a bill which would embody this principle and automatically take effect upon the declaration of a national emergency. At that moment every dollar and every factory as well as every man in the land would automatically be enlisted in the national service.

The Legion has campaigned for a measure of this sort for years. The proposal is recommended as in the interest of national preparedness for war and greater effectiveness in the conduct of war. As a matter of fact, it would serve neither end. The real appeal of the proposal to the members of the Legion and to others lies in the general resentment, particularly among veterans, toward civilians who profited unduly in the war while soldiers and sailors were risking their lives for a pittance. The figure of the war profiteer is an ugly one. He is despicable and the world would be better off without him. Unfortunately, the means proposed for ridding the country of war profiteers is more menacing than the war profiteer himself.

If industry is conscripted the general staff of the army will attempt to operate it. The task is far beyond the staff's powers. A declaration of war is certain to tax the powers of the generals to the limit if they concern themselves only with the business of fighting for which they are trained. They are not trained to run the nation's factories or to deal with industrial labor, and if they attempted these tasks in addition to their proper ones the result would be hopeless confusion and inefficiency. The abler leadership in the army would be divided between the front and the factories, to the great disadvantage of both. In the interest of victory, a war should be fought with the least possible disturbance to the country. The proposals for industrial conscription have generally provided that the moment war is declared, regardless of its nature, the entire nation is to be placed under martial rule. No distinction appears to be made between a war against Panama and a war against a first rate power. Obviously there is no point in conscripting the entire nation for a war which can be handled by the marines. There is scarcely more need for general conscription if the war can be fought successfully by the regular army. When conscription becomes necessary the hope of victory must depend in large measure upon the efficiency of industry in supplying the army with its needs. Nothing would be gained and much would be lost by a universal conscription which would displace experienced managements and distract the minds of the men and women in the factories and on the farms.

Americans resent the kind of discipline which we think of as Spartan or Prussian. They do not work well under it. The industrial conscriptionists ignore this national trait as they ignore the possible abuse of the measures they propose. There is real danger that an administration, hard pressed by criticism, might welcome a war which would conscript every one and put an end to opposition. In order to destroy the war profiteer, the friends of this measure are inviting economic as well as military catastrophe and political tyranny. The price is too high.

Editorial of the Day

DR. HOLMES AND DR. BUTLER.

[New York World.]

Speaking in the Community church on Sunday, Dr. John Haynes Holmes said:

"When Nicholas Murray Butler will deliberately and openly violate the prohibition law, and voluntarily, on a plea of guilty, go to prison for his faith, as Roger Baldwin deliberately and openly during the war violated the conscription act, and voluntarily, on a plea of guilty, went to prison for his faith, I shall believe there is some moral principle in the wet revolt. But not before."

This is what is known as the argument ad hominem, a notoriously dangerous type of argument, as we shall now proceed to demonstrate in the case of Dr. Holmes himself. He says that he will not believe there is a "moral principle in the wet revolt" unless Dr. Butler openly violates the prohibition law, pleads guilty and goes to jail. But Dr. Holmes, who did not himself openly violate the conscription law, did not plead guilty, and did not go to jail, nevertheless believes there was a moral principle in conscientious objection. Why must Dr. Butler do what Dr. Holmes did not do in order to convince Dr. Holmes that his revolt is as sincere as Dr. Holmes' revolt? Why should one nonmartyr asperse the sincerity of another nonmartyr?

As a matter of fact, Dr. Holmes' analogy is false. In the case of the conscription law the government went seriously at the business of enforcement not merely against the so-called slacker but against idealists like Roger Baldwin. In the case of prohibition the government has never dared to try to enforce the law against an idealist. If and when it does Dr. Holmes will get the test he demands. When the government makes up its mind to prosecute a college president, a preacher, a big business man, a senator, a judge, an editor, for the illegal purchase or possession of liquor there will be an analogy with the case of Roger Baldwin. For Mr. Baldwin, it will be recalled, did not go out and insist upon being arrested. He waited his turn in the draft.

Though Dr. Holmes' argument was confused, there is, however, substance, we believe, in what he had in mind. It was that if a man deliberately decides not to observe a law, the test of his sincerity is his refusal to hide his defiance and his willingness to suffer the consequences. There is no disputing this. The government can make a test of this point any time it chooses. Senator Brookhart tried to force it to make such a test only a few weeks ago. Dr. Holmes can, if he wishes, repeat the Brookhart experiment. But he will find, we think, that neither the Hoover administration nor the official drys are prepared to make the experiment. He will find that there are not any wet martyrs because the government will go to almost any length to avoid making wet martyrs.

If there is one thing more than another that the drys would be afraid to do it would be to put a really respectable patriotic American in jail for not observing the Volstead act.

HABITS OF YOUNG CHILDREN

THE Massachusetts Mental Hygiene society gives the following advice as to certain habits of young children.

Good eating habits are necessary for health and happiness. Eating habits are formed at home and in early childhood. The person who fusses about food is apt to fuss about other things and one who fusses all the time is not liked.

THINGS TO DO—Let the child see that you eat what is put before you. Have meals at regular times. Make them pleasant parts of the daily program and nothing more. Make food attractive and serve only a little at a time. Expect the child to eat it. Give him thirty minutes for his meal. If it is not eaten take it away. Have him understand that eating is his business. Try new foods, a little at a time, and try them more than once.

THINGS TO AVOID—Don't give him anything between meals. Don't talk of his likes and dislikes before him. Don't allow others to talk of their likes and dislikes. Don't talk about the child's poor appetite. Don't compare his appetite with other children's. Don't let him see that you worry about his eating. Don't feed the child when he is old enough to feed himself. Don't coax or threaten or force him to eat.

REMEMBER—It does not hurt a well child to miss a meal. Food fussiness is never inherited but it is often imitated. The child's likes and dislikes depend on you. Teach him to like the foods that are good for him.

On the subject of jealousy they advise—Jealousy is serious even in a child. It makes him unhappy, disagreeable, and unable to get on with those about him. When he grows up it will interfere with his success as well as his happiness.

THINGS TO DO—Respect his property and his rights. Teach him to share with others and respect their rights. Let him know of plans for the new baby. Let him help in the care of the baby. Divide your attention fairly among all the children.

THINGS TO AVOID—Don't make favorites of any of the children. Don't compare children with each other. Don't tease a child by petting another and leaving him out.

REMEMBER—A child is not born jealous. Jealousy can be prevented or corrected by proper training. A jealous person does not work or play well with others.

MILKS AND THEIR DIFFERENCES.

J. E. R. writes:

1. Is there much difference as food and nourishment in evaporated milk compared to fresh milk?

2. What is the difference between evaporated and condensed in their manufacturing process? Which would be preferable in use?

3. Where milk production is of low grade as far as sanitation and quality are concerned, should evaporated milk be used for infants and adults instead of fresh milk?

REPLY.

1. About the only important difference is the lessened water content and, therefore, the greater food value of the former.

2. Condensed milk is evaporated milk to which much sugar has been added. Evaporated milk has been heated to a higher temperature and, therefore, is freer from bacteria when opened. On the other hand, condensed milk keeps better after being opened.

Which is to be preferred depends on circumstances. If you have no provisions for keeping the can of opened milk cold and clean, condensed milk is better. If you have, give preference to evaporated milk.

3. Evaporated milk, condensed milk, and milk powder are all superior for feeding babies, children, and adults, to low grade liquid milk.

A FAT SCHOOL GIRL.

I. M. writes: I am a school girl of 15 years and weigh 121 pounds. I am 61 1-3 inches tall. My brother is always teasing me about being so fat. Would you advise me to go on a diet, or would it ruin my health because of my age?

REPLY:

Some people are fat because they eat too much and exercise too little. Others are fat because some of their ductless glands are out of balance. Almost any one can be reduced without harm to the health, though some skill is required in some cases and persistence in all.

If you are fat because you eat too much and exercise too little you can reduce with no harm to your health. Eat less and play harder. Restrict especially cereals, breads, pastries, sweets and desserts. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope for leaflet on reducing.

SHORT CUT TO "L."

Chicago, Jan. 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A short cut to the "L" station leads through the service entrance of a large apartment building. 1. Can the proprietor of the building stop the neighbors from using this short cut, and 2. If so, how? C. H.

1. Yes. 2. One course would be by locking the door. Another would be by arresting persons who come on to the premises without express or implied invitation after notice to keep off and who consequently are trespassers.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

NOT RIGHT OF BANK.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My father cashed a pay check at our bank which turned out to be no good. Did the bank have the right to take the money from the joint savings account belonging to my mother and me? A. K.

No. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHOVELS SNOW OFF PREMISES.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In the six flat apartment building in which I live [no lease] no snow is shoveled off the back stairs and passageways used by all six families. Since I have done this myself, (1) is it possible for me to put in a reasonable bill for my labor? 2. Is there any law forcing the landlord to keep the front sidewalk clear from snow and ice? 3. Can a landlord compel a tenant to pay rent in advance? J. C. R.

1. No. 2. Where the landlord retains control of the premises used by all of the tenants, there is, ordinarily, an implied obligation on him to maintain such part of the premises in a reasonable state for use. 3. Yes, in the ordinary case.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

PRETTY DULL YESTERDAY—we couldn't find much in the newspapers to read about except murders, bomb throwing, bandit raids, some dry-enforcement shootings, and that Chicago was still broke and going broker.

There was nothing in the news about the naval powwow in London except accounts of the dinners, teas, and receptions the delegates attend, and Sec. Stimson's house party for the Americans at the country house he has taken over. Ho-hum! they've been tinkering around over there for a couple of weeks and not a battleship sunk yet. Well, after the delegates get through viewing Westminster Abbey and the Tower and Mme. Tussaud's Wax Works and St. Paul's and Regent's Park and going to all those dinners and things, maybe they'll get down to business. Anyhow, the American delegates have got their troubles; they've got to go to some sort of a state affair and wear knee pants. And they know that an American who wears knee pants in London couldn't be elected keeper of the dog pound back home in the U. S. A.

They tried to make Charley Dawes wear those things when he first landed there as ambassador, but Charley buck-jumped, and they haven't got 'em on him yet. Of course, if all the rest of the American delegates say they will wear the comic pants maybe Charley will have to, but we'll bet you a plush lined, silver mounted pancake that he won't.

And another thing: the Italians and French say they can't cut down the size of their ships because it takes so much space to carry enough wine for the crew. And if a French or Italian sailor doesn't get his wine he won't fight. In the American navy we don't give our brave gobs any wine or rum to pep 'em up when there's a battle on. We give 'em a ham sandwich and a kick in the pants and say, "Go in and die, brave lads. If the enemy don't get you the dry sleuths will." Well, anyhow, that's a question for the conference to worry about.

FOR EIELSON AND BORLAND.

Their aerodrome now, some whirling star,
The Northern Lights, a flare,
And Orion's Belt, flood lights afar,
And never an unflown dare.

From the blue ravines of shoreless space
Through the silver crags of the sky
When a winter sunset lights the race
And the Unseen Airmen fly.

And these shall lead by the Pleiades
Around to the Southern Cross,
And vertical bank where crystal seas
Are fringed with luminous moss.

Untouched, through fire and rain;
Each time the winds of the far north blow,
These two shall fly again.

JAYHAWKER.

SNOWSHOE HUNTS FOR A JOB.

R. H. L.: Yesterday I slams my typewriter into a corner of our igloo an' crawls disgustedly into my hat an' coat. Right away my dear Toast Burner glances up an' squeaks:

"Where to, Sitting Bull? Why do you grab your blanket an' war bonnet?"

"For a torrid reason," sneers me. "The writing game is all shot to hell, an' I'm going out an' find a job! Any kind of a job!"

"Well," yawns her, "you know what the little voice said to Gen. Pershing as he knelt beside Lafayette's tomb!"

So I picks up the Trib an' wades through the "Help Wanted" pages. After disinteresedly scanning several monotonous columns of "HUMORIST WANTED—BIG PAY," I sees an ad which appeals to me. I have always felt that I would be a great asset to an advertising agency on account of my unique talents; therefore, I gallops down to the offices of The Snitzzelwitz Company an' grabs an interview with The Big Odor himself.

"Mr. Snitzzelwitz," says me to him, "cast your eyes—at least, your good eye—upon God's gift to The Perplexed Executive! Puns, Pathos, Putridity, Puritanical Phrases, or what will you?—that's me! Originality? I invented it! I've got more snap than a crapshooter's fingers! I'm——"

"Just what do you know about this business?" inquires him.

"Nothing," says I.

"Sorry," says he, "our firm already has a vice president, but in case he croaks I'll get in touch with you immediately."

This makes me decide to become a salesman instead, so after referring to the "want ads" again, I breezes into the headquarters of The Goofus Company an' howls loudly for a job.

"Have you had any experience?" asks Mr. Goofus.

"My dear sir," snorts me, "I have been tossed outa the Woolworth building, flung from the Spearmint Shanties, thrown outa windows, hurled offa back porches an'——"

"My word!" murmurs Mr. Goofus, an' he grabs his telephone, calls a friend of his which is a booking agent, an' says, "Kelly, there's a gink in my office which is a wow at being tossed, hurled, flung an' thrown. Can you use him in an aerial trapeze act?"

This don't make no hit with me, so I uses violent language an' erases myself from the scenery. Referring to the "want ads" again, I spots one which says "Illustrator Wanted—Must Be High Class." I have always felt that I could become a great success in that line because I have done a large amount of drawing; in fact, I once attended an art school. Therefore, one hour later I calls upon the agent, tosses a dozen assorted sized original drawings on his desk an' says:

"Look 'em over, Mr. Rosenberg! Note the graceful lines, the expressions on the faces, the light an' dark effects, the perspective, the marvelous——"

"Did you draw these?" inquires him, frowning.

"I did," says I, proudly, "an' I hope——"

Whereupon Mr. Rosenberg leaped at me, knocked me prostrate among the cuspidors an' sat on my chest!

So tomorrow, damn it, I'm going out an' answer the ads which read, "Boy Wanted!"

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 31, 1865.

NEW YORK.—The World's Port Royal correspondent mentions the beginning of a new campaign which will be brief but grand. He says the reported object will probably create for the army more prestige and glory than the capture of ten ordinary cities. Every available soldier in Sherman's army has left Savannah, Beaufort, and Port Royal.

WASHINGTON.—A. J. Burrows, a clerk in the currency bureau of the treasury department, was shot dead in the treasury building by Mary Harris from Chicago. She alleges Burrows seduced her under promise of marriage and afterward married another woman. The affair created a great sensation.

WASHINGTON.—Richardson and Browne, journalists who escaped from Salisbury prison, testified before the committee on the conduct of the war that the rebel authorities are murdering our men by cold and hunger. They mentioned deliberate cases of killing and wounding. From Oct. 18 to Dec. 18 the deaths were 20 per cent of the whole number of prisoners.

NEW YORK.—The Herald's St. Louis correspondent gives the outlines of a reported rebel project west of the Mississippi. It is to the effect that Gen. Kirby Smith, commanding all the rebel troops west of the Mississippi, has been negotiating for a transfer of his troops to Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 31, 1900.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—William Goebel, Democratic contestant for the governorship of Kentucky, was shot through the lung by an unknown assassin while approaching the state capitol. At a late hour physicians said there was scarcely a chance that Goebel would live until morning. In view of his probable death the board of contests tonight declared him entitled to the seat as governor over Gov. Taylor, Republican. Harland Whittaker, a farm hand employed by a brother of Gov. Taylor, was arrested, charged with the shooting of Goebel, and taken to Louisville for safe keeping. The assassin used a rifle and smokeless powder. The bullet came from a third story window of a building near the capitol. There is a strong probability that martial law will be declared and that the session of the legislature at which the Democrats have determined to seat Goebel will be stopped by the military. Soldiers have been arriving at intervals all night. The excitement is intense.

CHICAGO.—Miss Charlotte Maude Spry and George Lathrop Swift were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen Spry, 481 West Monroe street, by Dr. W. M. Lawrence.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 31, 1920.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—Declaring he will not transfer the government of Mexico to the presidential candidate to be chosen at the election next July, President Carranza has proclaimed himself dictator of Mexico, a Mexico City dispatch says.

LONDON.—It was announced today that Mrs. W. B. Leeds, widow of the tinplate king, who died in 1909 leaving her a fortune of $15,000,000, will be married tomorrow at Montreux to Prince Christopher of Greece, younger brother of former King Constantine. Prince Christopher has no money.

NEW YORK.—A strange love story of the war has come to light at Ellis Island, where Miss Emily Knowles, a young Englishwoman, and her 3 months old baby are waiting to see whether the government will permit them to join Miss Knowles' American aviator sweetheart, Perley R. Spiker of Baltimore, and his wife, Mrs. Cora Spiker. Mrs. Spiker is anxious to take the mother and child into her home, and is leading the fight to have them admitted to this country. Spiker was with the American aviation forces in England when his romance with Miss Knowles began. He is ready to adopt the child, and his brother, Guy S. Spiker, is willing to marry Miss Knowles, although he has never seen her.

CHICAGO.—Henry U. Mudge, once president of the Rock Island lines and of the American Railway Association, died at his home in Denver after a stroke of apoplexy. He was 63 years old.

EVILS OF MINORITY REPRESENTATION.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The letter of Mr. Bentley, president of the L. V. L., to the political leaders shows the pitiful position the people are in. When will such organizations wake up to the fact that they are the laughing stock of the bosses? What do they care about a divided people? It is just gravy for them.

Having an organization selecting legislators, another selecting aldermen, another judges, and so on, is all bosh and is just what the bosses want—anything but a united people. What is needed is one organization which keeps a check on all office seekers. The first thing to do is to change the law so a candidate receives one vote and then each party would nominate three candidates in each district.

Newspapers are always harping on the fact that we are disfranchised because our representatives refuse to reapportion the state. That is a very small matter as compared to the bosses picking the candidates for representatives, we absolutely having no choice in the matter. In the strong Republican district the Republican bosses select two and Democrat bosses select one, there being three elected, and the bosses see to it that only three are selected. In a strong Democratic district the tactics are reversed.

When the worst element of both parties are put in nomination, then the Legislative Voters' league and civic organizations go to the leaders and demand better men be placed on the ticket. They only laugh in their sleeves.

Our weak-kneed newspapers could help wonderfully in this and kindred situations, but they do not dare. We have not a newspaper in this county that has anything but the backbone of a cuttlefish. Is it any wonder that we have such representatives in Springfield?

D. A. MARTIN CLARK.

MEDALS AND CABLE WORKERS.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—I have been interested in the correspondence in the Voice of the People about the Atlantic cable reminiscences.

Perhaps Mr. Hutton and Capt. Napper will remember Engineer Officer William Farquharson of the Great Eastern. He was my grandfather and has been dead many years.

Mr. Hunt will be interested to know that my grandfather also received one of the gold medals struck to commemorate the occasion, together with a letter thanking him for his services. There were only five of these medals struck, I believe. The officers of the Great Eastern cast lots to determine who should receive them. Each medal is inscribed with the name of the man who received it.

This medal and the letter, both of which I have seen and handled many times, are now in the possession of my mother, Engineer Officer Farquharson's daughter, who lives in the Scilly islands, England. MRS. J. G. WREN.

AN ABUNDANCE OF SCHOOL ITEMS.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—In THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE the voice of the teacher appeared on more than one page. I refer to the interesting article of Mr. McAndrew, the interview with Mrs. Maris Norton, which reflects the clarity of vision and soundness of judgment that only long experience and a noble character can give, the Voice of the People, which speaks in defense of the schools and, lastly, an editorial on "Our Neglect of English."

Congratulations! Keep up the good work! Could more articles like these appear amidst the bewildering confusion of crime, scandal, crooked politics, and European controversies, I believe the general public would be roused out of its lethargic indifference to the well being of an institution which is training and molding the character of citizens who are to govern and be the Chicago of the future in two or more short decades.

Yes, the teachers are long suffering, and more through a sense of service than of helplessness. However, through the agency of more than one voice, that sword of Damocles of uncertainty and doubt may yet be lifted. It has rested above their heads for more years than one cares to count. The Chicago teacher may still gain some better incentive to sure progress, more sincere service and a deeper idealism if the attention of all citizens, whether parents or not, can be focused upon conditions as they now are and are sure to become in the future.

LAURIE R. FRAZEUR,
Teacher in Senn High school.

SOLVED.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Supplementing the letters which have appeared in the Voice of the People as to the proper form of salutation to use in writing a business letter to a woman when it is not known whether she is Miss or Mrs. and the advisability of using Dear Madam in such an instance, I quote the following from Webster's New International Dictionary concerning the use of Madam:

"A form of polite address to a lady; variously used in different periods, places or circumstances. To a woman of whatever station when addressed as a stranger, as a business customer, etc. Hence, commonly, at the beginning of a letter to a woman. The corresponding word in addressing a man is Sir."

It seems to me the above definitely decides the question. SECRETARY.

NEW USE FOR GAS TAX.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 25.—Add 3 to 5 cents per gallon to gasoline tax and apply it to paying administration expenses which would give immediate cash funds instead of adding more on real estate. I believe that 60 per cent of the real estate cannot stand increased taxation and quite a percentage would be sold for taxes which in turn will lower values and produce less taxes later.

HOOVER SEEKS TO SPEED WORK ON POSTOFFICE

See Start on Building by Next Fall.

The construction of Chicago's new $14,000,000 postoffice next fall now seems assured after years of delay. The news that President Hoover is anxious to see work start was brought to the city from Washington yesterday by Maj. Perry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of building construction. The postoffice is to be the largest in the world.

Maj. Heath and John W. Philp, fourth assistant postmaster general, made a special trip here to expedite the preliminaries. All that is necessary now is the passage of the Keyes-Elliott bill in the house, which increases the building appropriation and provides for the employment of private architects.

Expect Action in Month.

This measure is backed by the administration and its passage within a month is expected.

Immediately upon passage of the bill, the architectural firm of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White will receive authorization from the treasury department to proceed with the working plans. Ernest R. Graham stated that these can be finished in time for actual construction to start in the fall. He estimated that the building could be completed in a year and a half—or in the spring of 1932.

Maj. Heath spent yesterday in conference with Mr. Graham, while Mr. Philp discussed plans for the building with Postmaster Lueder and other postoffice executives. Engineers for the treasury department, postoffice officials, and the architects will coöperate to make the interior arrangement the most convenient of any postoffice in the nation.

Hoover Seeks Speed.

Maj. Heath stated that President Hoover wants to get the public building program under way as soon as possible as one of the government's contributions to prosperity.

The new postoffice will be bounded by Clinton, Harrison, Canal and Polk streets. It will be 800 feet long and 300 feet deep and present plans call for a structure about nine stories high. Besides postal facilities, a number of other government departments will be housed in the structure.

Maj. Heath said that the government proposed during 1930 to spend $60,000,000 on public buildings throughout the nation, exclusive of the District of Columbia. During the next eight years it proposes to erect, including additions to present edifices, 1,200 buildings in various parts of the country.

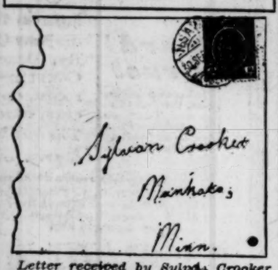
From Nsawam, Gold Coast



Letter received by Sylvia Crooker, 226 Bradley street, Mankato, Minn.

The writer of this letter is a boy attending the Wesleyan school at Nsawam, Gold Coast, Equatorial Africa. Nsawam is a small interior town about 25 miles north of Accra on the Gulf of Guinea and capital of the province.

Like most of the development on the west coast of Africa, the white man's interest had its beginning in the slave trade. The Portuguese were the original discoverers in the fourteenth century, to be followed by the English and Dutch and other traders in the seventeenth century, when the discovery of gold added to the attractions of the lucrative trade in Negro slaves.

The abolition of the slave trade early in the nineteenth century almost wrecked the coast, from which 10,000 Negroes had been exported yearly.

The British crown took possession in 1821 and gradually extended its power inland to take in Ashanti and the northern territories, giving the colony 80,000 square miles and a population of more than 2,000,000. Since the world war Britain's share of the former German colony of Togoland has been added to the Gold Coast for administrative purposes.

Accra, the administrative center of the colony, has a population of 38,000 The staple exports are cocoa, gold manganese, diamonds, mahogany, copra, and palm oil. Missions and schools are maintained by most of the organized churches in addition to the twenty-two government schools.

LOWDEN URGES STATE INCOME TAX AS FARM AID

Would Replace General Property Levy.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden advocated a general state income tax to replace general property taxes as one of the principal means of aiding the farmer in speaking tonight before the Illinois Agricultural association's 15th convention.

The former governor, long a champion of agriculture, said he could not understand why financial experts had overlooked agriculture depression in assigning causes for the present general depression in all business. He said he believed business interests, overlooking the important rôle agriculture plays in their own economy, have overlooked also, in their strenuous efforts to develop foreign markets, a market at home "vastly more worth while."

Tells of National Income.

In advocating tax revision, Mr. Lowden said the farm population of the nation was about 25 per cent of the whole, yet it received only 10 per cent of the national income and paid 30 per cent of that out in taxes. "The other 75 per cent of population receives about 90 per cent of the national income and pays 10 per cent out in taxes," he added. "How long can this go on without disaster to agriculture?"

Mr. Lowden said if the state persists in rejecting income taxes to secure advantage over other states, the federal government "may very likely treat the subject as it has taxes upon inheritance." If taxes were levied on income, the former governor said, voters would consider with greater care the need for new government activities which would enhance government costs.

"The time has come," Mr. Lowden said, "when we must equalize living conditions of farm and town. If the inequalities continue, the next generation will witness a farm population largely composed of the physically and mentally unfit."

Control Farm Production.

Control of agricultural production by crop diversification was advocated by Samuel R. McKelvie, grain representative of the federal farm board, at the afternoon meeting.

McKelvie spoke at the public relations session of the convention. He asserted that a careful study of production trends and a subsequent planning of crops, the farmers will be able to prevent large surpluses and thus obtain more for their products.

Plans for an Illinois grain marketing corporation were announced today and will follow the principles of the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

Under the project the Illinois group would be organized to acquire the largest centralized control of grain produced in the state, and grain would be fed to terminal markets in this and other states in an effort to maintain a level demand.

Buy or Lease Elevators.

Included in the plan is the proposal to purchase or lease country elevators and facilities. Advisory committees would be formed to handle each locality, the announcement proposes.

Efforts will be made during the preliminary arrangements and negotiations to solicit each member of the State Grain Elevator association to subscribe for an equitable amount of stock, the proceeds of which would be used as working capital and for funds to be used in purchasing stock in the Farmers' National Grain corporation.

At the annual business meeting of the Agricultural association following the banquet delegates unanimously reelected Earl C. Smith of Detroit, Ill., as prisident. He already has served four terms. All other officers except Frank D. Barton of Cornell were also retained. A. R. Wright of Varna was chosen to succeed Barton.

WABASH ICE GORGE IS THREATENING TO RELEASE NEW FLOOD

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 30.—[Special.] An eight mile ice gorge, holding back a twelve foot wall of water, in the Wabash river near its mouth, continued today to menace scores of families on both the Indiana and Illinois sides of the stream. Some families that would be in the path of the flood if the jam should break have evacuated their homes.

Airmen today dropped supplies for occupants of ninety flood bound homes. Relief workers here have prepared 266 more bags of food and clothing for distribution.

Plans for a trip to Washington, D. C., to advocate Indiana river improvement will be made at a meeting of officers and members of the Wabash-Maumee River Improvement association, and of mayors and other officials in cities along the Wabash at Terre Haute Feb. 4.

Working with senators and congressmen from Indiana and Illinois, the delegation will seek immediate action on proposed improvements of the Wabash and Maumee rivers to equip them with levees to prevent floods in the valley as a part of the project to provide a waterway from the Mississippi to the great lakes.

DRAGS HOOVER'S NAME IN SENATE LOBBY INQUIRY

Silk Man Reveals Talk with President.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—President Hoover's name was dragged into the senate's lobby investigation again today when coalition members of the inquiry committee found a letter disclosing that the President discussed tariff and other national policies with Horace B. Cheney, silk manufacturer and lobbyist for the Silk Association of America.

The letter was the high point of a three hour grilling cross-examination which Cheney, a high protectionist, underwent at the hands of Senators T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.], T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.], and J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.]. In sharp contrast to their raging, storming and quibbling today, the same three senators yesterday excused without a question Herman Metz, low tariff lobbyist for German dye interests, who fell back on a poor memory and did not produce bank records to prove that a $1,000 check given Senator W. H. King [Dem., Utah] during the 1928 campaign was destroyed uncashed.

Lobbyist for 30 Years.

Cheney readily admitted he is a lobbyist with 30 years' experience, beginning in 1896, when he and his father, then active in Cheney Brothers company, were lobbyists at the Connecticut state capitol and covering every tariff revision brought before congress in the last 25 years. Cheney is a vice president of the American Tariff league, of which Senator Joseph R. Grundy [Rep., Pa.] was the active head until his appointment to the senate last December.

"I had a very interesting and pleasant session with the President—about half an hour's conversation," Cheney wrote to Ramsay Peugnet, secretary of the silk association on April 12, 1929, in the letter which aroused Caraway, Walsh, and Blaine. The letter went on to say that the President "expressed himself quite freely" in favor of using invoice values in the United States as a basis for the assessment of ad valorem duties, a scheme which Cheney disapproved.

"Invoice value is too susceptible to conceive of rebate, and I do not have great faith in quick action of flexible tariffs, certainly not unless you can get a differently constituted tariff force, which is not to be picked by Mr. Tumulty," wrote Cheney.

Refers to Joe Tumulty.

The Tumulty referred to is Joseph P. Tumulty, former secretary to the late President Wilson.

"Apparently you don't have a very high opinion of the tariff commission's force or staff?" asked Walsh, who was reading the letter.

"Well," answered Cheney, "I don't think they have always been fairly disinterested or unprejudiced."

Cheney's letter represented the President as desirous of "enlarging the powers of the federal trade commission with relation to unfair competition," and quoted "other sources" as authority for the statement Mr. Hoover "was disappointed at the outspoken manner in which (Attorney General) Mitchell approached the oil conservation question and the fact that it left no "loophole."

Oil Conservation Problem.

Questioned by Walsh on his interest in the oil conservation problem, Cheney declared that overproduction is the most pressing problem in the silk industry as it is in the oil industry, and that he and other leading silk manufacturers had hoped a solution of the oil problem by control of production might open the way for a similar remedy in the silk industry.

After nearly an hour of hammering, Caraway, Walsh and Blaine finally succeeded in persuading Cheney to admit that the more than $40,000 spent by the American Tariff leagus in the 1928 presidential campaign for "protective tariff education" was designed to assist in the election of Republican congressional candidates.

Oscar Strauss, Composer, Passes Through Chicago

Oscar Strauss, Viennese composer, passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to Hollywood. He was accompanied by Mrs. Strauss, and he carried two little bags—a red one and a white one—from which he refused to be parted in making the change of trains. The red bag, it was discovered contained "Tutzi," Frau Strauss' dog. The other held the Strauss compositions. Mr. Strauss is the composer of "The Chocolate Soldier," and of "Married in Hollywood." He expects to oversee the production of operettas for the talkies.

SIX MORE SMOKE SUITS REQUESTED BY CITY BUREAU

Twenty-six Cases Now on Court Docket.

Court action against six alleged violators of the city's smoke ordinance was requested yesterday by Frank A. Chambers, chief smoke inspector. Suits against the violators will be instituted in the Municipal court by City Prosecutor Peska.

The smoke department, according to Chambers, will ask for a maximum fine of $100 in each case. Chambers pointed out that after a first violation is detected his department sends out a warning notice or requests the violator to attend a hearing in his office. Suits usually are not started, he said until after the violator has been given a chance to remedy the conditions and has failed to act.

Those named in the new suits are:

Jackson Park hospital, 7531 Stony Island avenue.
Allyn & Bacon, 2231 South Park avenue.
Michaelson Fireproof Storage company, 4237 Indiana avenue.
Throop Street Auto and Wagon company, 2100 South Throop street.
Mrs. Anna K. Lespinasse, 4101 Sheridan road.
Verona apartments, Carl A. Erickson, lessee, 1008 North Clark street.

With the filing of the six new suits the city prosecutor has twenty-six smoke cases ready for trial in the Municipal court. Four cases were disposed of last Monday and Peska has eight set for trial on Feb. 3 and six for Feb. 10 in an attempt to clean up the smoke docket.

Those cases set for Feb. 3 are:

Clifford house, Carl A. Erickson, lessee, 227 North Clark street.
Carl A. Erickson, 1004 North Clark street.
Carl A. Erickson, 27 West Ohio street.
Pratt Lane hotel, John Lyle, lessee, 1246 Pratt boulevard.

Those cases set for Feb. 10 are:

Carl A. Erickson, 853 North Clark street.
Carl A. Erickson, 1004 North Clark street.
Frank Kolaczwski, 1741 West Division street.
A. L. Randall company, 525 West 76th street.
Sam Rissman, 4706 North Monticello avenue.

The suits against Erickson set for trial Feb. 10, according to Chambers, are for violations that followed upon the suits which are set for Feb. 3. A total of seven suits are now pending against Erickson for air pollution by the emission of smoke from buildings owned by him or under his control. Numerous notices have been sent to Erickson, the smoke inspector said, and requests for an appearance in the city hall were ignored. The maximum fine of $100 will be asked for each of his seven cases.

S. F. M'CORMICK CASE MAY GET IN FEDERAL COURT

Santa Barbara, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Preliminary steps looking toward what may be a final court ruling in regard to the guardianship of Stanley F. McCormick, mental invalid, and the custody of his $50,000,000 estate were taken here today when Paul Patterson of Cleveland, O., associated with Newton D. Baker, attorney for Mrs. McCormick, conferred with Judge William Dehy.

Attorneys point out that the recent action of Mrs. McCormick in appealing to an Illinois court for guardianship of her husband raises a question of jurisdiction of the courts of Illinois and California which only the federal court can settle.

A conference between Mrs. McCormick's attorneys and Oscar Lawler, attorney for Harold McCormick, to discuss these matters has been proposed for next week.

WAR COST ADDED TO ARMY'S BILL: GEN. SUMMERALL

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Coupling the cost of past wars with present military expenditures to give the impression that the current costs of national defense are excessive was attacked as unfair today by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, army chief of staff, in an address before 2,000 delegates attending the Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense.

Gen. Summerall was one of four speakers appearing before the conference during the day. Others included Senator Millard Tydings [Dem., Md.], who predicted a new competition in land and air armaments would follow swiftly on any agreement to limit naval establishments reached at the London conference; Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, and Charles B. Robbins of Iowa, former assistant secretary of war.

The chief of staff asserted that it was manifestly unfair to navy and army establishments to confuse the cost of national defense with the total cost of present expenditures and all past wars. To determine the actual cost of national defense, Gen. Summerall asserted, only funds expended for military purposes should be counted.

Pacifists Use Figures.

While Gen. Summerall did not mention President Hoover's recent personal analysis of government expenditures, which was prepared in such a way that it emphasized that 72 cents of every dollar of federal government appropriations was expended on past wars and current military expenditures, his remarks were widely interpreted as taking exception to the President's method of outlining national defense costs. It was also recalled in this connection that the National Council for Prevention of War, a pacifist organization, had been quick to utilize the President's figures in an attempt to give the impression that present American military costs were excessive.

"The cost of national defense should not be confused with the cost of past wars," Gen. Summerall said. "To do so is manifestly unfair. The cost of past wars is the price paid for acquiring and retaining our government and our territory. The present contribution toward the payment for past wars is the interest upon the investment of each generation in our liberty, our homes, our resources and our national existence.

Public Debt Included.

"In addition to the public debt, the cost of past wars include pensions, the care of veterans, their dependents, and their hospitalization. It has no bearing on the upkeep of the small establishment necessary to guarantee a constitutional form of government to the Union and the states, to suppress insurrection or rebellion, and to repel invasion. Provision for the future must also be separated from the expenditures for this establishment. The funds spent for fortifications, armament, munitions, etc., represent an insurance premium for future security.

"Again, there is mistakenly counted against the army the large sums appropriated for civil activities administered by the secretary of war in the interest of efficiency and economy. These include the Panama canal, the inland waterways, rivers and harbors, flood control, the insular possessions, the Alaska cable and telegraph, the national parks and cemeteries, and numerous other public services that have no military character. These amount to more than 122 million dollars for this year."

PANTAGES LOSES THIRD BATTLE TO GET OUT OF JAIL

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP)—The third attempt of Alexander Pantages, multimillionaire showman convicted of a criminal assault, to gain his liberty on bond failed today. At the same time Superior Judge Fricke, denying the petition for bail, prefaced his decision with a fiery denunciation of alleged attempts by members of the theater man's family to influence the court.

"I will say right now," Judge Fricke said, "that in denying Pantages bail I am eliminating entirely from my consideration the ex-parte efforts of members of the defendant's family to influence this court and efforts of the defendant himself to secure irregularly his release."

Judge Fricke said he had received a three page letter, penned by Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the convicted man, appealing for consideration for her husband on the assertion that he was a "very sick man," and that he "was needed at home by his sick wife and his children."

MOTOR INDUSTRY TALKS OF EXPORT, EYES NAVY MEET

Billion a Year Depends on Sea Lanes.

BY HAL FOUST.

The American automobile industry, centered in Chicago this week for the national automobile show, is watching the London naval conference with more than casual interest. The United States is exporting a million cars a year. This trade, the industry feels, needs the protection of an adequate navy.

The American manufacturers are not without competition in the sale of a billion dollars worth of motor cars in foreign fields each year. The competition is keen, and in some places bitter. It has been a subject of no little international diplomacy.

Countries Protect Capital.

European factories have been unable to meet the American standard of automobile. However, foreign governments have been active in the support of their capital. Import taxes have been enacted to curtail American competition. In a few European countries the government has established a maximum quota on automobile imports.

The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has been doing much to stimulate foreign trade. Field workers abroad are teaching American road building and financing methods, the natural and logical method of creating a demand for cars. In fact, the chamber, according to some observers, has done more abroad than at home to stimulate highway and street improvements.

The chamber is also active in trying to relieve the strain of international trade relations.

Exports Fifth of Business.

G. M. Williams, president of the Marmon Motor Car company, yesterday expressed a sentiment that is quite general in the industry.

"The exports are about a fifth of the American manufacturers' business," he said. "With open trade lanes, these exports will grow.

"The United States needs a navy, not for aggression, but for protection. Commercially, our interests are not isolated on a continent in the western hemisphere.

Sees Navy as Peace Insurance.

"There is less chance of war with a navy. A six foot ex-football player doesn't receive as much abuse in a crowded street car as a five foot three fellow with a fourteen collar. There isn't as much likelihood of the big fellows getting into a fight.

"At my country home, I keep two great Dane dogs. They have never bitten anybody. Nevertheless, they are a safeguard against burglars."

At the New York headquarters of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce a few weeks ago, a newspaper reporter inquired at the export office regarding the feasibility of exporting used cars from the United States. The response to the inquiry reflected some of the chamber's work in international trade politics.

AUTO SHOW NOTES

Nearly 2,000 Chevrolet dealers and their banker associates from various parts of the middle west will attend a business session and banquet today. W. S. Knudsen, president of the motor car company, is the host. H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager, has prepared a series of one act plays to dramatize Chevrolet's 1930 sales message for the education and inspiration of the sales army.

H. M. Stephens, general sales manager of Cadillac reports that the public's interest in luxury cars is growing. He said that the 16 cylinder Cadillac was, in his opinion, attracting more attention than any vehicle in the $5,000,000 exhibition. Sales, he added, have surpassed expectations.

J. E. Fields, president of De Soto, yesterday congratulated his dealers on the sales record of the car in its first eighteen months of existence. He also outlined the 1930 sales possibilities of the new De Soto straight eight, which is advertised as the lowest priced eight in the world.

A large part of the automobile industry's personnel at the automobile show was late in getting to work yesterday morning following a party in the Sherman hotel roof bungalow given by Thomas J. Hay, distributor of Whippet and Willys-Knight.

Fire Routs Hundreds from Downtown Building

Fire swept through the lower floors of the eight story M. A. Donohue building at 711 South Dearborn street late yesterday afternoon. Several hundred workers were forced to flee to the street and large crowds gathered to watch the firemen. Fire Marshal Corrigan estimated the damage at $15,000. He said the blaze apparently started in a barber shop on the first floor and spread to the second and third floors. Traffic was blocked in Dearborn street for two hours.

FATAL AIR CRASH LAID TO FRAYED PIECE OF CABLE

Evidence Is Submitted at Coroner's Inquiry.

Kansas City, Kas., Jan. 30.—(AP)—A frayed cable, connecting to the right aileron of a Central Air Lines passenger plane that crashed here Monday and killed five persons, today was submitted to a coroner's investigation as the probable cause of the accident.

R. G. Lockwood, general operations manager for the Universal Aviation corporation, which controls the Central Air Lines, presented the evidence.

Aileron Evidently Out of Control.

Mr. Lockwood, who came here from New York to conduct an investigation, said the cable ran through a tube. It was frayed at a point where it passed around a pulley, and might easily have jammed, he testified.

Witnesses of the crash said that Pilot Dyke Laudeman had turned into the wind for a landing when the plane fell off on one side and plunged to the ground. This was taken to indicate that he had lost control of the ailerons, the hinged surfaces on the wings used in banking a plane.

Allen Criticizes Procedure.

Action of the Central Air Lines in hastily removing wreckage of the plane was scored today by Senator Henry J. Allen of Kansas, who said the procedure "did more harm to the future of aviation than twenty major accidents." The senator stopped off here while en route to Washington from Topeka, Kas.

"I'm going to take an active part in pushing the bills now before the senate which would revise present federal air laws," he announced.

Senator Allen said the public was vitally interested in the wreckage, and was entitled to know full details of the crash. All findings of the department of commerce in such accidents should be made public, he declared.

BISHOP CAREY'S TRIAL IS SET FOR MARCH 24

Bishop Archibald Carey, colored member of the civil service commission, will go on trial for alleged bribery on March 24 before Judge Otto Kerner in the Criminal court, it was decided yesterday. The state's attorney's office asked for an earlier trial date, but attorneys representing Carey said they could not be ready until late in March. Carey was indicted on evidence of alleged irregularities in connection with civil service examinations for the police and fire departments.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Howie Morenz, spectacular center for the Montreal Canadiens, turned in his second brilliant game of the week tonight, leading his team to an overtime National Hockey league victory over the Chicago Blackhawks, 1 to 0. Morenz scored the only goal of the game on a blazing left wing drive that beat the otherwise impregnable Chuck Gardiner.

CHUCK GARDINER.

For three periods they battled on fairly even terms with Gardiner's great goal tending keeping Les Canadiens out of the scoring column.

After six minutes of overtime, Couture drew a penalty for tripping Morenz and Howie took advantage of the occasion to dash down and score.

The Hawks sent four men up the ice in the last two minutes. Les Canadiens played safe, shooting the disk the length of the rink and withstanding Hawk attacks until the final bell.

Pegler Finds South's Fields of Snowy White, and Trouble

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 30.—[En Route to the Ice Boat Regatta at Palm Beach, Fla.]—Forging along the highway at twenty miles an hour between fields of snowy white in the sunny southland, last evening, your correspondent's high powered barouche was derailed by a snowplow about one mile south of Henderson, N. C., and the overnight delay in that place has done something to some of his most cherished prejudices.

Up to a late hour Wednesday evening, your correspondent had set considerable store by certain impressions or illusions regarding the southern rural character. The worst of these had received no little encouragement along toward six o'clock in the evening when he hesitantly offered a dram of bonded five year old first aid to a determined woman who had been dumped in a sitting posture on the hard highway as her own docile flivver veered into a bank, yielding all of the road to a young man in a dashing coupe.

What to Do, and How?

The young man stopped at once and seemed somewhat at loss as to just how to administer emergency relief, it being his instinct no doubt, to chafe or rub the site of greatest inconvenience as one does if and when one has been poked on the nose.

The victim was wearing an early Queen Mary hat crowned with artificial geraniums, a stalk of bananas, and other shrubs and garden truck in rank profusion, and even in her straightened physical circumstances of the moment she still preserved something of the forbidding manner of the habitual lady chairman.

I realized that the home state of the Hon. Josephus Daniels was no discreet place in which to flout the only important codicil of the United States constitution. It was apparent that this was a case of shock and therefore, in my simple code of therapeutics, a case for a dram of grog, but the remedy had been prescribed for me, alone, to relieve a condition which I need not describe, although I would be pleased to talk symptoms and exchange draughts with any one similarly ailing.

Plainly I would be courting scorn and perhaps an indictment for it took no great effort of the imagination to visualize the subject, now sitting quite frankly on the concrete, but somewhat protected by flannel bloomers, leading delegations of aroused females of both sexes up some state house hill to storm, a legislature under the white banners of total abstinence and all singing doggerel hymns off key in the brave days of the great crusade before 1919.

Half concealing the flask I crossed the road and said: "Do you feel just awful, lady? Would a small snort of something very select be of any assistance?"

She raised her eyelids slowly, like faded drop curtains rolling up into some fly loft beneath the jungle scene of her millinery. Her pale green orbs looked up, not with eagerness or even appreciation but with something of despondent resignation as though it were hard to hear that after all these years there was still small snorts of anything anywhere in the land, much worse in Carolina.

"No," she exclaimed faintly but firmly. "I would rather have pneumonia than whisky."

"Well," said your correspondent, slightly piqued, "if I had some pneumonia, you would be the first one I'd give it to," and turned back to hide the flask again.

Young Man Admits Fault.

But, before leaving the scene, I did ask the young man in the dashing coupe if there were any peculiar local formalities about one's leaving the scene of an accident and he replied, "O, no; it was all my fault and I'll drive the lady to her home."

Now, this was the point at which my notions of the southern ruralite began to be wrenched the other way, for I must say that my conceptions had been derived from small press items from Alabama stating that the posse had burned the culprit after first permitting the lady to run him through with an umbrella in the courthouse square, from the likes of Congressman Willie [Hippety-skip] Upshaw of Georgia, and from tales of the Americanization work of the Ku Klux Klan.

This young man, however, had run a flivver off the road in a careless moment and now, far from minimizing

CLUB ELECTIONS.

AT THE Chicago Athletic association annual election Tuesday, there were two tickets in the field for the first time in several years. Campaigning was spirited. As a result, 1,775 ballots were cast. That is about 70 per cent of the resident membership of 2,550. It broke all previous records, even surpassing in percentage the oldtime fights which often aroused personal feeling.

This turnout would appear to belie the oft-expressed opinion that club interest or club loyalty, or club consciousness, whatever you call it, is waning. The theory has been that club unity suffered from the Volstead act.

Certainly there are not the same "good old times," as the wets like to call them. Whether or not one indulged, the club bar and the lounge found many more members about than now. New members do not meet older members as they once did. The club is a place to lunch or dine, play billiards, cards, bowl, exercise, or take a swim, but members do not gather around in social converse as they once did. In some organizations, "room clubs" have become clubs within a club.

It has become a problem with entertainment committees to furnish entertainment which the members will attend. Many wondered if club interest, except as a necessity, was not becoming moribund. That is why the figures of the C. A. A. election made such an impression on The Wake. The lesson is that two tickets in any club election, if personalities are avoided, stimulate club interest and are desirable.

Viewing Carnera and Other Things.

The Wake has been invited to be one of a foursome to view the Carnera-Rioux bout at the Stadium tonight. The lady assigned to us, we are informed, goes in for books, music and art—not a superficial highbrow but genuinely fond of books, music and art. Because we usually sit in the press box and work, we never have attended a boxing contest with a lady. Therefore, we'll be quite as interested in the reactions of a lady who goes in for books, music and art as in the boxing itself, if any. Possibly those reactions will be worth recording later if the lady in question does not happen to read this squib in the meantime.

PRIMO TO MEET RIOUX TONIGHT IN STADIUM RING

Expect 18,000 to See Giant Italian in Action.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Primo Carnera and Elzear Rioux are all set for the battle of behemoths at the Chicago Stadium tonight. Both are in fine shape—all bone and muscle—which accounts for the fact that the pair will weigh slightly under a quarter of a ton when they enter the ring.

When the two boys get their hair and trunks soaking wet, however, together they will just about make it an even 500 pounds, figuring in their shoes and 480 pounds of sheer beef.

As everybody knows, Sig. Carnera will contribute a majority of the pounds in tonight's tabulation. With his paraphernalia, he'll weigh close to 280 when he crawls through the ropes. His actual weight, though, is expected to be between 269 and 270.

Compare Primo with Willard.

Interest in the big Italian's size is expected to bring out the largest boxing show crowd of the winter season. Preparations have been made to accommodate upward of 18,000 persons, the requirements indicated by the advance sale.

Many comparisons have been made between the championship possibilities faced by Primo and the actual attainments of Jess Willard. In many quarters the general impression prevails that Carnera is a lot bigger man than Jess was at the time Jess was champion. The actual statistics, however, do not dwarf Willard.

Primo is exactly the same height as Willard, and his weight is but 9 pounds more than Willard's fighting weight. His reach is only one and one-half inches longer than Jess'.

Much has been said of Primo's neck, which is 20 inches, and his feet, which are No. 16. But little has been made of the fact that he wears only a size 7 hat, which may or may not mean something in connection with his championship aspirations.

Attell Gets License.

Abe Attell, former featherweight champion of the world, who has been acting as Primo's boxing teacher, will be one of the seconds. Leon Cie, Primo's manager, also will be in the giant's corner.

Attell obtained his license yesterday, thus ending considerable blues singing which the little fellow has been doing since he arrived in Chicago. Abe says he has been living an upright life, and that he was greatly chagrined to discover that some Chicagoans did not think him a nice man.

Rioux, who is suspected of having a glass chin, is greatly inspired since he happened to think what he did to that big bear that tried to eat him up one day up in his native Canada. It will be recalled that although the bear, which weighed and measured more than Carnera, bit off two of his fingers, Elzear stayed right in there and flattened the bear with a right cross, after which he finished the bruin with a bowie knife.

Elzear will not be permitted to carry a knife tonight, but he feels certain that if he can knock out an infuriated bear that he will have no difficulty in conquering Primo.

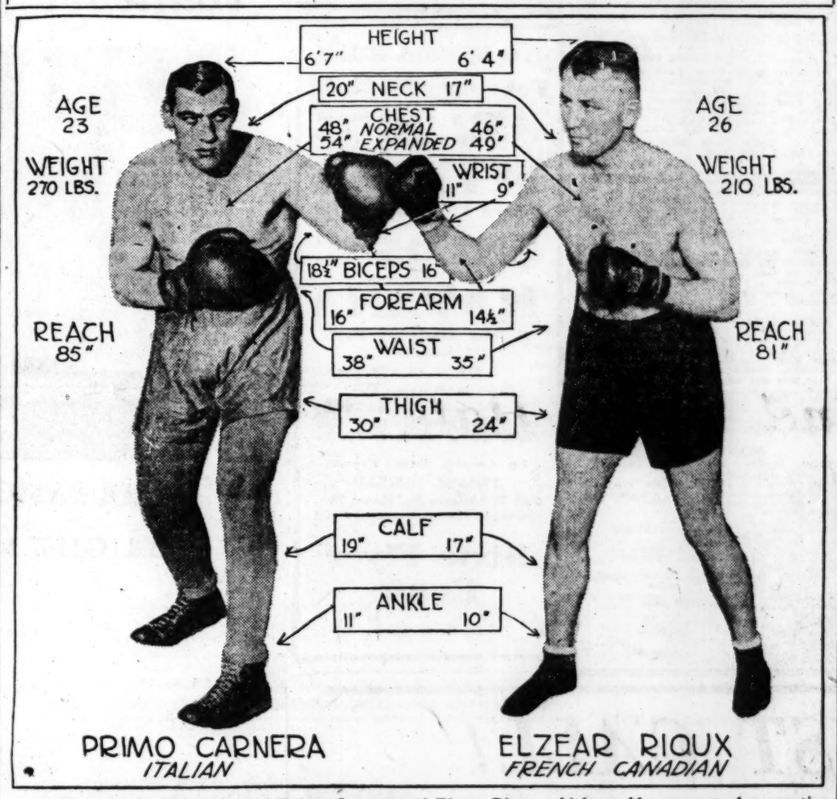
Skill Sent to Background.

At any rate, thoughts of the bear have removed all possibility of Elzear becoming faint hearted. He's going to play as if Primo is a bear and fight with great determination.

As usual when interest in the primitive is foremost, skill and artistry is hurled in the background in contemplation of tonight's card. But admirers of skilled boxing will find much to entertain them in tonight's return engagement between King Tut and Bruce Flowers.

Other bouts on the card are Jean Boireau, featherweight champion of France, vs. Al Greenfield of Chicago, 6 rounds; King Levinsky vs. Jack Barry, light heavyweights, 6 rounds; Ray McIntyre vs. Mickey Gill, bantam, 6 rounds.

PICKING ON SOMEBODY OF HIS OWN SIZE



The personal dimensions of Primo Carnera and Elzear Rioux, which would seem out of proportion against those of the average heavyweight boxer, appear evenly balanced when stacked up against each other. The Italian giant and the French Canadian lumberjack will trade pushes and rushes, if not punches, in the feature bout of tonight's boxing show at the Chicago Stadium. Although Elzear is spotting Primo sixty pounds, he isn't outdone very much in the matter of height and reach. Together they'll weigh in the neighborhood of one-quarter of a ton. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

Mianne Palfrey Reaches National Tennis Play Final

Brookline, Mass., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Eighteen year old Mianne Palfrey, third oldest of Brookline's five tennis playing sisters, today reached the championship round of the women's national indoor singles tourney by defeating Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, the 1928 champion, 2-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Miss Palfrey is the youngest player ever to reach the final of this event, and though unseeded, she forged her way into the last bracket by eliminating three seeded opponents in as many days. Her previous victims were Virginia Rice of Boston and Marjorie Morrill of Dedham.

Miss Palfrey will clash in the final Saturday against the winner of the semi-final match between Mrs. John B. Jessup of Wilmington, Del., who was top seeded and Miss Margaret Blake of Lenox, the defending champion, who will match strokes tomorrow.

4 Chosen to Probe Sports at Minnesota

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—President L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota today took the first step toward the reorganization of the school's athletic system with the appointment of four men outstanding in the field of sports and education to investigate conditions and also make recommendations.

The committee, consisting of Maj. John L. Griffith of the Western conference, C. W. Savage of Oberlin college, who had a part in the recent Carnegie foundation report; Grantland Rice, New York sports writer, as a representative of the public, and President H. M. Gage of Coe college, who also is president of the North Central Association of Colleges and Universities, will come here within a week to work on this problem.

Mr. Coffman's official announcement of the plans revealed that it is his idea to have these men help shape a constructive 10 year program for competitive athletics which will promote them more actively for the interests of the students.

It is possible that the findings of this committee will bring about a wholesale reorganization of the athletic system at the Gopher school and also bring new policies of conducting intercollegiate athletics.

As President Coffman made this startling announcement, which met with the general approval of Minnesota alumni and others interested in the school's sports activities, it seemed that the choice of a football coach to succeed Dr. C. W. Spears has narrowed down to one man—Bernie Bierman, at present at Tulane in New Orleans. A Gopher start in 1915, he is said to have the qualifications set up by the Minnesota faculty, as well as the alumni, from a coaching standpoint.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 30.—Purdue upheld the honor of Indiana basketball at Memorial gym tonight in a game that will go down in the history of Hoosierdom. The Boilermakers snapped Loyola's string of 34 victories with a 25 to 20 victory, but only in an overtime period after Loyola had pulled up from behind to tie the score at 20-all ten seconds before the final gun.

It was a battle of two great teams, led by two great centers, with no quarter asked or given. The margin of victory was wider than a single basket only because Purdue got the first basket in the overtime and scored again when Loyola's frantic drives to get the ball pulled them out of position. In reality, Purdue beat Loyola at its own game, for the Boilermakers shifted to a delayed break to meet their foes' type of game, and used a partial zone defense to stop them.

Loyola Takes Lead.

The oracles who prophesied that Purdue never would catch Loyola if the Chicagoans got off in front were wrong, for Loyola piled up a 6 to 0 lead at the start of the game. Then Purdue began to click and held its opponents to one free throw in the remainder of the half while piling up 14 points.

Through the second half the Old Gold and Black held the lead until the climax at the end of the regular time, when a hair's breadth separated Loyola from its thirty-fifth victory. Loyola was only a point behind, 19 to 20, with twenty seconds to play. Murphy of Loyola leaped to snare a loose ball after a bad pass in mid-floor, and raced under the basket. With two points and the game in his grasp as he leaped upward to shoot, Murphy of Purdue, who had raced after him, crashed him into the crowd on the sidelines. Feed missed the shot, but, of course, got two free throws for the foul.

Missed Second Shot.

The first sailed neatly through the net, tying the score, but his second shot was just a shade too strong and, as it bounded back, Herman Boots leaped on it. Seconds more and the gun ended the regular time. The ancient gym, which was packed to the rafters with 3,000 fans in the space 2,000 might have been comfortable, shivered with cheers as the tired boys mopped their faces, rested a minute, and then began the five minutes' extra period.

Stretch Murphy got the tip, as he did most of the time, but for a minute neither team could do anything against the other's defense. But with Stretch Murphy on the foul line for a pivot play, Wooden snaked through the defense to cut in from the right. Murphy flipped a high pass to him that Wooden leaped into the air to grab, leaped again, and dropped the ball into the basket. The gym might have been a gigantic steam siren from the shrill bellow that pierced the snowstorm outside.

A moment later and Murphy grabbed the ball off the back board after a Loyola long shot and passed to Wooden in the corner. Harry Kellar, formerly a Lake Forest academy star, who became eligible to play for Purdue only a week ago, had raced down the floor toward his own basket. Wooden whipped the ball to him and he scored from underneath. Boots got a free throw on Flynn's foul before the end, and it added the final point.

Long Shots Turn Tide.

As for the battle of the Murphys, the greater player is still Charles Murphy. There was little to choose between them tonight. Loyola's Murphy scored four baskets to two for Purdue's Murphy, and in speed they were alike. Purdue's Murphy got the tipoff at center about 60 per cent of the time, though Loyola got the ball at least 50 per cent. Loyola's Murphy handled the ball much better, but Purdue's Murphy was supreme on defense under his own basket. Take your choice and woe to the man who guesses wrong.

The outstanding individual performance of the night was by Glen Harmeson, who dazzled even those accustomed to looking at him.

Neither team was shooting particularly well, but, then, neither got any set shots except from well outside the foul circle. Purdue scored ten baskets on 50 shots, while Loyola made nine baskets on 51 shots. Five of the Boilermaker's baskets came from long shots beyond the foul circle and five from under the basket, while Loyola made four long shots, two on medium shots (from the basket to the foul circle) and three from under the basket. Purdue scored five of its nine free throws and Loyola two of ten.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Winning races is becoming a daily habit with A. P. Canale and it is almost as habitual with his brilliant 4 year old colt, High Score.

Three times in the last three days Canale has seen his colors lead their fields home over the muddy Fair Grounds track. And twice it was the sensational High Score which sported the silks of the popular owner.

With Jockey C. Meyer again in the saddle High Score scored his second victory in three days and his third in the past week as he showed the way to the judges' stand in the Al Jolson handicap.

The ace of the Canale stable won Tuesday in a two horse race and then came back today clearly to demonstrate his superiority against four other sprinters. The only time High Score finished out of the money in his ten starts was when he attempted to go the route, finishing last in a field of twelve at ½ mile.

EBBETS, CHASTAIN TO SUBSTITUTE ON DEMPSEY'S CARD

Jack Dempsey yesterday announced the matching of Harry Ebbets of Brooklyn and Clyde Chastain of Texas to take the place of the scheduled Mastro-Zivic fight on his card at the Coliseum a week from tonight. An infected tooth forced Mastro to withdraw.

Both Ebbets and Chastain have been active among the good middleweights. The most notable local accomplishment of either was the recent defeat of Haaken Hansen by Chastain.

The runners-up to Ebbets and Chastain at the Dempsey show will be Spug Myers and Joey Medill. George Trafton and Battling Criss also are billed to perform.

his blame or quibbling about contributory negligence, he accepted the whole responsibility, which was unlike anything I had ever heard of in considerable experience of such matters on the roads of New York and New England, where the defendant invariably denies he had anything to do with it.

Just Popped Out of Nowhere.

It was not many miles below this, as the blizzard blew up steadily worse, and your correspondent thought of Irving Berlin writing early songs of his Dixie dream and his home in Caroline, that suddenly in the middle of the road the snow plow was. One instant there was no snow plow and the next one there the snow plow indubitably was and your correspondent's barouche was teetering on the edge of a bank. Ahead, thirty yards, in the beam of the lights was a Negro cabin. There were no roses around the door, but the coal black mammy that Irving Berlin doubtless had in mind was peering through a yellow slit in the sash, exclaiming, "Whoo—ee!"

Once in New York I ran out of gasoline on Williamsburg bridge and a racketeer with a tow car and the wrecking privilege of the Brooklyn side of the bridge charged thirty dollars to tow the car ashore.

And Now Peg's Converted.

But in Henderson, N. C., at night, a man named Hester turned out his wrecking crane in a blizzard, brought along a lot of young men whom I took to be the town ball club, recovered the derelict, and said, finally, "Let's see; we had about eight men on there. I don't want to overcharge you. Would six dollars be all right?"

We compromised on ten and, in the morning, after a night in a primitive but uncommonly cordial hotel, the young man at the gasoline station completed your correspondent's conversion.

We fell to discussing topic A, and he said, "Yes, I reck'n we've got more prohibition down here than what you-all got up north. But we can get all the corn we want any time. New corn, about two dollars a quart. Aged corn, almost regular bourbon, four dollars. Real old apple brandy, $25 a gallon. Nobody pays you no mind if you drink, less'n you go to drivin' drunk or raisin' Ned around town."

TROEH DEFEATS RENFRO IN FOUR DAY TRAP SHOOT

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Frank Troeh of Portland, Ore., beat E. W. Renfro of Dell, Mont., in the four day trapshooting tournament at Trevose, which ended today. The margin was ten points, Troeh had a grand total of 569, while the Montana ace finished with 559.

Troeh exhibited accurate marksmanship, accounting for 194 in the singles, and 184 in the doubles. Although beaten by Renfro in the singles, Troeh continued to hold his lead by topping his rival, who was only able to score 173 in the doubles.

In the doubles match today Troeh scored 45 out of 25 pairs to win, while Renfro had 41. Both were tied at 88 apiece in the singles shoot.

Cleveland Pros Defeat Brooklyn; Take Lead

Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—George Glacos' one-handed shots, which helped him roll up 15 points, gave the Cleveland Rosenblums a 39 to 23 win over the Brooklyn Visitations in an American basketball league game here tonight. Cleveland led by 16 to 10 at the half. The victory permitted Cleveland, first half pennant winner, to take possession of first place in the second half race.

CURVE YOUR SHOT, BOB'S HINT FOR QUAIL HUNTERS

Elusive Georgia Birds Make It Necessary.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Radium Springs, Albany, Ga., Jan. 31.—If you have a 16 or 20 gauge shotgun that curves a charge of No. 1 shot around a pine tree, better bring it along when you come down here to take the field against that sporty upland game bird, the quail or Bob White.

We learned yesterday that it was necessary to make carom shots around 12 inch pines in order to bring down some of the quail, so you may imagine how our guns were strained when it came time to go boom and make the birds fall down.

For miles around you may travel through some of the finest quail country of the south. This is a section with an abundance of pine woods, old cornfields, acres and acres of weed fields, brambles and briars in tangled thickets, occasional swampy areas and peanut and cotton fields galore.

Birds Make for Safety.

When a covey is flushed from a weed patch birds make a bee line for the woods, a thicket along a creek or some other protective area affording birds chances for safety. So these smart southern birds lead a fellow a merry old chase in the course of the hunt.

The variety of shots is beyond description. One minute you are taking a covey rise in the open, congratulating yourself on the set up. The next minute the dogs are on point in a jungle of briars, vines and young trees so thick that it is almost impossible to get your gun up for action. Then is when you want one of those quail guns with a curved barrel that will throw a carom shot.

Georgia Hunt Sporty.

Yesterday's attack, staged some sixteen miles from town in company with Gene nad Chet Clarke, two Albany sportsmen, was, at times, more like a grouse hunt in the north woods of Wisconsin because of the number of shots in the woods.

So it's sporty stuff, this Georgia quail game down here in the old south. five good setters and pointers, an abundance of birds and the quail getting 75 per cent of the breaks, what more can a fellow ask for a day's fun.

A. A. U. Lauds Golden Gloves Boxing Meets

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

AVERY BRUNDAGE.

Avery Brundage of the C. A. A., president of the National and Central A. A. U., yesterday lauded THE TRIBUNE for its work in promoting the annual Golden Gloves amateur boxing tournaments. Mr. Brundage said they have done more to stimulate interest in amateur boxing than any bouts ever held.

Following is Mr. Brundage's letter:

"At a recent meeting of the Central association of the A. A. U., the report of the boxing committee dwelt at considerable length upon the excellent work that is being done by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE A. A. through the Golden Gloves tournament in promoting amateur boxing along the lines approved by the A. A. U. It was resolved that a vote of commendation be given THE TRIBUNE A. A. for its good work in upholding the best principles of amateur sport. We assure you of the whole hearted coöperation of the officials and committees of the A. A. U."

Commission Backs Meets.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the boxing commission and former president of the Central A. A. U., is doing everything possible to make the trials and finals a success. The commission recently took over amateur boxing and is working jointly with the A. A. U. Roy E. Davis, secretary of the Central A. A. U., with whom all boxers must register, also is lending a helping hand.

Entry of six boxers from the Central Northtown A. C. was received yesterday. Two of the entrants are sons of George Shrosbree, a heavyweight fighter of twenty years ago. George Shrosbree Jr. is a student at Lane Tech, where he is lightweight champion. He has scored a victory over Benny Goldblatt, present Central A. A. U. featherweight champion. He has lost eight fights in seventy-two starts.

Robin Shrosbree, who is also a student at Lane Tech, is the featherweight champion. He has won thirty-six out of forty-two bouts.

Touhy Playground Enters Five.

Jimmy Kernes will be the club's representative in the flyweight division. He is employed by the Majestic Radio company and works at the club's gymnasium every night. Jack Lazar, a featherweight, and Joe Risko, heavyweight, are the club's other two representatives.

L. A. Twomey, director of Touhy playground, nominated five fighters for the central trials, to be held at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium on Feb. 11.

Tickets for the Coliseum and Stadium shows are on sale at THE TRIBUNE public service office, 1 South Dearborn street. Prices of admission are one, two and three dollars

Messenger Quits Job to Win in South Bend Golden Gloves Meet; 40 Fight at Streator

Springfield's team of amateur boxers who will compete in The Tribune's Golden Gloves finals were picked last night. The Rockford tournament also reached the finals. First round bouts were held at Streator and Davenport. The South Bend meet has advanced to the semi-finals.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 30. — [Special.]—Let this story be a warning to Chicago amateur boxers. South Bend fighters are tough. In the second round of the four day South Bend News-Times Golden Gloves tournament tonight the audience yelled itself hoarse as it saw favorites emerge victorious.

The thriller of the evening was between Joe Veney, messenger boy, former amateur flyweight champion of Tampa, Fla., and George Razow, in the bantamweight division. Veney won after taking considerable early punishment.

Veney, who yesterday held a job with the Postal Telegraph company, resigned when his boss asked him to make a 48 block trip afoot. Veney said that he was saving every ounce of energy for the fight tonight.

Robert Hoenig, an assistant sports editor of the News-Times, called the "Fighting Journalist," won a decisive victory over Joseph Goetz when he knocked him out in the second round in the featherweight division. This was the first knockout of the tournament, but not the only one tonight.

Two contenders fought each other tonight, both wishing the other would win. They are neighbors and close friends and have been training together for the Golden Gloves meet. In the bout Isadore Gutstein won on points over George Van Derhayden in the featherweight class. Last night after an additional round their fight was called a draw and it took the extra time this evening to determine the winner.

Four Favorites Upset in Finals of Rockford Meet

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—The largest crowd that has attended an amateur show in Rockford in years packed Mandell's gym tonight to watch the amateurs fight it out in the finals in the Rockford Republic-CHICAGO TRIBUNE'S Golden Glove tournament. The finals were full of upsets, four favorites losing out.

Adam Smith, the pudgy heavyweight who tips the scales at 205 pounds, caused the first surprise of the finals when he stopped Fred Fenning in the first round. The next upset came when Isaac Gaynor, colored middleweight, knocked out Ollie Oij in the second round. Oij claimed a foul, which was not allowed by the referee or the commission's doctor.

The defeat of Joe Romano, the hard hitting southpaw lightweight, by Arne Asp, the rangy Swede, was another victory that upset predictions.

The only town outside of Rockford to win in the finals was Sycamore. Edwin Gordon, Spanish bantamweight, beat Al Smith in four desperately fought rounds that had the fans standing up.

Streator, Ill., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Streator boxing fans tonight witnessed more fighting than they have seen in years when forty amateurs fought their way through the preliminaries of the Streator Times Press-CHICAGO TRIBUNE Golden Gloves tournament. A crowd of 1,000 packed the high school gymnasium for the bouts.

The first fight of the evening went an extra round, with Vince Perino, La Salle 112 pounder, winning a decision from Frank Cali of Streator. Perino faces Nevito Valentine of La Salle tomorrow night. The latter drew a bye to go to the finals.

Dave Salomone's victory over John Massitti in the 118 pound class was one of the best fights of the night. Salomone, a U. of I. student, lost the first round, but came back strong.

Geneo Salavatore of La Salle scored the only knockout to date when he floored Homer Shelby, Streator High school track star, for the count of ten in the second round. Oswald Salamon was forced to an extra round to win from Joe Sparkey of Dixon. In the 126 pound class Harold Mindock of Oglesby battled to the finals in this division and tomorrow night will meet the winner of the Mitchell Hershaway-Salamone scrap.

Marshall Is Double Victor Over McKinley

Marshall heavies and lights opened their second round of play in the west section of the City league yesterday with victories over McKinley at the latter's gym. The heavies won 28 to 21, while the lights, whom McKinley defeated by a basket in their first meeting, gained revenge by rolling up 50 points to McKinley's 18, for the highest score of the league season. The victory gave the Marshall lights a record of 6 won and 1 lost, and the heavies 4 won and 2 lost. Lineups:

CHICAGO STOCKS ARE FIRM AFTER EARLY WAVERING

Butler Bros. Company to Omit Dividends.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago stocks were steady at the close yesterday after a session in which prices wavered under a mid-day siege of profit taking. Automotives and a few selected specialties were the features of the day's trading. There were a few exceptions which moved contrary to the general trend, notably Butler Brothers, which finished a fraction lower, discounting an unfavorable annual report which was issued after the close of the market.

A dividend of 30 cents was declared by Butler directors payable Feb. 15 to holders of record Feb. 4, but it was explained by Frank S. Cunningham, president, that the company will pay no more dividends this year. The report showed the extent to which the keen competition in the mail order and chain store business has cut into profits. Net for 1929 was $1,442,453, equal to $1.26 a share on the 1,138,110 shares of capital stock outstanding. In 1928 Butler earned net of $2,223,765, equivalent to $1.95 a share on the same amount of stock.

Will Boost Surplus.

In announcing the new dividend policy President Cunningham said: "By carrying a larger proportion of our earnings to surplus we will reduce our borrowings and interest charges. This conservative policy will hasten the day when satisfactory earnings can be shown."

The balance sheet of the company as of Dec. 31 shows surplus of $7,297,282, a decline of $861,223 from the previous year. Current assets were $37,022,361, an increase of $1,267,092, and current liabilities of $1,897,622, a decline of $3,127,917 from the previous year. Total assets and liabilities were carried at $40,417,104.

The expansion program and the stock market slump were the contributing factors in the decline in earnings, Mr. Cunningham said. The company plans to open eighty additional Scott stores this year. "None of the reasons for the reduced earnings in 1929 should be effective in 1930," Mr. Cunningham concludes.

Auburn Up 6 Points.

Auburn, with a gain of 6 points, Houdaille Hershey issues and Pines Winterfront were among the automotive stocks which advanced. Bendix and Borg Warner showed little change. Ross Gear gained a point to 35.

Among the specialties, Jefferson Electric and Art Metal were prominent, with gains of 1¼ and 2⅝, respectively. Gerlach Barklow improved 2¼ to 16¾, and General Theater Equipment was up over a point. Winton Engine dropped 1½. Great Lakes Dredge was off a point. The company reported an extra dividend of 2 per cent in addition to the regular payment of the same amount.

Insull Utility climbed 2¾ and the preferred second series was up about a point. Other investment issues were generally quiet.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—The break in the cotton market has unsettled and delayed cloth trading temporarily. Buying has been light, but offers at lower prices are more numerous. Foreign raw silk markets are closed because of holidays in the far east. Silk merchandise is in moderate demand. Yarns are quiet. Burlaps showed little change for the day. Stronger efforts are being made to hold prices steady on fall lines of men's wear.

News and Gossip of Stock Markets

Compare Reports.

The annual report of Sears, Roebuck & Co., showing substantial increases in both gross and net income, throws at first glance the Montgomery Ward statement into an unfavorable situation. Sears extracted nearly 7 cents in net out of every dollar of gross, compared with less than 5 cents made good for Ward. However, both companies felt the stress of lower profit margins, and it is said that perhaps the better showing of Sears was due in part to the slower pace at which the company expanded chain store business compared with Ward.

Oils May Benefit.

Discussing the oil situation one firm says that it "appears on the verge of being forced to solve its problems. If the recent drastic cut in crude prices serves the purpose intended by its sponsors the entire industry will benefit to a substantial extent. The total lack of inside liquidation during the present uncertainty augurs well for the future. Certainly all the stocks of the major companies are selling on an attractive basis as viewed from 1929 results."

Cite Bullish Factor.

Growth of the natural gas industry is cited as one of the bullish factors in the Byers Pipe situation, because contracts for new pipe lines this year are expected to show an additional increase as compared with 1929. Byers earned $5.81 a share for the year ended Sept. 30, 1929. Net profit, however, fell to 87 cents a share in the December, 1929, quarter.

Assumes Leadership.

After hesitating at the opening yesterday Union Carbide quickly assumed leadership of the chemical group, crossing 90 in larger volume than has been seen for some time. Recent improvement in market position may be explained to some extent by reports that the company's new process for the manufacture of alcohol will become a valuable source of additional revenue.

Chicago Curb Exchange Stocks

A firm undertone was evident throughout yesterday's trading on the Chicago Curb and the session finished with several gains recorded. A 4 point jump in Union Telephone was the best gain while Nehi moved into new high ground for the third successive day in an advance of about a point.

STOCK MARKET CREDIT NOW ON STABLE BASIS

Brokers' Loans Gain Only $4,000,000.

BY O. A. MATHER.

With stock market prices comparatively stable and trading of normal proportions, there naturally has followed a stabilization in the amount of credit devoted to speculation. Thus, this week's report on brokers' loans issued last night by the federal reserve board shows the smallest change in many months.

The report shows an increase of only $4,000,000 and the current total stands at $3,345,000,000, which marks a decrease of $2,214,000,000 from a year ago. This great decline, coupled with the small demand for credit for commercial purposes during the present transition period in trade and industry, is the reason why money has been going begging at 4 to 4½ per cent in the call loan market.

French Bank Cuts Rate.

Apparently, this month-end will witness the minimum of fluctuations in money rates. Corporations and individual lenders reduced their loans to brokers by a mere $5,000,000 in the last week, while the banks increased their loans by $10,000,000. The New York banks added $9,000,000 to their loans and the interior banks furnished an additional $1,000,000. However, the New York banks are lending $344,000,000 less than a year ago, the interior banks have cut down by $173,000,000 and other lenders have made reduction of $967,000,000.

The directors of the New York Federal Reserve bank held an unusually lengthy weekly meeting yesterday, but finally made no change in the 4½ per cent rediscount rate. Earlier in the day the Bank of England had made no change in its rate but the Bank of France reduced its discount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent and its interest rate on advances from 5½ to 4½ per cent.

The lower French rates were regarded as decreasing the probability of a further movement of English gold to France and therefore paving the way for a reduction in the Bank of England discount rate, and perhaps a further reduction in the New York reserve bank rate. The international gold movement favored this country in the last week, with imports of $5,304,000 and exports of $34,000, while gold under earmark for foreign account receded $2,501,000.

Shrinkage in Deposits.

In the present period of slack credit demand, the member banks of the reserve system are continuing to reduce their indebtedness to the reserve banks, with the result that the position of the system has been further strengthened. The weekly statement for the reserve system issued last night shows a decline of $26,282,000 in member bank borrowings, bringing this item down to $406,941,000.

Deposits dropped $45,965,000 and note circulation declined $37,340,000. Gold and total reserves increased $9,997,000 and $16,838,000, respectively, and the ratio of reserves to liabilities rose to 78.3 per cent, compared with 76.3 per cent last week.

The report of the New York reserve bank shows a decline of $24,731,000 in member bank borrowings, which now total $65,104,000. Bankers' acceptances receded $23,562,000. Deposits declined $22,872,000. Reserves expanded $27,195,000 and the reserve ratio rose to 77.3 per cent, compared with 73 per cent a week ago.

At Chicago, member bank borrowings increased $3,850,000, bringing this item up to $77,555,000, but bankers' acceptances declined $5,212,000. Deposits fell $7,787,000. Reserves declined $5,483,000, but the reserve ratio rose to 78.5 per cent, compared with 77.7 per cent last week.

Scrutator Discusses New Boulder Dam Controversy

BY SCRUTATOR.

The passage of the Boulder dam bill more than a year ago was followed by a series of events that will make interesting reading in the histories of the future, when the final end of all the controversies has been reached.

Under the legislation, the secretary of the interior must assure himself that he has in hand valid contracts for the power to be generated sufficient to carry 4 per cent interest and amortize the government's 165 million dollar investment within fifty years. In October he made a tentative allotment of this power, under which the greater portion was given to southern California.

Nevada, which has supported the dam project, and Arizona, which has been opposed, were limited to an ultimate maximum of 18 per cent of the power each. The secretary has fixed 1.63 mills per kilowatt hour as the price to be paid at the switchboard for this power, with the purchasers themselves to attend to the building of the power plants. Nevada protests and demands at least one-third of the whole power supply and offers 1.75 mills for it.

Plays Grim Jest.

So far the controversy is unsettled. Seemingly the interior department does not wish to set a higher price than 1.63 mills because that would not permit economical competition of the dam's power with cheap steam power in southern California.

Something like a grim jest has been played on the senators who were most active in putting Boulder dam over, in a recent opinion of E. C. Finney, solicitor. At least Senator Norris and Senator Hiram Johnson feel that way about it. In brief, the solicitor informed the secretary that he must first take care of the financial security to the United States in allocating power, and is not obligated to sell to states or municipalities unless their offers are as safe as those of private parties.

Three days ago Senator Norris complained bitterly in the senate that this opinion would allow the nullification of the wishes of congress and give the "power trust" everything that would be generated by public money spent on the dam. The tentative allocation would have turned over 25 per cent of southern California's share to a utility company. Boulder dam is so strictly a California benefit under the present proposals that state officials of Colorado and Utah have joined in condemnation of the policies.

Warns of Swindles.

Thus the territory around Los Angeles wants the water from behind the dam to make salable real estate and the power to pump the water through the mountains, with all the people of the United States taking the speculative risk on the capital. It is announced that the interior department wants to begin making contracts soon after Feb. 1, so that actual work can begin before the end of 1930.

What started as a conservation program for all the far west has become a scramble for sectional advantage there. On the edges are the very real dangers of real estate swindles based on the legislation and possible irrigation. Better business bureaus in Chicago, Boston, Kansas City, Indianapolis, Syracuse, San Francisco, and other cities have warned investors not to buy any land in the Colorado river region without seeing it. One warning is to the effect that any land ever irrigated will have to carry bonds of from $50 to $100 an acre in addition to the purchase price now.

Troubles Keep On Piling Up for Fox Film Corp.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 30.—The fourth default case brought against the Fox Film corporation since Saturday was filed today with the county clerk by the Chase National bank, which demands payment of $353,740.21, the balance of a $400,000 loan granted the corporation on Dec. 9 last.

The loan was made on the same date as two of the others in which default judgments are sought. It was issued on a demand note, the bank officials said, but on Dec. 30, when payment was asked, the corporation paid but $48,233.89.

Today's action indicated that the Fox corporation borrowed more than $1,000,000 on Dec. 9, all on demand notes issued by the Chase and two other banks.

Asks Roxy Corporation Probe.

Another development in William Fox's struggle to escape the receivership and at the same time prevent his opponents from wresting control from him, was an announcement of the class A stockholders' advisory committee of the Roxy Theaters corporation that it had sent a communication to the stockholders stating it was considered advisable "to conduct a thorough inquiry into the affairs of the Roxy Theaters corporation and its relations with the Fox enterprises."

A protective committee was formed today to safeguard the interest of holders of Fox Film corporation 6 per cent gold notes due April 1. The committee, in a notice to holders of the notes, calls for deposit with it of all notes with coupon maturing April 1 attached, either with Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, New York, or Central Trust Company of Illinois, Chicago. Certificates of deposit in bearer form will be issued for deposited notes.

Files Affidavit.

William Fox, in answer to two suits brought to establish an equity receivership for the Fox Film corporation, filed an affidavit in federal court stating that his company for the nine months ending Sept. 29, 1929, had a net income of $8,725,955 available for dividends.

The total income for the film corporation and its subsidiaries during the period was $57,108,135, the affidavit stated, and expenses totaled $46,719,467.

Net profits available for minority interests was given as $695,792; profits before deduction of federal taxes, $9,692,870; and federal taxes, $966,921.

...the Ability
plus the DESIRE TO SERVE

SERVING the public, according to the lifelong idea of this banking institution, involves far more than the mere physical ability to serve. There must also be the desire to serve. Of the two . . . the latter seems to us of greatest importance.

Since its beginning, over 68 years ago, the Foreman-State National Bank has held to one fundamental principle—generous, friendly service to all who enter its doors. Service—born of a genuine desire to serve.

Today . . . this concept, long known as the bank's guiding influence . . . finds greater expression in one of the world's truly complete banking institutions. Its services, embracing every function of banking, are unlimited. Its personnel is capable, human, friendly. Through great resources it is able to handle any problem of finance.

To the great physical size of the institution is added the vital factor of men and minds, capable of approaching any problem of business or finance with the sound, seasoned judgment only years can bring.

Thus, with the desire to serve has been combined, in even greater measure, the ability to serve. We extend to you, to the fullest degree, the obvious advantages of this rare combination.

WHEAT PRICES CRASH TO LOW ON CROP YEAR

Losses for the Day Total 2 1-8@2 7-8 Cents.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Drastic liquidation yesterday sent the wheat market crashing to a new low for the crop year, prices dropping around 2¼c from Wednesday's finish, with January selling at $1.12½ and May as low as $1.20⅜, showing 8¼ @ 10¼c under the high of last week, and 22¼ @47½c under the outside figures of the season.

Commission houses and local operators were heavy buyers and sellers, with a wave of selling coming into the market during the last 15 minutes of trading which uncovered stop loss orders. The finish was at the bottom, with net losses of 2¼@2⅜c, with March, $1.15½; May, $1.20⅝@1.20½, and July, $1.22¼@1.22⅝.

Prices of all grains have dropped steadily during the last four days, an unusual occurrence, according to traders.

Winnipeg wheat was distinctly weak early, but developed relative strength toward the last and closed 1⅝@1⅞c lower. Minneapolis, however, was weaker than Chicago and 2⅜@2⅞c lower for the day. Argentine markets failed to follow the downturn in North America, with Buenos Aires and Rosario ½c lower. Liverpool lost ⅝@½d.

Ignore Bull News.

Sentiment among wheat traders was almost unanimously bearish and while there was a little buying early on a sensationally bullish Argentine crop estimate, the government placing the yield at 140,000,000 bu, or 3,000,000 bu less than in December, and 177,000,000 bu under the yield in 1928-'29, the estimate was ignored later, the trade feeling that it was much too low. Further purchases of country run cash wheat by the cooperatives was also ignored by the trade, and at Minneapolis No. 1 northern from store sold for shipment at $1.20, or 5c under the farm board loan level, and at Kansas City No. 1 hard was down to $1.13½, the cooperatives refusing to take terminal grain in all markets.

Foreign demand for cash wheat showed improvement with sales of 800,000 bu or more in all positions, largely Manitobas, the buying being in the face of reports that Russia was offering grain from both the Baltic and the Black sea at a discount under Canadian. Reports from London said that bakers there were advertising that they did not use flour milled from American and Canadian wheat.

Corn Shows Strength.

While May corn sold at a new low on the crop, 89½c, and March and July equaled the inside figures of the season, the undertone was relatively strong, with a bulge of around 1½c from the low point at one time on short covering, but the late weakness in wheat led to renewed selling and the finish was ¼c higher to ¼c lower, with March, 86⅝c@86¾c; May, 90¼ @ 90⅜c, and July, 92⅝@92½c. There was some buying of corn against sales of rye. Country offerings to arrive were small, but the trade continues to look for a good movement incident to favorable weather. The spot basis was ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower.

A better demand for cash oats, with sales of 267,000 bu reported by local handlers, partly representing grain held at other points, resulted in futures showing strength, but the finish was unchanged to ¼c lower with wheat. March closing at 43⅝c and May 44¾ @44⅞c.

Drastic liquidation was on in rye, and, according to pit observers, leading longs have been getting out of their holdings for several days. Prices dropped 1⅞@5c, with March leading, all futures selling at a new low on the crop, with the close at the bottom with March and May 84c.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

There was considerable improvement in the foreign demand for cash wheat with sales of 800,000 bu or more reported in all positions, largely Manitobas, but included some Canadian durums, and also hard winter afloat. Local handlers sold 10,000 bu wheat, 32,000 bu corn, and 26,000 bu oats to the domestic trade.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Very few traders admitted at the close yesterday that they were able to see any reason for more than a fair natural reaction in grain values. Drastic liquidation has kept prices on the down grade for the last four days and there has been no radical change in the position to induce strong buying. Foreigners remain indifferent and there is said to be no new outside buying coming in despite the lowering of values.

A Board of Trade membership sold at $17,000 net to the buyer, or the same as a few days ago.

There is said to be evidence of liquidation in rye by the largest holder and it has been on under cover for some time. At the opening yesterday one broker had a discretionary order to sell a large line which, it is understood, was worked off during the day. There is said to have been a good sized local short interest, as well as a large line of hedges in the market. The open interest in rye is 21,312,000 bu, of which about half is May and 7,110,000 bu in March.

One month ago	12.50@13.50
One year ago	16.00@16.75
Top yesterday, $12.75; average, $12.15.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 3,000 cattle, 40,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep.

Hog receipts were comparatively small for Thursday, but augmented by 10,000 carried over from Wednesday, the available supply proved too much for the trade and prices moved down mostly 10c. Both the top and average showed 10c loss at $10.40 and $10.05, respectively.

The lower level of quotations increased the buying power of smaller local interests, but with shippers only fair sized buyers, the market weakened as the day progressed. Larger houses filled orders at the full decline and left 9,000 in the pens at the close.

Mixed Load Sells Well.

Yesterday's 8,000 cattle met an extremely uneven market, which showed spots that were strong to higher and some that were considered sharply below recent sales. Cows and heifers were practically unsalable in many instances, and finished 50@75c below a week ago.

There was a good inquiry for light steers and yearlings at stronger prices. One load of mixed yearling steers and heifers averaging 832 lbs, sold at $16.00, the highest price paid this week. The next highest sale during the day was $15.00, a load of 1,460 lb steers bringing this price. Some plain quality 1,346 lb steers were bought as low as $11.50 and 1,138 lb averages at $10.25, new low levels for that weight. Calves sold steady at the recent decline, showing losses of $2.00@2.50 since the high spot last week. Stockers and feeders were scarce and weak to slightly lower.

Lambs Off Again.

Fresh price cuts brought the lamb market to new low levels yesterday, the extreme top at $12.75 equaling the lowest since December, 1926, when a top of $12.50 was the low mark since August, 1922. Packers are complaining of the slow movement of lamb, and with wool almost unsalable at about half the price obtained a year ago, the market for live lambs finished in a semi-demoralized condition.

Most handy weight lambs are selling at $12.25@12.50, while a range of $11.25@12.00 took bulk of 92@100 lb averages. Aged sheep ruled weak, while yearlings declined in sympathy with the lamb market. Feeding lambs sold lower at $12 and below.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 3,000 cattle, 40,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep, against 2,518 cattle, 39,355 hogs, and 10,891 sheep the previous Friday, and 2,534 cattle, 35,043 hogs, and 7,705 sheep a year ago.

NEW PRICE BASIS.

The Standard Oil Company of New York will place in effect Feb. 1 a new price basis for gasoline at all points in its marketing territory in New York and New England.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter and egg prices showed little change. Live hens and geese declined 1c, while spring chickens were 1c higher. Receipts, 2 cars by freight. Potatoes easier with a slow demand. Receipts, 106 cars with 258 cars on team track.

Legal investment, in the opinion of counsel, for Life Insurance Companies in the State of New York

Sosthenes Behn, Esq., Chairman of the Corporation, has summarized as follows his letter to us stating particulars in regard to this issue:

BUSINESS — International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation, organized in 1920 as a holding and operating company, is engaged, through its associated companies, in the development and operation of electrical communications.

The associated telephone companies operate telephone systems in Spain, Cuba, Porto Rico, Mexico, Peru, southern Brazil, Uruguay, Chile and the Argentine. The associated Postal Telegraph and Cable Corporation (Mackay System) operates a complete network of telegraph lines throughout the United States and some 37,000 nautical miles of Atlantic and Pacific cables. The associated All America Cables, Inc., operates 27,000 additional miles of cables and connecting land lines, extending from New York City to the east and west coasts of South America and to Central America and the West Indies. Other associated companies operate radio stations which supplement the land and cable lines in several countries.

The associated International Standard Electric Corporation and its associated companies, constituting an important part of the International System, manufacture electrical communications equipment in factories located in eleven countries, and have a distributing organization extending to almost every country of the world, except the United States and Canada.

PURPOSE OF ISSUE — The proceeds of this issue of Bonds will be used principally to pay indebtedness contracted by the Corporation in financing improvements and additions made during the past year to the properties of associated operating and manufacturing companies, chiefly those in the United States, Germany, Spain, the Argentine and Chile, and for other corporate purposes.

EARNINGS — The consolidated net earnings for each of the years 1926 to 1929 inclusive (1929 figures partly estimated) of International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation and its associated companies (not including Compania Telefonica Nacional de Espana except as to dividends received) and the consolidated net income before and after deducting interest on funded debt of the Corporation, are stated below. In each year these earnings include the earnings for the full year of associated companies acquired during that year. The net earnings, as stated, are after deduction of depreciation and income taxes.

NEW YORKER IS OPTIMISTIC FOR 1930 BUILDING

Predicts 1931 Will Be a Record Breaker.

BY AL CHASE.

Construction during 1930 will be on a large scale, possibly equal to 1929, with 1931 promising to be a record maker, according to Thomas S. Holden, of New York City, vice president in charge of the statistical division of the F. W. Dodge corporation, who addressed the Architects' club of Chicago yesterday at its weekly luncheon at the clubhouse, 1801 Prairie avenue.

Mr. Holden reports a definite indication of improvement already so far this year over December, 1929. He states that contracts in January are 19 per cent over last month and points out that invariably January contracts are less than December.

Must Build Prosperity.

"To have prosperity we must build prosperity, not merely gamble in the stock market," said Mr. Holden. "The recent recession in building was only an interruption of the country's progress of growth. Construction is the activity that provides for the future needs of the people and at the same time helps business by distributing purchasing power today.

"The President's program for stimulating public building and public engineering work is based on a genuine need, since the country has fallen far behind its requirements in all classes of public improvements. While public work is apt to be the conspicuous feature of this year's construction program, last year's decline in residential building went far toward correcting the oversupply and a reasonable increase in this class of work may be expected this year.

Improvement Is Real.

"Improvements in building conditions to date have been somewhat slow, but they have been real. The market for municipal and corporate bonds showed marked improvement in December and further betterment in January. The mortgage money situation is gradually getting better."

Mr. Holden used the word "impatience" instead of "pessimism" when referring to America's attitude toward the slowness in business conditions righting themselves. He said Chicago need not feel discouraged at a few months' delay; things are smoothing out and by the end of the year, he declared, construction will be in full swing with everything pointing to a record breaking year in 1931.

Ravenswood Jewish Body Buys Apartment Building

The Ravenswood Hebrew congregation has purchased the two apartment building at 4720 Maplewood avenue from Michael Doherty for an undisclosed consideration. The lot is 30x125 feet. It is stated that the building bought yesterday will be remodeled and used for purposes of worship, committee rooms, a community center, etc. Henry H. Marks, secretary of the congregation, acted for the purchaser in the purchase of the property.

WOOL.

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—At the wool auction sales today 9,247 bales were offered, of which 6,500 were sold. There was an increased demand at full current prices for coarse sorts and best combing scoureds. Competition was better and withdrawals were few. The series will close Feb. 6.

Bonds for Profit

Since the immediate trend of the stock market is at best uncertain, the well-advised investor will, we believe, confine his selections during the next few months to carefully selected bonds and preferred stocks. In this way he can secure a good return on his surplus funds, with every possibility of price appreciation without the worry incident to speculative securities.

Judge Cook was born in Mendota, Ill., on June 30, 1872. He attended Knox college and Northwestern university. He left college during his sophomore year to become a newspaper reporter in Lincoln, Neb. He returned to Chicago to enter the Chicago Kent College of Law, at which he was graduated in 1897. He began practice of law with the firm of Winston, Strawn & Shaw.

In 1903, he was married to Margery T. Allen of Polo, Ill., who died in 1924. They had no children. Judge Cook was a special assistant attorney general under Attorney General W. H. Head from 1908 to 1913. In 1916 he was elected associate judge of the Municipal court and was reëlected in 1922. He resigned in 1923 when he was elected to the Superior court. He was forced by illness to leave the bench in 1924. His term expired last December.

Member of Clubs.

Judge Cook was a member of the Chicago, Illinois, and American Bar associations, and of the Law, University, Union League, Caxton and Chicago Literary clubs, and of the Ohio society of Chicago. He was a Republican. His Chicago home was at the Edgewater Beach hotel.

He is survived by a brother, Dr. Charles E. Cook of Mendota, and two sisters, Mrs. Virginia Okey of Lincoln, Neb., and Mrs. Fred H. Haskell of Mendota.

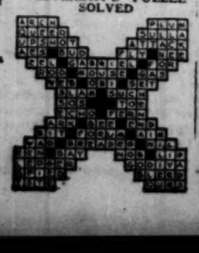
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Itchy Tornado Jones

Elmer Laughs at Antics of W-G-N Clown

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

A swivel chair estimate of Larry Larsen's pipe organ program from W-G-N, 8 to 8:30, would indicate that a series of evening programs would prove as highly popular as are his daytime feature programs.

A half hour organ program in the evening hours was considerable of a novelty in itself. And along with this novelty there was real beauty.

Listeners, regardless of age, who are missing the weekly "three minute," half hour long brainstorm story by "Jefferson," W-G-N, 8:30 to 9, should get acquainted with this feature—orchestral and vocal program. Last evening's mule story would have made any one laugh. I learned that the author is Blair Walliser, who has just been graduated from Northwestern university.

The musical star of the evening was Mischa Elman, violinist, in a chain program through KYW, 9 to 10. He played, first, the Bach "Air on the G string," followed by Mendelssohn's Concerto in E minor, played complete. Mr. Elman's concert was delightful.

McHenry county dry raiders, led by Sheriff Cyrus Sanford, surprised five men on the Patrick Gannon farm near Crystal lake yesterday as they were assembling $15,000 in illicit still equipment preparatory to launching manufacturing operations. Six vats of 5,000 gallon capacity, five tons of sugar, and other equipment was seized. The still was located in a barn, while the farmhouse had been remodeled into living quarters for men. Those arrested gave their names as John Samnandin, Ralph Bilco, Ralph Mablo, Frank Barriti, and Ben Hensen.

GOVERNOR SEES GULF WATERWAY AS AID TO PEACE

Gov. Emmerson predicted a great widening of contacts between the Americas with the completion of the lakes to the gulf waterway in an address last night before the Junior Association of Commerce at the Hotel Sherman.

Basing his prediction upon efforts being made to build connecting hard roads through Mexico and Central America, eventually to form a highway between North and South America, the governor looked forward to the time when the chance of misunderstanding between peoples of the two continents would be reduced to a minimum. "Contact is a great boon to international understanding," he said, "and a lack of understanding breeds contempt and mistrust."

LADY READING, BORN IN AMERICA, DIES IN LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Lady Reading, wife of the marquess of Reading, famous British statesman, died at her home in London today. For many years she had suffered a painful malady. At one time, when her husband was viceroy of India, prayers were said for her recovery all over India.

Lady Reading, before her marriage, was Alice Edith Cohen. She was born in America, but her father, a merchant, moved to London. There she met a penniless young man of 26, Rufus Daniel Isaacs. The couple became engaged and Lady Reading is credited with persuading her future husband to give up his seat on the stock exchange and study law. When he was called to the bar in 1887 they were married.

Lady Reading's husband became lord chief justice of England in 1913 and was created a baron the following year. Since then he has advanced steadily to a marquisate. During the war time Lady Reading accompanied her husband to the United States, where he acted as high commissioner and ambassador extraordinary.

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (Adv.)

The Ace of Spades

By WILLIAM MACLEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Chandler Rutledge, Texas ranchman, is laid up with a broken leg and is forced to send his young son, Jim, out with a herd of cattle in order to keep a contract. Jim is hardly 21, but he is eager to take on the job for his father and tells him not to worry, he'll see it through. Sim Hart is sent with Jim. They meet two men from the Moss outfit and Jim is afraid of trouble, as he knows Dave Moss to be his father's enemy. The second night out they are overtaken by a storm, and under cover of it the Moss raiders start a stampede and get away with some of the Rutledge herd. Jim follows the raiders to a gulch.

INSTALLMENT V.

MEETING THE RUSTLERS.

Clearly the thieves felt they had reached safety. They rode carelessly, bunched together, at the tail of the drive. As far as Jim could make out there was only one rifle in the party and that was in a scabbard beneath the leg of one of the riders. The men were talking loudly and cheerfully. They had done a good night's work, for they had with them a bunch of about three hundred and fifty Circle R longhorns.

The outlaws pulled up, taken completely by surprise. What they thought is not a matter of record, but without question they felt they were trapped. It could not have occurred to any of them that one man would attempt such an enterprise.

"Who the hell are you?" growled Roe.

"I'm the boy that was sent to mill, the smart aleck kid who lost his pants. Remember me, don't you? None of that, you redhead. Get 'em up."

"How many of you are there?" demanded Sam Moss.

From the point of view of the rustlers the situation was bad. It was not only that these fellows had the drop on them. They carried rifles as against sixshooters, and the distance was too great for any accuracy with forty-fives. In the event of a fight the men in the cut would not have a chance. They could be picked off without any serious danger to the men in the rocks.

"We're not stealing 'em. We picked up this bunch to hold for you—figured you musta had a stampede."

"We did," Jim said grimly. "You ought to know."

"What d'you want, fellow? I done told you we weren't stealing yore cattle. What's eatin' you?"

"Keep going right on up this cañon—all of you. And stay up there. We'll keep this pass guarded till night, and drop any visitors without argument. Now hit the trail—quick!"

Sam Moss flung up a doubled fist toward him furiously. "We know who you are, fellow. You're not foolin' us any if you did lie to us. You're one of Chan Rutledge's damn littler. We aim to get you right one of these days."

By way of emphasis Jim jerked his leg again. Since he was standing behind the bowlder the motion was concealed from those below. A pistol shot rang out.

Roe stopped and turned his horse. He lifted his defiant eyes toward Jim. Coldly, cool and unhurried, as hardy a ruffian as even that wild country could show. He knew he was an inviting target, and he deliberately ran the risk of being shot down.

"Yore say-so now," he called out, spacing his words deliberately. "Better kill me now, fellow, for if you don't sure as taters grow in hills I'll bump you of some day."

He waited there, straddling the horse in impudent contempt, then swung round and moved slowly after his companions.

Jim watched them go up the cañon. He could see them for a distance of nearly a quarter of a mile before a bend cut them from sight. Then, swiftly, he got to work.

Running to the horse among the cottonwoods, he swung to the saddle, scattered down to the brook, and circled the cattle. He headed them the other way and pushed them out of the cañon. Once in the open, he drove them hard. It was possible the rustlers might turn to check up on the cowboys who had recovered the cattle. Possible, but not probable. Jim thought. One of them had been wounded, and their first concern would be to get him to a place where he could be looked after. Moreover, they would hesitate to challenge the supposed rifles of the vaqueros with their sixshooters.

None the less, he kept the cattle moving. The outlaws were wild and undisciplined, and anything might be expected. Many times during the trip back to camp his anxious eyes swept the plain behind the herd. When he caught sight of three riders loping toward him from the distant wagons his heart found vent in a loud "Hi-Yi" of greeting.

"I'm not. It's like I said."

Hart became pop-eyed with amazement. "You're not tellin' me that——"

"I found this stock with them. Roe said they were holding the bunch for me. So I talked it over with them and brought the gather back."

"With him and some of his friends," Jim said, his eyes dancing. "They were too busy to come back with me, so I hustled the stock along alone."

"But——but——"

Barton interrupted Sims. "Lemme get this straight. The Moss gang rounded up these longhorns and then turned 'em over to you. That way of it?"

"Correct," Jim assented.

"Then all I got to say is you're either a doggone liar or you can make them so good we'd ought to send you to congress. Are you claimin' they put up any argument? Just let you take 'em?"

"Not much of an argument."

"I didn't say that."

"How many of the Moss crowd?" the third rider asked.

"Five."

"I didn't say that either," Jim smiled.

"Looky here," burst out Sim. "You tell yore story pronto, boy, or some one is gonna get hurt right here."

Jim told it, to an appreciative audience that listened wide-eyed to the tale. Jack Barton slapped a dusty sombrero against his chaps and sent a cloud to the air. "By hokey, we'll call that cañon Rustlers' Gulch," he cried. "And to this day Rustlers' Gulch is its name.

Ellen was in the kitchen making dried apple pies. Her sleeves were rolled up to the elbows, showing arms firm and muscular beneath the soft skin. The sunlight poured in through the open window. It was late June, a day to make one glad of life. The girl felt the lift of it, for she was a young, vigorous young creature in tune with the universe. Lustily she sang "Only My Lover, Goodby," though she had no lover and was intent on doing rather than achieving one.

Hoofs sounds came from outside, the clip-clip of a horse's hoofs, the slither of a sliding stride at an abrupt halt, the spacing of light, quick steps. A man stepped to the kitchen door at an abrupt halt, the spacing of light, quick steps. A man stepped to the room and closed the door behind him. He was breathing hard. His eyes made a swift survey of the room and came to rest on Ellen.

How Father of U. S. Replied as President Elect

Washington Letter Found in California.

Santa Barbara, Cal., Jan. 30.—(AP)—E. A. Connoughton, rare book and document expert, today announced he had discovered in a library here the letter George Washington wrote to congress acknowledging notification of his election as the first President of the United States.

The letter was dated Mount Vernon, April 14, 1789, and was addressed to John Langdon, an officer of the continental congress.

Washington was President pro tem when the votes of the first electoral college were counted on April 6, 1789, by the United States congress in New York. Charles Thompson, secretary of the continental congress, was dispatched from New York, where congress was meeting, to inform Washington of his election. He arrived at Mount Vernon shortly after noon April 14.

"Mount Vernon, April 14, 1789.

"Sir, I had the honor to receive your official communication, by the hand of Mr. Secretary Thompson, about 1 o'clock this day. Having concluded to obey the important and flattering call of my country, and having been impressed with an idea of the expediency of my being with congress at as early a period as possible; I propose to commence my journey on Thursday morning, which will be the day after tomorrow.

"I have the honor to be with sentiments of esteem,

"Sir,

"Your most obedient servant,

"G. WASHINGTON.

Lincoln Bust for London.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 30.—Lincoln's birthday, Feb. 12, will be marked in London by a presentation of a bust of the great emancipator to the Royal exchange by the Marquess of Crewe, who is acting in the place of Lord Reading, chairman of the Lincoln committee, who is prevented from making the presentation by the death of his wife.

The bust is a work of Andrew O'Connor, Irish-American sculptor. Mr. O'Connor was born in Massachusetts and began his studies under the direction of the late Daniel Chester French, American sculptor. Coming to England in 1896 he worked here for some years in obscurity and poverty and then moved to Paris. There his work attracted the attention of Stanford White, the architect who designed the Washington arch in New York and who was murdered by Harry K. Thaw. Mr. White, who was the partner in a firm of architects, brought Mr. O'Connor back to New York. There he first earned distinction by designing the stone facade and bronze doors of St. Bartholomew's church.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

Dateless U. S. History One Man's Idea; There Are Others

All sorts of unexpressed desires to be historians of one sort or another are coming to light with the contributions to THE TRIBUNE 500 word history contest which are pouring in.

Prizes of $2,100 will be given to persons writing the ten best histories of the United States in 500 words. The first prize is $1,000

Some entrants submitted histories bristling with dates. Others omit any dates whatsoever. One man proudly headed his history: "The Romance of America, or, A History Without a Date."

It doesn't matter.

Some of the historians have treated with the world war at length, others have dismissed it with a phrase, some have not mentioned it. Some devote paragraphs to their favorite figure of American history, some expand on particular theories or take 100 of their scant allotment of 500 words in eulogizing the virtues of the United States.

As proof of how one historian's version may differ from another's here are a few excerpts from different entries concerning the world war:

"The world war started in 1914," writes an army captain, "and in 1917 the United States entered it and, by throwing 2,000,000 men into France, turned the balance and caused the central powers to capitulate Nov. 11, 1918."

"Politicians and capitalists with money invested in Europe finally convinced President Wilson in 1917 to request congress for a declaration of war against Germany, joining American forces in a world conflict of the greatest nations for trade supremacy," writes another modern historian. "Wilson's idealistic Versailles treaty failed to be ratified in the United States, but has lead up to world court membership, the Kellogg treaty outlawing war, and in 1930 the London conference for limitation of naval armaments."

Moscow Church Bells Hushed; "Too Noisy"

MOSCOW, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Moscow's "forty times forty" churches, which for a thousand years have pealed their bells, no longer will be heard. The government today ordered them silenced forever. An official statement explained the action as taken in response to "the mass demands" from workers.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question June Stenson, 4825 Wright terrace, Niles Center, Ill., was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

Miss Stella Johnson, 6933 Calumet avenue, clerk—I don't believe so, because I feel that I would be nervous up in the air. I always have felt that I would like to have a ride in an airplane, but I never had the courage to attempt it. If I had the money I would prefer an automobile; I would be more apt to be able to drive it.

Miss Vivian Bittorf, 24 East 18th street, saleswoman—I don't believe I would. There are many other things in the world that interest me a lot more than aviation. I would rather devote my time to recreations such as reading, or in the pursuit of various outdoor sports, but not aviation.

Miss Pearl Foraker Loucks, 124 North Lamon avenue, supervisor of music, Hyde Park High school—I would like very much to be one. It is in the spirit of the times, and women are not behind in these things. I once had a flight with Lincoln Beachy at Niagara Falls, and it was a most thrilling adventure.

Miss Doris M. Crum, Broadview hotel, bookkeeper—Yes, indeed, I would like to own a plane and be able to operate it, but I don't suppose I can look forward to any activity in aviation. I have taken the airplane trip over Chicago, and it was the most exciting experience I ever had. Flying has held an interest for me ever since.

Miss Leona Stepp, 60 East Walton place, clerk—Yes, I would. There is a fascination about a plane, although I have never been up in one. I believe aviation has a future for women for an occupation as well as an avocation. Women are competing with men in almost all lines of activity.

Attention, Men! Tailors Decree What to Wear

Herewith Is Latest Fashion Edict.

The well groomed man of 1930 will dress with an etiquette book before him, obeying its dictates. For posing as America's Supreme court of fashion the National Association of Merchant Tailors met in annual session at the Drake yesterday. The sessions will last several days.

Laxity in manners has allowed men to get by with a tuxedo for formal evening wear. But the tailors point to the need for "increasing clothes consciousness." The tuxedo, the style experts assert, is permissible only for informal evening wear and "is really an evening sack suit for informal evening functions." They recommend for diversity at least three such garments.

"A greater compliance with the requirements of etiquette for both day and evening formal functions; a marked increase in the use of the tail coat—that is, the cutaway coat and the full evening dress coat; a return to the use of the black cutaway and silk hat for Sunday wear, the renewed use of the business cutaway by good dressers; a decided trend towards harmony in the costume for informal day wear; increased use of the director's suit for informal day wear by executives whose business demands an air of dignity; increased use of the silk faced overcoat for evening wear with the decline of the use of the velvet collared coat for this purpose; an increase in the use of the Norfolk jacket and knickers for sports wear with an increase in the use of pastel shaded luxury woolens for coats and waistcoats in combination with tinted flannel trousers and other odd garments for semi-formal outing wear."

Wales Leaves Cape Town for Big Game Hunting Trip

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Jan. 30.—The prince of Wales left Cape Town this morning for Johannesburg. From there he will proceed to Biera, en route to Mombasa, where he commences his hunting trip. A large crowd gathered at the station to say farewell.

THE STAGE

SHAKESPEARE is revisiting the watches of the moon this winter, and there are symptoms of a bull market in the classics. Fritz Leiber's company is packing its trunks, ready to catch an 8 a. m. train for Pittsburgh Sunday morning; but at the same time bill posters are beginning to hang up placards announcing another session of the tragedies, comedies, and histories under impressive auspices. In other words, the Stratford-upon-Avon company from the Shakespeare Memorial theater in England will soon be here. The date of the opening is Feb. 17; the theater is the Garrick; the length of the engagement is two weeks. Nine plays are in the repertory.

This is the same organization which toured Canada and the United States last year, and which had a successful engagement here at the Studebaker theater. There are no important changes in the personnel. The tour is under the management of the governors of the Memorial theater at Stratford-upon-Avon, England (a shrine for all traveling Americans with literary tastes), and its proceeds will be paid into the fund which is being raised to rebuild the nest of the Swan of Avon at his birthplace.

The list of plays, which varies considerably from that of last year, and the schedule of the repertory follow:

FIRST WEEK.

Feb. 17—"Much Ado About Nothing."
Feb. 18—"King Richard II."
Feb. 19—[Matinée]—"A Midsummer Night's Dream."
Feb. 19—[Evening]—"Romeo and Juliet."
Feb. 20—"The Merry Wives of Windsor."
Feb. 21—"A Midsummer Night's Dream."
Feb. 22—[Matinée]—"Twelfth Night."
Feb. 22—[Evening]—"Hamlet."

SECOND WEEK.

Feb. 24—"The Merry Wives of Windsor."
Feb. 25—"Romeo and Juliet."
Feb. 26—[Matinée]—"Much Ado About Nothing."
Feb. 26—[Evening]—"Julius Caesar."
Feb. 27—"A Midsummer Night's Dream."
Feb. 28—"The Merry Wives of Windsor."
March 1—[Matinée]—"Romeo and Juliet."
March 1—[Evening]—"Macbeth."

Cyril Maude, the English actor-manager who retired from the stage several years ago, has announced his intention to return to it, according to a cablegram to the New York Times. He will appear in London in a new play next April. There has been talk about his going to Hollywood for an experiment with the talking pictures, but he has apparently changed his mind about that quest of El Dorado. There are many playgoers, in Chicago and elsewhere, who stoutly maintain that Cyril Maude in "Grumpy" is their idea of the best in acting and the drama.

H. T. Parker, dramatic editor of the Boston Transcript, announces that the Dramatic league idea, as practiced in Chicago and Philadelphia, is to be extended to Boston. Meanwhile, the league's headquarters at the Princess theater announce that a play called "Dear Old England" will follow "The Matriarch" on Feb. 17. This comedy has had a year's run at the Savoy of London. Which recalls that some one recently said: "The Dramatic League of Chicago is giving us an excellent London season."

"The Field God" and "In Abraham's Bosom" do not represent the dramatic output of that young Carolinian, Paul Green, up to date. He also has in manuscript "The House of Connelly" and "Tread the Green Grass" will be staged in New York rights to produce the former and has offered to trade it for the latter, but Mr. Green declined. "Tread the Green Grass" will be staged in New York, Feb. 17, among the serious thinkers down in MacDougal street. That's the way "The Field God" got its start in life.

In "Ripples," the extravaganza which will bring Fred Stone back to the stage after his long invalidism, will be rich in the comedian's offspring. Paula, his second daughter, will make her debut in this show, and Carola, his youngest, will understudy her. The New York engagement will start at the New Amsterdam theater Feb. 10.

Apropos of the approach of Fritzi Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste," to start a series of Victor Herbert revivals at the Majestic, a threatrical librarian has unearthed the cast of the first performance of this operetta, given Oct. 9, 1905. Of the fourteen players in the principal rôles, ten are dead. So are the authors, Victor Herbert and Henry Blossom, and the orchestra director, John Lund. The survivors are Mme. Scheff herself, now back in grease paint; Walter Percival and Claude Gillingwater, now in the Hollywood cinema colony, and Edna Fassett, now a church singer in Brooklyn. Ehen fnoaeed C. C.

Trevisan Makes Ancient Joke Good as Opera

With Help of Cast in "Don Pasquale."

"DON PASQUALE."

Comic opera in three acts and four scenes, by Gaetano Donizetti. Presented by the Civic Opera company Jan. 30, 1930.

THE CAST.

.....Vittorio Trevisan
Dr. Malatesta, a physician.....Giacomo Rimini
Ernesto, nephew of Pasquale.....Tito Schipa
Norina, a young widow.....Margherita Salvi
A notary .....Ledovico Oliviero
Conductor, Roberto Moranzoni. Stage director, Charles Moor.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

This is a work decidedly of the old school, but when given as it should be given, as in last night's performance, for example, it makes a good deal the same effect upon the ear that a finely worked piece of old time jewelry does on the eye. No effort is made to be grand, since grandeur is out of place in jewelry anyway, but much is made of the graceful line and the ornamentation. Sometimes such things turn out to be rather surprisingly valuable.

The plot is one of the stock plots of medieval comedy. An old man tries to marry a young girl and has her snapped out from under his nose by his nephew. That is all there is to it, except that here for purposes of added comedy the demure young girl turns out to be such a virago that he is glad to see her go. It is one of the original nine or eleven jokes of the world, or whatever the number may be, but with this for a basis an evening of amusing entertainment is built up.

Incidentally Miss Salvi in all her masquerading guises turned out to be quite as attractive a comedienne as she had been in "The Barber of Seville" a short time before. In fact, there was a cast of four excellent comedians. Mr. Trevisan has made a fine art out of this old style buffo comedy; in fact, he is so far ahead of any one else in it that there are no seconds.

Mr. Schipa not only has a vein of humor, but he tops it with a voice of sheer delight. Donizetti provided him with several agreeable tunes in the course of the score and the way he sang them made them much more than agreeable. In this he was also ably joined by Miss Salvi. Mr. Rimini was a splendid example of the polished man of the world who assisted in the plotting and brought it off the way he planned it. Even Mr. Oliviero's brief bit as the notary went off with the true comic snap.

It registered as an entirely pleasant evening.

While these enjoyable proceedings were taking place at the Civic Opera house, Harold Triggs was reviving recollections of himself as a talented pianist over on the other side of the loop at Kimball hall. Taking time out from the opera to pay a call there it was found that he had gone the way of other earnest young pianists and became a better one.

He had assembled a program that included not only the ancient music of the German Bach but some earlier still by the English Robert Johnson and Henry Purcell. Brahms, Beethoven, in the F minor sonata, and Chopin registered as the solid fare, and there was a concluding group that contained a pair of preludes by himself.

He has a highly efficient pair of hands that create a tone of great beauty from the piano even in its most rapid manifestations, and he played his Beethoven and Chopin with considerable originality, not the kind of originality that distorts effects but that makes them vital. The program was given under the auspices of the Musical Guild of Chicago.

Knowledge of Food, Cooking Gained Slowly

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

"Nobody tells how" is the complaint of a large number of people today who want to learn how to eat wisely and cook well. A considerable number of people—some a bit plaintively—are asking me here, by letter and as often as I can to tell them how to do both of these things. They are more than willing to know how, but sometimes it seems as though they wanted me to take the most of the responsibility about it all. I can be plaintive, too.

And then, besides, a number of women anxious to feed their families have complained to me that this book or that book which they have purchased with high anticipations does not "tell how"; therefore, they have solemnly resolved never to buy another. Yet they come to me as eagerly as though they had not made any such resolve and deep down in their hearts they have not.

There are two sides to this telling how—the receiving side and the telling side. It is not quite fair to put all the responsibility on the teller. For instance, there may be on this page today, in this article or perhaps in a good food advertisement, just one sentence that may almost approach in verity the artistic precept: "Trifles make perfection and perfection is no trifle." Even this artistic precept can help in this search for eating knowledge, for if we get the bits of information we will finally have the big "how," or this will take care of itself. You know: "Little drops of water, little grains of sand, make the mighty ocean and the pleasant land."

Put Two and Two Together.

If I could tell anybody how to eat in a few brief sentences, I should be giving them an equal of a college education, and much more. But I cannot do it, nor can anybody else. This does not mean that I cannot help, but when a student wants to study differential calculus he cannot be merely told how to do its problems. He must first take all the mathematics that goes to prepare him for this. However, studying food need not set us apart for some years of special work. We have to eat all the time, and we can observe and put two and two together constantly without any loss of time from other activities.

And, lest those who do not know, think as they sometimes will, that those who know wilfully will not tell how, let us look for a few analogies along this line. For instance, a man who wants to be a great banker does not ask or expect that anybody can tell him all about it. He sets out determinedly to find out, by using his wits and his shrewdness, what to do. He studies people, and things, and is always putting two and two together until he accumulates a pile in more than one sense.

A man who wants to be a successful business man does not, except by some rare fluke, expect to stand up and have success poured down his throat. He becomes a "go-getter." The student who wishes to become a great musician expects to practice and practice, daily and every day. That is the requirement for his type of attainment.

Each and every art and every attainment makes its demands, often great ones, upon the one who would possess it. And thousands who do not attain or possess might, if they had the gumption, or once would get their eyes open, or their ambitions fired. How can we help them to open their eyes and get ambition? Perhaps by more preaching, trying always to make such preaching agreeable.

Experience Is Wise Teacher.

Many people seem to stand rather static and ask to be told how to cook. In twenty years of daily work I have had contacts with a great many such and the minute they have blamed anybody else for their lack of attainment I get discouraged. As for me, I have kept right at this cooking, year in and year out, because it has been my business to tell how, and I have not found it difficult to learn something new every day, and see some better way to do or tell.

And, further: Many years ago a great teacher converted me to the idea that if any man will eat right, he need never be ill. I began at once to try to put this precept into practice, and it took me five years to please myself, so that I thought I could say I represented in practice what I preached. But long before this a great light had dawned upon me. At the start I was so possessed with this idea that I wanted to talk about it, preach about it, and write about it all the time.

This new light put me back into the kitchen for life. I saw as clearly as possible that unless food was correctly and even beautifully cooked, it was impossible to eat right, so I have tried to have it finer and more nearly perfect and to preach that. One must begin at the foundation to have it fine, and one who has never started that low down cannot dream how many things there are in this food business which contribute imperfections to the material that is to be made over into us incessantly.

And now I must reiterate my favorite idea. There is no miracle in the world, or none within the power of human engineering, like that represented by the fact that the piece of bread in my hand at this minute may three hours later be me. And I want to be physically a good person, so I want my bread good. I want my food not only good but the best I can manage and, fortunately, food intelligence is a hundred times more valuable in obtaining such than is money.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Dulse.

Every year when dulse appears along with the winter fish, where these are sold in quantity, I remember that I have had letters asking me what to do with dulse, concerning which our cook books are silent. If we could get Icelandic cook books, or even study Norwegian, or Irish cook books, we might find what to do with dulse. At any rate, in an article written in 1856, one-half of which is devoted to this subject, we find that the Norwegians have a special name for this which means "sheep's weed," because their sheep are so fond of it that they will stay eating it until they are drowned by the tide.

And then there is this: "The Icelanders preserve dulse by washing it well in fresh water, by drying it in the sun until it gives out a sweet, powdery substance which covers the whole plant, and by packing it into casks and keeping it from the air. Preserved dulse is eaten in this state with fish and butter, or is boiled in milk and served with a little flour or rice. The white powdery substance which it gives out is mannite—the principle of manna."

The dictionary defines dulse as follows: "Any of several coarse red sea weeds used as food in Scotland, Iceland, and other northern countries. . . . In Kamchatka a fermented liquor is made from it," which latter statement provokes some comment which we have not space for.

The article in question has the title, "The Purple Shore," and it is dulse that makes the purple shore. This is described as follows: "Dulse is called iridea edulis, because it is edible and because some species of it reflect light prismatically like the iris. Coast folk on the southwest of England, the west of Ireland, and the east of Scotland, eat dulse. The color is dark brown purple. When at all reddish they are not good to eat."

The article goes on to say that writers on sea plants say that this is eaten by the poor either raw or fried. One writer said that the fishermen of the southwest of England pinched it between red hot irons before they ate it, when they said it tasted like roasted oysters. And then there is this: "Dulse is a regular dish on the tables of all ranks in Aberdeen and is eaten raw. It is used to season oaten or wheaten bread. It is interesting to know that its iodine value was recognized and the picture here given of dulse women, and the plain dulse and the pepper dulse is most interesting. The pepper dulse was more expensive and used as a breakfast relish by the Aberdonians."

STREET SLAYING CALLED ACCIDENT.

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury at the inquest in the fatal shooting of Michael Cuff, 39 years old, 1446 East 56th street, by Deputy Sheriff Matthew O'Brien, 35 years old, on Nov. 16. Cuff was shot when he resisted arrest after striking a girl at 55th street and Blackstone avenue.

Scientists Aid in Putting End to Pea Rogues

Housewife May Now Offer Improved Product.

BY PAUL POTTER.

That the housewife, who depends upon the bulk of her table servings of green peas from the handy tin package on the shelf when gardens lie dormant, may never fail to have uniformly sized and tender peas, University of Wisconsin scientists have ended years of fruitful research. In search of causes for the "rogues" in pea culture, E. J. Renard, in coöperation with professors, R. A. Brink, geneticist, and R. A. Moore, agronomist, has announced that the way is now cleared of this agricultural and domestic predicament.

Rogues in canning peas seem to have represented a most important difficulty in Wisconsin, Illinois, and other less important pea producing states. Seed in Wisconsin, according to these men, has been sold containing over 40 per cent off-types. But by maintaining "rogueing crews" of men who annually cost many thousands of dollars, most seedsmen have searched their fields for the off-type plants, and have kept the presence of rogues at much lower percentages.

Rogues Most Productive.

These causes of unripened or off sized peas in the pack are of many kinds. Some rogues differ only slightly; others are markedly aberrant. Some are earlier than the true type and make the hard peas in the can; others are later, taller and, when present in appreciable quantities, lead to a false estimate of the stage at which the bulk of the crop is in prime condition for harvesting.

In the popular Alaska variety of peas, nearly all the rogues are more productive—some are far more productive—than the true type plants, so that a stock left to itself rapidly deteriorates, according to the university authorities.

The origin of rogues and their nature has been the subject of much speculation among both seedsmen and investigators. Some growers hold that excessive soil fertility induces rogue production; others attribute the phenomenon to some inherent tendency of the variety of "break up." No one, until now, has had any exact information beyond their frequency of recurring, troublesomeness and costliness to control.

"While it seems unlikely that all rogues are due to the same cause," says Mr. Renard, "evidence has been obtained that many of them, including some of the most troublesome, owe their origin to cross pollination of type plants with other distinct forms. The rogues in commercial stocks appear to be largely the variable offspring of the hybrids thus arising."

Cross Pollination at Fault.

This is a result not anticipated by the Wisconsin scientists, for the pea has long been considered one of those plants which reproduces almost exclusively by self-pollination. Investigations in England and in the eastern part of the United States show that under the conditions there prevailing, crossing is extremely rare. These regions, however, are humid and there is some reason for believing that moisture conditions significantly influence the amount of cross pollination.

"However this may be," concludes Mr. Renard, "cross pollination in appreciable amounts in Wisconsin and, presumably, in western seed producing areas also, is now an established fact to which heed must be paid in commercial production. Sufficient work has not been done yet to permit of final conclusions, but from our results to date, seedsmen may possibly avoid some of the trouble due to rogues by modifying their present practice of growing different varieties of peas in close proximity to each other."

FULL WEIGHT ALWAYS

For Perfect Leavening—IN EVERY BAKING

It must be Two-to-One

FROM first spoonful to last, every can of Rumford Baking Powder contains that scientific balance of pure ingredients which produces accurate Two-to-One leavening—two-thirds of the leavening taking place in the mixing and one-third in the oven.

Most baking powders have a double action, but not in the desired two-to-one proportion. Some powders release too much leavening gas in the mixing, and the cake or biscuit resulting is apt to be dry and crumbly. With other powders, leavening action is largely delayed until dough or batter is placed in the oven and the bake is soggy and heavy.

But you can depend on Rumford two-to-one leavening to give even, light texture which every woman recognizes as "perfect." 52 laboratory tests in the process of manufacture ensure its uniformity and purity.

Caring for Fine Linens Is an Exacting Art

BY SALLY LUNN.

Lovely linens can be preserved for years, and will always appear well if they are intelligently and consistently cared for. Mrs. Wilbur Fribley, chairman of the American home department of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs, remarked recently in a radio talk on "The Care of Linens" that hundreds of yards of linens are destroyed each year because of careless treatment. She stressed the importance of storing them properly, and emphasized the absolute necessity of good laundering.

A table, unlike a picture which may appear better at a distance than at close range, must be so perfectly immaculate that it can stand the scrutiny of proximity. Creases or starchy places can spoil the entire effect of an artistically arranged table. The art of caring for linens is just another of the varied aspects of the art of table setting.

Avoid Creasing.

The folding of linens is a study in itself. Napkins and tablecloths should not be folded in the same creases time after time, or they will become thin along the folds. If proper space is provided for the storing of doilies, they need not be folded at all, but can be ironed flat. Runners and small cloths can be kept on rolls of newspaper, or cardboard, neatly covered with decorative paper or tissue, so that they will not be creased.

Mrs. Fribley advocates keeping linens in large envelopes contrived of argentine and celochane. Celophane is a shiny transparent paperlike material to be obtained in various colors, and can be used inside of the argentine, which is stiffened shiny gauze, popular now also for dress and hat covers. The envelopes can be edged with bias tape of matching or contrasting color, and will make your shelves or drawers look gayly colorful.

The decorative boxes being sold now are also satisfactory for keeping linens dust free and uncrumpled. Layers of tissue paper between the various sets is helpful, too, for the same purpose.

Expert Laundering Needed.

The expert and fine laundering which handsome lace, embroidered, and damask cloths and napkins should have is almost impossible to achieve in the average home, as it is too fastidious and slow work for a regular laundress. The only solution to the problem is to discover a specialist in such work. If you do not happen to know of such yourself, inquire among friends, and one of them will be sure to have heard of some small establishment, probably French, since they excel in this field, to which you can send your best things.

Those who have studied the care of linens agree that only the mildest soap should be used, and that they should never be subjected to strong stain removers. Never running linens in a washing machine more than seven minutes, three rinsings, and the use of very little bluing; never hanging linens in a strong wind, or allowing them to freeze in a hard wind are among the injunctions mentioned in Mrs. Fribley's talk

TARIFF MAY NOT BRING OUT YOUR OLD STRAW HAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—After hammering at proposed duties on straw hats for a second day, the senate coalition today succeeded in obtaining reductions. Several amendments were adopted fixing duties on approximately the level to which duties on one group of hats were increased under the flexible tariff a few months ago. The pending bill provided a further increase.

The modified rates, as agreed to, are somewhat higher than the old law and than those proposed in amendments which were rejected yesterday.

The coalition won first on an amendment by Senator Barkley [Dem., Ky.] to fix the duty on sewed straw hats at 33 per cent instead of $4 per dozen and 60 per cent as proposed in the pending bill. This was carried by a vote of 42 to 38. The rate on hats of this variety valued at less than $9.50 per dozen was increased under the flexible tariff last year from 60 per cent to 55 per cent.

The senate then on the motion of Senator Barkley fixed the duty on blocked or trimmed straw hats at 75 per cent instead of $4 per dozen and 50 per cent as proposed. The present rate is 50 per cent. This amendment was adopted by a vote of 42 to 37.

True coffee aroma...True coffee taste...without the HARM

There is no need to deny yourself coffee satisfaction. No need to miss any of its delights. Only caffeine—the drug in coffee—need be omitted. Coffee's flavor, its bracing aroma, its quick stimulation—all can be retained.

Caffeine adds nothing to coffee. It is a white, tasteless, odorless drug. Any effect from it can only be apparent after two hours. Coffee's quick "kick" comes from warmth, aroma, and delightful flavor. Its satisfying taste comes from coffee's aromatic oils.

In Likoffy you will find every delight you ever found in coffee without any of its ill effects. Even the most experienced coffee drinker can't tell the difference—unless told. Children—to whom coffee is rightfully forbidden—drink it with gusto. Elderly people find in it the real coffee "pick-up" they need—and none of the harm.

By our special process a small quantity of the finest coffee is so skillfully roasted and blended into the Likoffy that it comes to you 99 5-6% free from caffeine, yet the real coffee flavor and the real coffee aroma are hermetically sealed into the Likoffy vacuum can. So potent and so invigorating is this coffee fragrance that Likoffy has the genuine coffee taste found only in the finest coffees.

Moderate Cost—Healthful Zest

If someone in your family fears coffee—don't be satisfied with a drink that lacks true coffee flavor. And don't go to double work at every meal. Serve Likoffy to everyone at the table. They need never know—unless you tell. And you can be secure in the knowledge that you are serving a healthful, satisfying mealtime aid—true coffee joy without the harm.

Preacher Tells Why His Creed Includes Food

Tiding men over misfortune by keeping them in good health until they can find work—that has been the job of the Rev. Johnston Myers for the last 45 years. And it will continue to be his job the rest of his life if the minister, who is young at 70, has his way about it.

"I don't want to be remembered as an eloquent scholar," to use his own words, "but as the man who fed people."

Every day, rain or shine or snow during the cold winter months, the pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church, 2320 Michigan avenue, feeds his "friends." They are not tramps and bums, he declares, but "men who need a bit of help until summer comes and work picks up on the lakes and construction work along railroads becomes active."

For 35 years the Rev. Mr. Myers has received his charges at the rear of the church, where a kitchen and dining room are fitted for the daily dinner. The fare always is the same. Meat stew, bread and coffee. For many who eat there it is their only meal of the day, and they walk the four miles each way from shelter in the Madison street district to get it.

"It takes money to keep our kitchen going," the Rev. Mr. Myers said yesterday. "We spend over $7,000 a year, but some weeks our expenses run tremendously high. This week it has been $400; I never have sent out appeals by mail as do other charities. Friends of these men give what they can to carry on the work.

"But we'll need more money to tide us over this year, because it has been an unusually severe winter. The work must be continued at least until March. Then activity on the lakes and railroads and farms will begin and the men will start going. We have few diners here in the summer. There would be something wrong with an able bodied man who came here seeking food in the summer."

The Rev. Mr. Myers' idea of meeting his obligation toward his fellow men, which he thinks to be the duty of the church, began in Cincinnati ten years before coming to the Chicago church.

"I had no family to feed, so I opened up my kitchen, because I thought owed it to my Maker to provide a table. The men came. During all these years I have fed around four million men. In this country today are many prominent men—a publisher, an automobile official, and countless others—who once were in my bread line. My meat stew, broad and coffee got them on their feet again. I always have contended that a man is better able to work if he has been fed."

Food is also distributed to women and children in the neighborhood who are in dire need. Clothing is needed and welcomed at all times, as are gifts for the food maintenance fund.

ENGAGED

[Paul Stone-Raymor Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Warren Nichols of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Herbert Mac[illegible] Bingham, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. [illegible] Kremer of Butte, Mont. Miss Nicholls was graduated from Miss Faulkner's school, Chicago, and from National Park seminary in Washington, D. C.

Many Fine Etchings Seen in Exhibition by Chicago Society

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The annual exhibition of etchings under the auspices of the Chicago Society of Etchers opened yesterday in the print rooms of the Art institute. Last year's exhibit was so good it would be untrue to say this is better, but at all events the average level of excellence has been successfully maintained and in addition a wider range of subject matter is dealt with in the current show. To put the situation in a nutshell this is a gorgeous exhibit, brilliant, diversified and interesting.

Enrico Glicenstein, whose one man show of prints was a sensation in November, is represented by four etchings of which "Saint Francis" is demurely quaint and "Horses" is turbulently strong. Frances Foy shows two beautiful prints, delicately and exquisitely executed, "Begonia" and "Cat and Kitten." Gustaf Dahlstrom is represented by an amusing bit of the shopping crowd, "Grocery Store." Charles Dahlgreen has two very lovely etchings of Brown county.

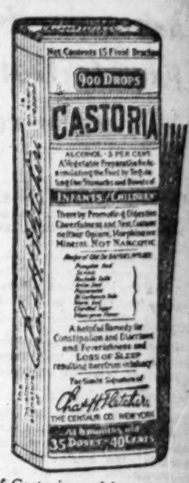
The list of important names among the contributing artists is long. John E. Costigan, Rose Crosman, Elizabeth Engelhard, Samuel Chamberlain, Dirk Baksteen, Frank W. Benson, Frances Badger, Cornelius Botke, Emerson Tuttle, Elizabeth Telling, Diana Thorne, Lee Sturges, George Soper, W. A. Sherwood, Louis C. Rosenberg, Leon R. Pescheret, Charles L. Morgan, and Sears Gallagher are but a few.

There are etchings to suit every taste and every purse. The most adorable little bunny—"Baby Bunny" by R. E. J. Bush—is $4; the delightful child on the merry-go-round—"Ecstacy" by Elizabeth Engelhard—is $10; the beautiful Whistlerian boat and its reflection—"Evening" by W. A. Sherwood—is $18; and from there with many pauses and breaks the prices rise to two and three hundred dollars.

But the exhibition is essentially everyone's. It is magnificently cosmopolitan in character and yet down to its tiniest fractional print it maintains an unswerving standard of good workmanship.

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan prizes were announced yesterday. The first prize of $100 went to "Goose Fair, Albi" by Malcolm Osborn; the second prize of $75 went to "Flower Sellers" by E. Owen Jennings; and the third prize of $50 went to "Foam and Cypress" by Cornelius Botke.

If Baby has COLIC



A cry in the night may be the first warning that Baby has colic. No cause for alarm if Castoria is handy! This pure vegetable preparation brings quick comfort, and can never do the slightest harm. Always keep a bottle in the house. It is the safe and sensible thing when children are ailing. Whether it's the stomach, or the little bowels; colic or constipation; or diarrhea. When tiny tongues are coated, or the breath is bad. Whenever there's need of gentle regulation. Children love the taste of Castoria, and its mildness makes it suitable for the tiniest infant, and for frequent use.

And a more liberal dose of Castoria is always better for growing children than some needlessly strong medicine meant only for adult use. Genuine Castoria always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Prescribed by doctors!

Younger Set Awaits Better Flying Weather

BY THALIA

The enthusiastic young aviation novices are not to be daunted because bad weather prevents their soaring activities. They make trips to the airport and if the zone or the ceiling or whatever it is is too befogged for flying they content themselves with plans for prodigious piling up of hours in the springtime, and turn their interest to the things to be learned about planes on terra firma.

Margaret Carr, the Walter S. Carrs' daughter, who has progressed remarkably well as a pilot, and her brother, Robert, are looking forward to going down to St. Louis for the air show the middle of February, and other enthusiasts, including the Hunter Dixons of the south side, and Theron Chapman of Oak Park, also are planning to go to see what is new in the way of plane motors and gadgets.

Miss Carr has had visiting her recently Roccena Baldwin, daughter of the L. Warrington Baldwins of St. Louis, and she will be their guest during the show. She is busy also taking care of the properties for the Junior league Saturday morning shows.

Mrs. Lytton Benello and her sister, Rosemary Lytton, who have been visiting in the east and are now on their way south, plan to do more flying when they return later in the season. Rosemary was pretty well taken up with debutante activities to do as much as she would have liked about flying during the season, but Mrs. Benello accomplished quite a lot.

Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift is having Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Wace for luncheon today following Mr. Wace's second talk before the Needlework and Textile guild at the Art institute this morning. Mr. Wace is to tell about the choicest pieces of embroidery in the Victoria and Albert museum in London, of which he is deputy keeper, on Monday morning at Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland's house. After luncheon Mrs. Borland is to take him and Mrs. Wace to see Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick's collection of needlework, and then they will go to the Martin A. Ryersons to see their things.

TO GREET SINGERS

MRS. HUGO SIMON.

Dr. Hugo Simon, German consul general, and Mrs. Simon will give a reception and tea for the artists of the German Grand Opera company on Monday afternoon at 433 Barry avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy are expected in Palm Beach, Fla., this week to occupy their house on Grace Trail. The residence is one of the most secluded spots in Palm Beach, and has a lovely garden and patio planted with rare exotic shrubs. Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr. arrived this week also for the season. Mrs. George A. McKinlock received a telegram last Saturday announcing her election to membership in the American Civic association at Washington, D. C. This distinction was conferred upon her, according to the wire, "in recognition of her services in promotion of town planning and horticulture through the Garden club of Palm Beach."

The plans for Palm Beach, made by professional city planners employed by the Garden club, are soon to be formally presented to the town, having been gratefully accepted and approved by the town council. Mrs. John F. Jelke and Mrs. Caswell Allan Sharpe have arrived at the Breakers, and Frazier Jelke may go down for part of the season.

Other Chicagoans at Palm Beach now include Mr. and Mrs. Albert D. Plamondon Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Caryl B. Young, and Mrs. Eugene McVoy, who are at the Poinciana.

At Miami Beach, Fla., Mrs. Fred A. Poor gave a buffet supper a few nights ago aboard the Granada IV. for a party of Chicagoans, including Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Bartlett, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Farwell (Portia Bartlett), Arthur A. Clement, Mrs. George E. Van Hagen and her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Van Hagen Belknap; Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Eldred and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Andrews.

Evanstonians who will attend the benefit performance of "Let Us Be Gay" at the Studebaker, arranged for by the Junior auxiliary of the Evanston Infant Welfare society for next Monday evening, include the Hubert Burnhams, the William Colvins, the Henry Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roloson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Welles, Mr. and Mrs. Seldon White, and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wilder, Mrs. Edward Hines, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. White, and James S. Kemper. Several of them have taken boxes for the performance.

Society Attends "Don Pasquale"

Many of the opera patrons who attended the auspicious opening of the season in the new opera house some thirteen weeks ago were present again in the boxes last night for the final evening subscription performance. Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick occupied the center box as she did for the premiere. Her guests included Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Meeker and Mr. and Mrs. David Adler.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick had with them Mr. and Mrs. Barrett Wendell, Frederick Bartlett, Huntly Gilbert, Mrs. Arthur Cable, and Reginald Luke. With Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ayer, Miss Mildred McCormick, Bradford Wells, and Krebs Beebe.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Sims were Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McLaughlin and Mr. and Mrs. Louis D. Quinn. Mr. and Mrs. W. David Owen were hosts to a youthful group including Miss Mary Drake, Miss Priscilla Sims, Deering Davis, and Franklin Owen.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Stafford occupied the George Carter Howland box, with Mr. and Mrs. Marion T. Martin and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Wolfe as their guests. Mr. and Mrs. George Ives Haight had with them Judge and Mrs. Evan A. Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lloyd Jones of Tulsa, Okla.

In the Charles Edward Brown box were Miss Freda Miller, Miss Alice Turner, Miss Adeline Seliger, Miss Mildred Halquist, Miss Margaret Eitz, Miss Mary Loper, and Miss Lorraine Thoms.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Mr. and Mrs. E. Harris Brewer, and Eugene Stinson were with Mrs. Waller Borden. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kitchell Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Welles, Mrs. E. Crane Wilson, and Mrs. Fletcher W. Rockwell of Greenwich, Conn., were in the George B. Dryden box.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Will Irwin, Miss Gwen Martin, and Miss Susan Dyer, all of New York, are guests at the White House.

At the White House President and Mrs. Hoover received tonight in honor of the United States senators. A congressional reception always has been a crush. President and Mrs. Hoover have divided the congress. They will have a reception Feb. 20 for the members of the house of representatives. Mrs. Robert Patterson Lamont of Chicago, wife of the secretary of commerce, wore a handsome gown of gold and silver lace. Miss Lamont was absent.

Clubwomen Hear Mary Carden's Secret of Remaining Slender

Mary Garden, eloquent exponent of the operatic stage, talked yesterday afternoon, not on her experiences as a world famed songbird, her creation of "Louise," nor on her triumphs as "Carmen" and "Thais," but on that topic of universal feminine interest—how she won back and since retained her simple, girlish figure.

As many members as could squeeze into the Illinois Women's Athletic club watched her gestures and listened to her dramatic word picture of her development some years ago as a gourmande when she had to eat rich foods between meals in order to tide over the interminable wait between breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

This, however, brought her to the frightful fate of weighing (Miss Garden here hid her blushes) 142 pounds! But it was not until she overheard her father, "the most divine man in the world," bemoaning the disappearance of her neck that she hied herself to a Boston specialist and forthwith lived on "six oysters, a cracker, and a cup of bouillon." It took one year to regain the 120 pounds which she now acknowledges.

As for physical exercise—here Miss Garden ran counter to the best advice of beauty culturists the world over. For on the subject of walking as an aim in itself, Miss Garden voiced an emphatic "No!" She averred "it is not good at all; a little fresh air in the lungs, maybe, but what else? At least it is not good for me, and never, O, never, would I recommend it. But swimming—ah, swimming and rowing, and horseback riding if bridle paths are convenient."

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Jan. 30.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. E. Foster Clark and Miss Henrietta Clark left today for Lake Wales, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Milbank will return from London next week on the Aquitania.

Mr. and Mrs. Artemus Ward Jr. started for Augusta, Ga., where they will pass the rest of the winter.

150 of German Opera Co. Attend Luncheon Here

The German Grand Opera company of 150 persons which will open a week's season here beginning Sunday, passed through Chicago yesterday en route to Milwaukee for a three day engagement. While here the members were guests of the Steuben club at a luncheon in the new forty-five story building at Randolph and Wells streets.

Babies . . . and Bottled Sunshine!

They need it to help them build strong bones and sound teeth

OR will they be soft and subject to early decay . . . menacing his health and detracting from his appearance in later years?

You can help your baby build good teeth for life by seeing now that he gets a plentiful supply of one essential tooth-and-bone-building factor, Vitamin D!

There are two common sources of this protective element. Sunshine and good cod-liver oil.

Sunshine would protect your baby but it is almost impossible to get enough sunshine on the bare skin to be of benefit. Clothing, clouds, fog and smoke prevent it. Even ordinary window glass filters out the protecting ultra-violet rays.

Authorities urge Bottled Sunshine—good cod-liver oil—as the surest protection. And many of them insist on Squibb's Cod-Liver Oil.

They prefer Squibb's because they know they can depend on its high vitamin content. It is not only very rich in Vitamin D, which helps to build good bones and teeth, but also in Vitamin A which promotes growth and increases resistance to many infections.

Your physician knows the importance of good cod-liver oil for your baby. Use the vitamin-tested, vitamin-protected oil—Squibb's. All good drug stores have Squibb's Plain and Squibb's Mint-flavored Cod-Liver Oil.

The Eyebrow Is an Accent of Beauty in a Woman's Face

by Clotilde

One really never recognizes the full value of beautiful eyebrows until they are seen in a photograph or in a painting. They dominate a face for me, anyway, a face seen in print or on canvas. They give distinction, character—and beauty.

The ideal eyebrow is moderately thick in the center and tapers gracefully to a point at each end. A perfect eyebrow is not one of the commonest sights seen. But, unlike a nose, a great deal can be done to reshape the ones we have, if they need reshaping. They can be plucked into a more graceful line, they can be trained into a smoother one and they can be cleared of wild hairs above, below and around the outer edges so that, at least, they look well groomed.

If the arch is high or if nature designed an almost straight line across the forehead area just above the eye, it is not wise to attempt to draw a different line, for nature has a crafty way of designing the eyebrows to harmonize with the shape of eye and face. If it happens not to be the ideal line from an artist's viewpoint, it yet may be the ideal one for you. And we all can remember what perfect scarecrows grew out of a fairly recent wide attempt to adapt all eyebrows to a thin, pencil line, the horrors of which are still occasionally observed. So that meddling to extremes with the natural course and thickness of the eyebrow is not advisable.

Pruning, trimming, and brushing them down, rather, are the duties to attend to in this connection. And it is surprising what you can do in a couple of months' time by simply brushing them with one of the small brushes designed particularly for their use, upon which a bit of yellow vaseline or olive oil has been rubbed. But before laying eyebrows down flat with the oil, always brush the hairs up straight. This stimulates their growth and at the same time does for this small hair area the cleansing operation that you provide the scalp when you brush the hair on the head.

And eyebrows need this brush cleansing if for no other reason than to get out the powder that you can hardly escape loading down into their base with the frequent face rubs in the course of a day.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MRS. A. R.: ALL WAIST BENDing and twisting exercises are excellent for reducing the hips. I have such exercises in illustrated form; you may have them for a stamped addressed envelope.

L. V.: FOR TREATMENT OF scars consult a skin specialist. Do so when the scars are fresh, as they are more easily eradicated when attended to in the early stages.

MISS V. M.: FACIAL MEAL baths are recommended for the dry skinned person. Meals contain oil which is quite solvent and penetrating and leaves the skin feeling soft and velvety. Put a teaspoonful of almond meal in the palm of your hand, moisten it to a lather with water. Then rub into the skin. You may use little bags and fill them with any of the dry meals, squeezing them into the water until it is milky.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

It would be difficult to find a smarter design for all day occasions dress than this, especially when it is made of black silk crêpe, and relieved with a touch of eggshell crêpe. The surplice bodice with shawl collar is most effective. It closes at the left hip, with a buckle indicating the normal waistline. The bodice is long waisted, giving a flat, smooth hipline. The skirt is circular, and ripples beautifully at the hem.

The pattern, 3243, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Interracial Work Urged as Goal of Abe Lincoln Center

An interracial program at the Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood boulevard, to break down racial barriers and create a "real fraternity of all souls," was advocated last night by Dr. Curtis W. Reese, dean of the settlement, at the center's annual dinner.

"My ideal for Abraham Lincoln center is that it should be a well balanced community center, featuring an interracial program," Dr. Reese said. "The whole world is rapidly becoming one community. Interracial, international, and interreligious doings were never so general as now. To have here in Chicago a working example of what the entire world must sooner or later become, namely, a real fraternity of all souls, would be a genuine contribution to social well being.

"Segregation of races in social, educational and religious doings is, in my judgment, an evil of the first rank and as such should be eradicated as rapidly as feasible. If Jew and Gentile and all other races, black and white and all other colors, cannot get along together in the free fellowship of a free community center, then indeed is the outlook dark for the future of mankind."

S. O. Levinson was elected president of the center.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

A Card Is Sufficient.

"Dear Miss Blake: I've been good friends with a fellow for about two and one-half years. Now that he has invited me to his birthday party, do you think it proper of me to give him a gift? ! SONNY."

It isn't necessary to send a gift. A card will convey your good wishes. However, if he has been attentive and you wish an opportunity to show your appreciation, this would be the time.

Something Wrong.

"Dear Miss Blake: The boy I love refuses to work. Shall I continue to meet him? PUZZLED."

There's something lacking in a young man who refuses to work, Puzzled. Discontinue seeing him unless he settles down to business.

Doris Seeks Causes of Trouble Twixt Parents, Children

BY DORIS BLAKE.

I wonder, sometimes, if the dissension between parents and grown girls over the question of the latter's boy friends isn't often that the parent wants to show his or her authorities rather than that it is a deep-rooted objection to the boys.

In one case, at least, that is the way it appears to me. Mother is the big boss type. Daughter has inherited some of maw's forcefulness of character. And they fight like a couple of crazy women. Maw pounces on the boy friends topic when other "indignations" run out, so that it has come to be an issue that is all out of proportion to good sense.

Running through her loud voiced arguments about boys is that strain of "She'll do what I say, regardless!" Regardless of the perfectly normal desire and right of an 18 year old girl to boy friends. Regardless, too, of the openly spoken predictions of neighborhood mothers that "that X—— girl will do something wild, one of these days, and no one will blame her much with a mother like hers!"

It's a question whether you can do anything with such a parent. Domineering, overbearing people rarely recover their humanity until life deals them a blow on the chin. The tragedy is that it is often the child who has to deliver the blow, in which she, too, is victim.

Sometimes it is the czarist of rule that separates mothers and daughters on this always current problem of boy friends. Sometimes, again, it is a crazy sort of mother-complex or parent complex that refuses to admit a child can grow up and want grown up amusements and grown up companionship from the other sex.

Again, the waywardness of a sixteen, seventeen or eighteen year old would seem to call for excessive censorship and watchfulness on the parents' part and there is no doubt that rumors currently afloat about the wildness of youth influences still other parents in the handling of their daughters.

However, the thing parents cannot or must not lose sight of is that they cannot stifle the desire in girls for boy friends. If wise [and especially in this age of free and easy temptations] they'll recognize boy friends as necessary in the life of their daughters and they will throw open the doors of their homes to them so there won't be any meetings on dark corners or dashing off in automobiles to escape the too censorious eyes.

BRITISH COURT MAKER OF DRESSES DESIGNS LONGEST OF SKIRTS

The American buying group is not agreed on the best length for sport skirts so far, but the average is something like 15 to 13 inches from the floor. That means slightly below the top of the calf.

Street and tailored clothes average an inch more, bringing them within a foot of the ground. Afternoon dresses range from the top of the calf to ankle length.

And the evening dresses are growing longer and longer. They no longer stop at the floor, but some lie around the feet in billows and folds.

An Englishman who is a dressmaker for the court of St. James, but also operates in Paris, is responsible for the longest dresses dragged through salons thus far. Ruched tulle skirts, yards wide, are his contributions to the mode. Since this man is the favorite dressmaker of Queen Mary, making many gowns for court presentations.

Indianan Sends Millions of Seeds to Palestine

Frank S. Betz, wealthy Hammond manufacturer, last night sent ten million evergreen tree seeds to Jerusalem to aid in the reforestation of Palestine. Mr. Betz, who makes a hobby of tree planting, said that he had noticed many barren areas in the Holy Land on a recent trip there. In the last decade he has distributed 50,000,000 tree seeds for planting in the United States.

Provident Hospital Fund May Be Finished Today

The drive for $3,000,000 to establish the new Provident hospital and training center for Negroes which has been conducted for the last three months will come to a close today. At a meeting in the Hotel La Salle, it is expected that the entire fund will have been reached. Yesterday's gifts of $57,132, of which Negroes raised $39,192, brought the fund to $2,707,000.

Why she isn't Popular

This Kansas City girl has good looks and personality—but men and women alike have avoided her for years. She never gets invited anywhere. She has a lonely time of it wherever she goes—and she cannot understand the reason for it. Somebody ought to tell her why—but nobody has the courage to do so.

So many every day conditions cause it that no one is entirely free of it. And since you cannot tell when you have it—and your friends won't tell—the one way of putting yourself on the safe side is to use Listerine as a mouth wash 3 times a day. Keep a bottle handy at home and office.

Don't fool yourself

Kills germs—destroys odors

"Thick suds soak out all dirt" says Mrs. Fred Kallberg of Chicago

"Since I discovered what wonderful suds Rinso makes, washday never worries me at all.

"Why, those thick suds just soak out all the dirt. I never have to do a bit of hard rubbing or even boiling—the clothes come out so snowy!

"And Rinso is great around the house—for dishes, floors, etc. It goes almost twice as far as some soaps I've tried!"

MRS. FRED KALLBERG

Parents Need Preparation for Child Rearing

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A booklet by Mrs. Bevans on "Books to Be Read to Children or by Them" will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

There are still those who think that parenthood is instinctive, who can't see why one should delve and ponder and feel the need of thought and preparation for the job of being a mother or a father, who still have the opinion that the subtle task of guiding children is a sixth sense that all parents possess.

Well, some do possess that sixth sense—some are gifted—some people without conscious study have a veritable genius for the nourishing of growing youth. But only a few—and even their store of wisdom could be enriched. And that leaves all the others—much more than a majority—in real need of preparation for rearing children, either before they came or as they go along.

"Are you experienced?" says the business man when he is hiring a good secretary.

"Are you experienced?" says the housewife when she is engaging a maid.

"Are you experienced?" says the cabinet maker before he takes on a man to work in his fine woods.

But neither Society nor Nature says, "Are you experienced?" to the people who want a child. Neither says, "Are you prepared? If you're not, your application is denied."

"The training of children—physical, moral and intellectual—is dreadfully defective. And in a great measure it is so because parents are devoid of that knowledge by which this knowledge can alone be rightly guided.

"For shoe-making or house-building, for the management of a ship or a locomotive-engine, a long apprenticeship is needful.

"Is it, then, that the unfolding of a human being in body and mind is so comparatively simple a process that one may superintend and regulate it with no preparation whatever?

"If not, if the process is more complex than any in nature, and the task of administration is one of surpassing difficulty, is it not madness to make no provision for such a task?"

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Little Bobby had been told repeatedly to look carefully in both directions before crossing the street. The other day he was going to the store for his mother. With him was his little dog, Zippy, who, in crossing the street, was hit by an auto.

Bobby went home sobbing and his mother finally quieted him enough so that he could say, "Mother, Zippy forgot to look." M. S.

Mary, aged 3, who had been visiting her aunt, on being asked whether she wanted to return home replied, "The half of me wants to go and the other half wants to stay. M. R.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Guitar Would Bring Joy.

"There is a poor old woman in her nineties and almost blind, who can still play the guitar. She has no amusement and if, in your kindness, you will try to find one for her it will be greatly appreciated. Mrs. F. R."

What a kind deed presenting this old woman with a guitar would be! There are almost no diverting or pleasant things for her to do, especially since she is handicapped with failing eyesight, and there would be no end to the enjoyment she would get out of such an instrument.

Paris Dressmakers Favor Gray Shades

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS.—[Special.]—Gray is spreading at a rapid rate over the style capital of the world. If women like this color half as much as the Paris couturiers do it will be one of the leading shades for spring. The dressmakers here are using heaps of a gray patterned woolen, which they often work two ways to make smart street ensembles. They take, for instance, a gray diagonal woolen and cut it up into a dress or coat, or both, so that part of the diagonal pattern goes one way and part another. Makes a pretty decorative effect, and is done so cleverly that a cutup effect is avoided.

As to the color, gray, it must be qualified instanter. The new grays are beautiful but false. They are all mixed up with pink, blue, lilac, or brown, so that what you see in smart Paris are pinky-grays, blue-grays, lilac-grays, and smoky-grays. This perfidiousness is reasonable. The adulterated grays are much more becoming to varying complexions, and the greatest good for the greatest number of women is the altruistic aim of fashion these days.

An ensemble showing the way that Paris handles gray woolen is illustrated. It is made by Germaine Lecomte who makes the kind of clothes you love to wear. The coat of smoky-gray wool crêpe is patterned with penline stripes of darker gray, which are placed horizontally in back and diagonally in front. This coat is fitted at the waistline and held by a belt across the back. It is cleverly trimmed with astrakan in the two grays of the wool, the collar being half and half and the light gray cuffs having circles of dark gray astrakan in front.

The dress of this ensemble, shown in the small sketch, has a skirt that matches the coat and a tuck-in diagonal jersey blouse, with a notched yoke, scarf yoke and cuffs of the same wool as the skirt. The clever and intricate cutting of both blouse and skirt give the model much distinction, and make it hard for the amateur to copy.

Seek $50,000 for New School for Unlucky Kids

Plans to raise $50,000 to build a new school unit for the Chicago Junior school, Elgin, were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the trustees in the Hotel La Salle. The school, maintained by a group of more than 1,000 Chicagoans, cares for children from broken homes and other underprivileged boys and girls from 4 to 14 years of age. With the new addition the present capacity of 52 is expected to be raised to 100. Harold Molter, president of the board, is directing the campaign for funds to be raised by voluntary gifts from members of the group.

MEN—UNLIMITED OPPORTUNITY.

We are selling the fastest moving specialty in the United States. The normal commission is $37.50 per sale. Men have made as high as five sales in one day. The minimum should be one sale per day. We are growing at a tremendous rate and expect to quickly develop the highest paid national specialty organization in America. We have spent a year's time and approximately $40,000 in developing and perfecting our sales plan. For merchandise and handling equipment we have already spent close to a quarter million dollars. We will spend a much greater amount in the near future.

We thoroughly instruct, train and equip the men we employ. We start these men in the field with salesmen who are already making big money. We work with them, help them in their territory and business interests. We demonstrate and prove our claims.

In a short time as soon as our sales organization in Chicago is half completed we will start a big radio broadcasting advertising campaign.

We have a sound, permanent, legitimate business. We are thoroughly established; we have the highest rating obtainable. We believe we have the biggest money making opportunity in the selling field today for men who are workers. A man's future is limited by his capacity and ambition. Dozens of managers and sales executives will be selected from our salesmen in the field. We prefer salesmen who have a real ambition, a $10,000 a year, who like to save money, who are hard workers, and can stand prosperity. Call at once. Room 1214, 6 N. Wabash-av. Call Central.
